Egyptians Claim U.S. Cheated

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahoud Riad accused the United States today of reneging on a pledge not to supply warplanes to Israel while Middle East peace efforts were underway.

He also denied U.S. and Israeli allegations that Egypt had violated the cease-fire by building SAM missile sites in the truce zone but said, "We did, however, use concrete instead of sandbags to protect some of the existing positions."

NO WEAKENING

Riad's was the first official enunciation of Egyptian policy since the death of President Gamal Abdel Nasser. It was scathing in its criticism of U.S. support of Israel and showed no indication that Cairo was weakening its demands in the Middle East.

He said when Washington discussed its peace initiative with Cairo last summer "the United States pledged to refrain from providing Israel with additional aircraft, as long as the initiative was under way."

"Zionist pressure has succeeded in putting an end to the American initiative," he said. "The United States reneged its commitment not to provide Israel with more aircraft and decided to supply it with additional weapons and planes at the same time as Israel officially announced its boycott of the talks" with U.N. Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

'NEW POSITIONS'

Riad said Israel set up "new positions and fortifications on our territory" which news correspondents described as resembling the Maginot Line in pre-World War II France, and the United States "considered this as maintenance work."

In an outspoken attack on U. S. policy in support of Israel, the Egyptian foreign minister declared:

"We consider it essential that the General Assembly be made aware of the serious implications in the U.S. demand that the United Arab Republic abandon its means of antiaircraft defense in the Suez Canal region as a precondition to setting in motion peace contacts. Such an American position is based on the

AND ICE CREAM, TOO

Buddies Bloated By Burger Binge

By GEORGE NEVIN

With dreams of sudden wealth in their eyes and bicarbonate of soda in their purses, three young women challenged the jumbo hamburger contest at the Palate Restaurant in Mill Valley yesterday.

Six and a-quarter hamburgers and countless French fries later, they had to admit defeat.

The girls, all from Stinson Beach, were attracted by a contest sponsored by restaurateur Harold Heller, who is offering $1,000 to any woman and $100 to any man who can chomp six giant Palateburgers and six portions of French fries in one hour.

The idea for the mass assault on Heller's wallet came yesterday morning when the girls saw a newspaper advertisement for the contest.

"Eat your way to fame and fortune," it said. "Winners must consume six jumbo Palateburgers (7 oz. each) on French bread or sesame bun with French fries (3 oz.) in one hour."

"It was a spur-of-the-moment thing but we really think we can do it," said Arlene Zweig, 21, chomping her way through her first sandwich with obvious zeal.

"I sure could use the money," said Rebecca Wipf, 22, attacking her burger with relish.

Karen McLaren, 18, agreed. "I can think of a dozen ways to spend it," she said as she devoured a pile of French fries.

Did they make any special preparations for the contest — fasting, perhaps? "No," said Miss McLaren, "fasting makes your stomach shrink. We don't want that."

Heller, dividing his time between the girls and three male contestants at another table, paused long enough to assess the effect of the contest on business.

"I can't say it's brought other customers in, but we sure have been selling a lot of Palateburgers," he said. Contest rules specify that unsuccessful contestants must pay for the food they consume.

"At this rate I might be able to break even for the man who won," he said, referring to Jerry Anderson of Mill Valley, who downed six burgers Tuesday and walked off with the prize and a stomachache.

As Heller hovered anxiously at the table, the girls gamely ordered their second round. "The first one was easy," they told each other. "Only five more to go." It began to look as if they might make it.

But with a fourth of her second burger down, Miss Zweig dropped out to cheer the others on. They gobbled their second sandwich and sent to the kitchen for more.

A short time later it was obvious they had encountered a classic case of eyes and purses being bigger than stomachs. They weren't going to make it.

Court Reversal Saves Public Tideland Rights

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The District Court of Appeal has reversed itself on a ruling that could have deprived Californians of their navigation and fishing rights over hundreds of thousands of acres of tidelands.

The previous ruling last year said that the 1874 legislative act that authorized the sale of tidelands in Tomales Bay had the effect of terminating the public's rights to these navigation and fishing easements over the disputed tideland parcel.

The result of the previous ruling was to set a precedent that tideland property owners had an unrestricted right to fill and develop their holdings, a precedent that led to the state attorney general and others to petition the court to reconsider the case. The court had made a legal error by ignoring precedents in similar cases, they argued.

The new ruling supercedes the previous one, holding simply that the original decision by Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was affirmed, and that the broad issue of public easements was not properly before the court.

Deputy Atty. Gen. E. Clement Shute Jr. termed the new ruling "an inconclusive victory." It at

Those Entering Federal Buildings With Packages Will Be Searched

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon Administration today ordered that guards make inspections of all persons carrying bags and packages into federal buildings throughout the nation.

As a result of a recent rash of bombs, The General Services Administration (GSA) previously had extended security hours to a 24-hour basis at federal buildings and ordered closure of unnecessary entrances. It alos gave guards discretion to inspect any suspicious-looking objects carried into the buildings.

The inspection order was broadened today after severl persons reported they had carried odd-looking objects into important government buildings without being challenged. The GSA told guards to ask all persons carrying bags, packages and brief cases to open them for inspection.

The GSA has about 3,500 guards throughout the nation, and about 1,800 of them are in Washington. The order does not apply to the White House and the Capitol, which have their own guards.

"We're not trying to panic people," a GSA spokesman said. "But it's a psychological thing. If a person has to walk in front of a guard he's not likely to carry in something dangerous."

The spokesman said that so far there had been no instances in which inspections had turned up any dangerous objects being taken into the buildings.

Troops Arrest 227 Quebec Terrorists

Canada Sees Suspension Of Liberties

In an unprecedented peacetime action, the government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau enacted laws subjecting FLQ members — and their helpers — to maximum jail terms of five years.

SEVERAL RAIDS

Trudeau announced his move while combat-ready troops and police swept Montreal and the province of Quebec in coordinated raids that netted hundreds of suspected extremists.

The action followed in the wake of the kidnapings of a British diplomat and a Canadian government official by the FLQ who demanded the release of 23 FLQ members currently in prison on various charges as ransom.

By outlawing the FLQ its members will be regarded as persons who "advocate, promote, or engage in the use of force or the commission of criminal offenses as a means of accomplishing governmental change within Canada."

POLICE SWEEP

Police and army troops, bolstered by an additional 750 airborne paratroopers, swept through the province arresting suspected members of the organizaion which seeks secession of French speaking Quebec from the rest of Canada.

A total of 3,750 troops were ordered into Montreal "chiefly to guard military installations in the Montreal area," a military spokesman said.

The FLQ had threatened from Paris earlier this week to blow up air and rail installations throughout Canada.

The latest government move followed Prime Minister Trudeau's invocation of the War Emergencies Act which empower the government to suspend civil liberties.

Legal experts said the act falls short of martial law since the military in this case is answerable to civil authorities.

East Petalumans Plead Slowdown

By BONNIE BARD

East Petalumans forcefully put the message across last night — in quiet pleas mixed with shouts — that annexations and development must slow down until schools and services can meet existing needs.

In a sometimes strained three hour session with the Petaluma Planning Commission, the residents of East Petaluma called schools and parks totally inadequate and urged the city not to add to the burden by approving still more subdivisions.

Many of the residents demanded that the city require developers to provide land for schools, parks and open space before building plans are approved.

Planning Director William C. McGivern read lengthy state laws to the standing-room-only crowd at city hall governing land development and explained that the city council policy is to give the developer a choice of either dedicating land or paying a bedroom tax of $80 per home.

He explained that the nondedication policy was prepared with the cooperation of developers and said those cities requiring dedication have alienated developers.

Shouting residents from the rear of the room asked, "Who's running Petaluma, anyway? The developers or the city council?"

Meyer said that developers often put land aside for the city to buy, but that the city hasn't had the money to pay for it.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert noted that developers can be required to donate school and park land only if their projects exceed 400 units, and McGivern reported that most subdivisions have been developed in units of 50-60 homes.

Resorting to shouts again, the crowd accused the devel-

Jury Upholds Guard, Indicts Kent Students

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—A special state grand jury today absolved Ohio National Guardsmen of blame in the fatal shooting of four Kent State University students and indicted 25 students and "agitators" for "deliberate, criminal conduct."

The grand jury said guardsmen acted in self defense when they fired a volley into a group of students on the Kent State campus last May 4 during a demonstration protesting President Nixon's decision to widen the war into Cambodia.

Those indicted were not identified and a spokesman said they would not be until placed under arrest. Arrests were expected to be made shortly, the spokesman said.

The charges were expected to include assault and battery and trespassing, but Robert Balyeat, who headed the grand jury investigation refused to spell out the offenses at a brief news conference.

But when he was asked if narcotics charges were included in the offenses, Balyeat said: "That would be for a separate grand jury."

The panel said the "major responsibility" for the campus incidents of last spring "rests clearly with those persons who are charged with the administration of the university."

The report by the special grand jury differed sharply with the report issued by the President's Commission on Campus Unrest which held an inquiry into the Kent shootings.

The commission blamed the shootings equally on students and guardsmen and said National Guard troops should

Reinecke Says State Will Not Negotiate In Kidnappings

Extremist groups reportedly considering kidnapping public officials in California to win freedom for jailed comrades were warned last night by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke that such exchanges would not be made.

"This needs to be very clear," Reinecke told the Independent-Journal. "We're not going to negotiate. Positively not. You can't negotiate with crooks."

Reinecke, acknowledging the administration had heard that kidnappings may occur, said he had not discussed the threat with Gov. Ronald Reagan, but said, "I'm sure the governor would agree with me.

"I wouldn't expect it (exchange) in my case," Reinecke said.

(United Press International reported that Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said yesterday that government officials had been alerted to the danger of kidnapping and other threats from extremist groups. He said congressmen had been warned to be "very careful." A spokesman for Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, however, said there was no federal government alert.

(Saxbe said the only way to halt "political blackmail" before it starts is to make it a federal crime for officials to give in to it.)

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Innocent Verdict

ATLANTA (UPI) — An all-white jury deliberated for more than three and one-half hours Thursday before returning a verdict of not guilty in the case of two white Atlanta policemen accused of killing a Negro teenager.

One of the defendants, J. T. Hasty, burst into tears when the verdict was read and more than a dozen policemen in the court applauded. The other defendant, J. M. Colbert, displayed no emotion.

The two officers were charged with voluntary manslaughter in the death of Andre Moore, 15, on Aug. 4. They testified they fired at the youth because he threw a rock at them and they feared for their lives.

Center Blast

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — An explosion at a police community relations center in the city's Negro district blew out a door Thursday night, sending splinters and flying glass into a room where two policemen were filing reports.

Kenneth Fleming, 38, and Charles Robinson, 30, were hospitalized in satisfactory condition, Fleming with severe scalp lacerations and Robinson with cuts on his back and legs. Two other officers escaped injury.

Minutes after the blast three young men was arrested a block and a half away in a car. Police blocked off the area and stationed guards through the night in case of further trouble.

$325,000 Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The trial of Charles Manson and three codefendants has cost local government more than $325,000 to date, a county official said today.

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, who keeps track of the costs, issued a semi-monthly report with a total of $332,661. This breaks down into $100,000 for the cost of the city investigation of the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six others last August; and $232,661 to the county for costs directly connected with the trial, now in its fifth month.

The cost of maintaining the jury of 12 and five alternates, sequestered from the news media at a downtown hotel, is $1,500 a day. This includes salaries of nine sheriff's deputies, a round-the-clock guard. It costs $500-$600 a day to feed and house the jurors, Hahn said.

Passenger Airlift

ISTANBUL (UPI) — A Soviet Aeroflot airliner flew into the northern Turkish town of Trabzon today to pick up 46 passengers hijacked to Turkey Thursday by a Lithuanian father and son in the first known hijacking of a Russian airliner.

The airliner brought with it an Aeroflot crew to fly back the hijacked plane, an AN24 twinengiiner turboprop airliner. The hostess was killed and the two pilots and a passenger aboard the AN24 were wounded in the hijacking.

The Soviet Union asked for extradition of the two hijackers, although there is no extradition treaty between Turkey and Russia. The Turks said they would act accordingly to "humanitarian consideration" but did not clarify the statement. The father and son were held on criminal charges.

Subway Robbery

NEW YORK (UPI) -- About 200 students robbed and beat passengers on a southbound subway under Manhattan Thursday afternoon.

The students, beleived to be from George Washington High School and Public School 143, got on the train at noontime. Outside the 181st Street station they pulled the emergency cord and terrorized the passengers while the train was stopped. Some were threatened at knifepoint.

Police conducted a lineup of students in the station, but none of the victims could identify his attacker and no arrests were made.

Typhoon's Course

HONG KONG (UPI) — Typhoon Joan bore down on the coast of Communist China today, threatening the mainland's Kwangtung province with 60-mile-per-hour winds and torrential rains. The death from the storm in the Philippines was still rising.

Peking Radio said the typhoon was due to hit the Chinese coast in the next 36 hours, striking first on the Chinese Communist island of Hainan off the North Vietnamese coast.

33 Bridge Deaths

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Police said today 33 persons were known dead in the collapse of Australia's biggest bridge and the death toll could go to 45. Construction unions banned for the time being further work on the span.

$7.5 Million Cathedral Dedicated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An old red brick cathedral on a hill was destroyed by fire eight years ago. From its ashes rose a spectacular new structure which has provoked both enthusiasm and controversy.

St. Mary's Cathedral, after five years of work and expenditure of $7.5 million, was dedicated Thursday with a huge mass in English accompanied by guitar music and folk songs.

An estimated 1,500 persons turned out during the morning hours and sat beneath massive concrete wings which were supported by the cathedral's four monolithic concrete piers. The interior is 190 feet high and encompasses 40,000 square feet of floor space.

The cathedral also was derided. Critics said the millions of dollars devoted to constructing the church should have gone toward helping the poor.

Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken defended the cathedral project, saying the money was given specifically for the cathedral. He said the donors also are contributors to an annual fund of more than $2 milliom.

St. Mary's was designed by Pier Luigi Nervi, Pietro Belluschi and the firm of McSweeney, Ryan and Lee.

Byrd Rakes Scranton Report On Campuses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Suggesting that many students on university campuses have no business being there, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., told President Nixon today a partial solution to campus unrest may be creation of more vocation schools and junior colleges.

In a letter and 16-page report to the President which was highly-critical of the Scranton Commission report on unrest, Byrd attacked the so-called racial quota system of many colleges.

"The great flaw of such a system is that young men and women who cannot do college level work are admitted — even recruited — with inevitably disruptive results," he said.

"Perhaps many of us are guilty of helping to create the myth that every person should have a college education," Byrd wrote. "The truth of the matter is that many people on campus today have absolutely no business being there."

He told Nixon the report rightfully criticized the "bigness' of many of the universities, but said the Scranton commission "fails to recommend that at least a partial solution to this bigness would be the establishment of more vocational schools and junior colleges."

Byrd said the report "is in itself inflammatory," adding that it contained "glaring loopholes and flaws."

SEN. ROBERT BYRD
"Irresponsible politics"

The West Virginia Democrat, third-ranking member of the party's Senate leadership, also disputed the Scranton commission's contention that Nixon's role was an issue in the unrest, and the war and race issues had fed the fires of student protest.

He said the report's "effort to blame the President for a situation which existed long prior to his election may have violated the commission's own admonition that no one play irresponsible politics with the issue of campus unrest."

Philadelphia: 271 Schools Strike-Bound

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Federation of Teachers (PFT) went on strike in the city's 271 public schools today, defying a court order.

It was the second time this semester the PFT, representing the majority of the city's 11,500 teachers, stayed out of the classrooms.

The strike was called after marathon bargaining conducted by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer at the state capitol in Harrisburg broke off at 3:40 a.m. EDT without an agreement. The unsolved issues included wages, length of the high school day, accountability and teacher absenteeism.

The school board said the schools would remain open for the city's 295,000 pupils, using parents, substitutes and non-striking teachers in the classrooms. The PFT's rival teacher' group, Philadelphia Education Association, said its members would continue to work.

Judge Theodore L. Reimel issued an injunction Wednesday forbidding a teachers' strike. Reimel, acting on a petition from the Home and School Council, said a walkout would cause "irreparable harm."

Reds Push Closer To A Key Village

PHNOM PENH (UPI)--Communist troops pushed to within rifle sho, of a village only 20 miles north of Phnom Penh today and field reports described the situation as "critical." Radio contact with the village, Rokar Kong, was lost for a time.

U. S. headquarters in Saigon said radar-guided B52 Stratofortresses ignored bad weather spawned by a typhoon and concentrated their full fury on the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in Laos for the eighth consecutive day.

Communist pressures on Rokar Kong coincided with an eight-hour bombardment against the town of Skoun, 35 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, which serves as the supply center for a major Cambodian offensive along Highway 6. But no ground attack followed the raid and Cambodian spokesmen said government forces there were well dug in and protected.

UPI correspondents reporting from Rokar Kong said a Communist force of undetermined size tried to push into the northern end of the town of 3,000 residents late Thursday. But Cambodian officers said the Communists were driven back.

Lt. Chim Savang, a company commander at Rokar Kong, said his latest intelligence indicated that about 300 North Vietnamese infantrymen were positioned less than 200 yards from the center of town.

"Our situation is critical at Rokar King," Savang said. "But we will only get quite worried when the attack comes. It does no good to worry before."

Savang said the North Vietnamese were elements of the 165th regiment, a unit which moved into the Phnom Penh area last week. Rokar Kong is the site of Cambodia's only gin distillery. There were unconfirmed reports earlier that the town had been overrun.

Last Sunday, elements of the same North Vietnamese regiment overran Cambodian positions at Daun Lom, 800 yards north of Rokar Kong. In that fighting, six Cambodians were killed, two wounded and 26 captured.

Meanwhile, President Nguyen Van Thieu said today he was in complete agreement with President Nixon's five-point peace proposal for Indochina and hoped the Communists' rejection of the plan is not final.

"I keep hearing rumors that we have a cold attitude on the peace initiatives extended by President Nixon," Thieu said. "I want to state a clear denial of that attitude. We have agreed together on all initiatives or peace proposals . . ."

This new car is the best reason not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle.

In a year when every car maker seems to be giving you one reason or another not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle, it might be a good idea to listen to the best reason:

Volkswagen's Super Beetle.

It has almost twice the luggage space as the Beetle of yesteryear.

It has a longer-lasting, more powerful engine.

It has a new suspension system for a smoother ride.

It has a flow-through ventilation system to bring in fresh air when the windows are closed.

The interior is, to be honest, much nicer.

The floor, for example, is fully carpeted.

In all, it has 89 things you could never find on a Beetle.

So of all the claims you'll hear this year by car makers that their cars are "better than a Beetle," there's only one car maker with 25 years experience in small cars to back it up.

Volkswagen.

Tiny Turnout In College Balloting

About 190 College of Marin students (out of a possible 5,616) turned out yesterday and Wednesday to cast ballots for nine student body positions.

Student body president Chris Arend yesterday blamed the less than 4 per cent turnout of voters on a "lack of communication."

The election was called to elect new officers to positions which had been filled in May but vacated because of resignations, academic disqualifications and student transfers.

Other election results are: secretary — Melody Misciagna, 106, and Sally Pugh, 67; treasurer — Kenneth Bott, 150; college center commissioner — David M. Biggs, 141, and Michael Satterlee, 47; sophomore women's representative — Mariam Forristal, 88, and Rena Robinett, 77; sophomore men's representative — David N. Pfeiffer, 11, and Galen Dunham, 63; freshman women's representative — Lou Pender, 135; and freshman men's representative — Brad Totten, 90, and Richmond Young, 81. There were no candidates for public relations commissioner.

Belvedere Reporter Wins Confidence Issue

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Superior Court judge ruled Thursday that a newspaper reporter did not have to testify at a murder trial.

The decision concerned Mrs. Mary Crawford of Belvedere, a San Francisco Examiner reporter who obtained an exclusive interview with Jose Rios, one of six youths with Spanish surnames who are charged with killing a policeman.

Prosecutor Thomas Norman summoned Mrs. Crawford to the witness stand, where she declared she did not want to testify for the defense or the prosecution because that would damage her reputation for impartiality.

Judge Lawrence Mana at first decided she would have to testify after she said the source of her story appeared in the article.

An attorney who represented Mrs. Crawford in behalf of the Examiner and the San Francisco-Oakland Newspaper Guild appeared later and a 1955 decision of the Third District Court of Appeal ruling was produced.

That court held that a newsman does not have to reveal his source even if it was previously mentioned in a story.

Judge Mana changed his mind then, saying he felt there were differences in the articles, but "I don't know if they are substantial enough for me to take contrary action."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew defended former President Lyndon B. Johnson Thursday against what Agnew called a "degrading" attack by 1968 Democratic presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey.

Agnew called Humphrey "the political turncoat of the year" for saying Johnson was "paranoid" about the Vietnam War.

The vice president, campaigning in central Florida for Gov. Claude Kirk, seeking reelection, and Congressman William Cramer, seeking a U.S. Senate seat, later addressed a rally at Orlando. He scheduled a news conference today at the Bay Hill Country Club at Windermere, where he will spend the weekend golfing.

Agnew said he had read excerpts from an interview (in the New York Times Sunday Magazine) in which Humphrey was quoted as saying one reason he failed to take a firm stand for an end to the Vietnam war at the 1968 Democratic Convention was that "I had a president who was absolutely paranoid about the war ..."

"I know President Johnson and I respect him," Agnew said. "He was not paranoid about the war. When Mr. Humphrey says that in 1970, he viciously attacks a man without whom he would have never been vice president of the United States or a presidential candidate."

"Nobody will ever accuse me of degrading the man whom it was my high honor to serve," Agnew said.

At the Orlando rally, Agnew compared Kirk to himself. He recalled the governor's Jacksonville confrontation with black militant leader H. Rap Brown several years ago.

"It took guts and it took flare," Agnew said, "and if any politician tells you Claude Kirk is a little on the colorful side, take it from one who knows: many a time a man with serious goals has to use colorful language and dramatic actions to get important messages through the media to the people."

Novato Fall Trash Bash Fails City

Novato's fall cleanup campaign scheduled for tomorrow and Oct. 24, has failed to draw volunteer workers, Renee Kiff, cochairman of the Fall Trash Bash, has reported.

"We have 600 children volunteering to clean up the streets from the Scouts and 4-H groups but the teen-agers and adults have failed us," she said.

Only two Parent-Teacher Association groups have volunteered and 30 students from San Marin High School, she said.

"We tried to do this on a voluntary basis to save the city money," she said.

Ctiy Mgr. Charles A. Brown said that this does not mean the end of the semiannual cleanup campaigns. The cleanup committee is a subcommittee of the city beautification committee. It will be up to the beautification committee to determine the future course of cleanup campaigns, Brown said.

"The city budgeted the money for the cleanup campaigns, ($6,000) but this group wanted to try it on a voluntary basis," Brown said.

In the past the city has hired teen-agers to work on the streets and parkways and paid the trucks and city crews to haul away the trash. Last spring, the city spent $2,557 in the cleanup.

"It looks as though it will not work as a voluntary campaign," Brown said.

'Hee Haw' Star Suffers Attack

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Louis Marshall Jones, who is "Grandpa Jones" on the Grand Ole Opry and the "Hee Haw" television show, has been hospitalized in critical condition after a heart attack.

Jones, who keeps his age a secret but is believed to be in his 60's, was stricken at his farm home late Tuesday. A hospital spokesman said late Thursday he was "having a better day but his condition still is critical."

The whiskered cornpone humorist and banjo picker is considered a legend in the country music field and has influenced virtually every country and folk music personality of the past 30 years.

1,000-Mile Hiking Trail Is Proposed

A John Muir trail of the Pacific Coast stretching from Oregon to Mexico was proposed yesterday by Dr. William K. Kortum of Petaluma, Democratic candidate in the First Congressional District.

Kortum, who was a founder and president of Californians Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands (COAAST) said he visualizes an eventual 1,000-mile long park on tidal lands.

"This can't be built overnight," Kortum said, "Legal, engineering, private property and right-of-way problems must be slowly resolved."

But, he said, "there are vast areas of the coast already under government control where the trail could be started now."

The 1,072-mile California coastline includes 660 miles in private hands, 353 miles publicly owned and available for recreation and another 50 miles owned by the public but not open for recreation, he reported.

Kortum said he envisioned the possibility of pouring the energy of young people into the project and said a national service corps of 2,000 to 3,000 students could work on the trail.

Saying that young people should also be directed into other areas of public service, Kortum said, "The United States is missing the boat for not directing this energy."

"The coast is fragile and this project must be done with sensitivity," he said in a press conference at his Cotati headquarters.

Kortum said he would work further for the establishment of a coastal conservation and development commission that could regulate coastal building and his proposed trail.

Government Moves To Halt Hit-Run Pickets

The federal government moved yesterday to halt hit-run picketing of stores which have continued to advertise in the Independent-Journal, struck by printers nearly 10 months ago.

U.S. marshals, moving quickly through Central Marin, served pickets — all of whom identified themselves a Teamsters — with papers ordering them to cease picketing or face citations of criminal contempt under the National Labor Relations Act.

However, pickets were seen again today at several locations, now carrying signs saying they represented the Seafarers' and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's unions.

In an incident related to the serving of papers yesterday, the tires on a car carrying two federal marshals and on another belonging to Bob Hax, an Independent-Journal photographer, were slashed at the Northgate Shopping Center.

The marshals had just served papers in downtown San Rafael and were parked near the Lucky Store in Terra Linda at 3 p.m. when the vandalism occurred.

I-J Publisher Wishard A. Brown appealed to witnesses to the incident to notify San Rafael police.

Petrini's Market in Greenbrae announced yesterday it was canceling its advertising in the Independent-Journal because pickets at his store had thwarted delivery of goods for two days.

"If I can't get merchandise, I can't advertise anyway," he said.

Nathan Berke, attorney for the Independent-Journal, said that the picketing violated a restraining order issued in February against attempted union stoppage of newsprint bound for the I-J and a temporary injunction issued in April against illegal picketing of I-J advertisers. Both orders were issued in U.S. District in San Francisco.

Bay Area trucking companies reported continued difficulty yesterday in making deliveries to Central Marin stores and one trucking official, Michael McMahon, terminal manager for Alltrans Express in San Francisco, said the only driver he dispatched into the San Rafael area today was "kicked out after three stops."

"They (pickets) said if they caught him anymore, they'd send him back with slashed tires," McMahon said.

A truck dispatched yesterday by Associated Freight Lines in Cotati returned, a terminal spokesman said, when the driver was halted and harrassed by pickets. No delivery was made to the area today, the spokesman said, because the driver "didn't want to return."

never again go on a college campus with loaded weapons. The grand jury, however, endorsed the use of live ammunition by guardsmen when needed.

In its report the president's commission concluded: "The actions of some students were violent and criminal, and those of some others were dangerous, reckless and irresponsible. The indiscriminate firing of rifles into a crowd of students and the deaths that followed were unnecessary, unwarranted and inexcusable."

Meanwhile, in Washington, the Justice Department said it is "evaluating" the grand jury report and investigators will reexamine the situation to determine if any federal action is required.

Federal investigators were reported to have concluded earlier that the shootings were unnecessary and that there was no evidence to support reports of sniper fire.

Assistant Attorney General Jerris Leonard, chief of the Civil Rights Division, told reporters Aug. 9 that the government had insufficient evidence to support the presence of sniper fire at either Kent State or Jackson State in Mississippi, where two students were killed by police bullets May 15.

The state grand jury here said the students at the campus rally quickly "degenerated into a riotous mob" when ordered by a Kent State University policeman to disperse.

"It is obvious that if the order to disperse had been heeded, there would not have been the consequences of that fateful day," the report said. "Those who acted as participants and agitators are guilty of deliberate, criminal conduct.

"Those who were present as cheerleaders and onlookers, while not liable for criminal acts, must morally assume a part of the responsibility for what occurred."

The report emphasized that the panel, made up of 15 residents from Portage County, felt the Ohio guardsmen fired in self defense when the four students were killed and nine were wounded.

"We find . . . that those members of the National Guard who were present on the hill adjacent to Taylor Hall on May 4, 1970 fired their weapons in the honest and sincere belief and under circumstances which would have logically caused them to believe that they would suffer bodily injury had they not done so.

"They are not, therefore, subject to criminal prosecution under the laws of this state, for any death or injury resulting therefrom."

The report said 58 Guardsmen were struck by rocks and other objects hurled at them as they moved in formation in the vicinity of the group of students.

The panel said the Kent State administration has "fostered an attitude of laxity, over-indulgence and permissiveness with its students and faculty."

"The evidence presented to us has established that Kent State University was in such a state of disrepair, that it was totally incapable of reacting to the situation in any effective manner," the report said.

The panel said the fact that it found the guardsmen who fired the weapons had "acted in self defense" does not mean it condoned the actions of guard officers.

BURGERS

Finally the eating stopped, and Misses McLaren and Wipf surrendered to the obvious — There simply isn't enough room in a girl's stomach for half a dozen Palateburgers.

The young women stared dismally at their plates, where the remains of three hamburgers and a few forlorn French fries sulked. "It would take a pretty big girl to eat six of them," Miss Zweig observed. The others burped their agreement.

Then they surprised Heller and everyone but themselves by ordering ice cream sundaes. "I'm never too full for ice cream," Miss Zweig said. "Besides, you don't have to chew it. That's half the work with hamburgers."

Leader Slain

MANILA (UPI) — Pedro Taruc, "Supremo" of the Communist Huk guerrillas, was killed today by two civilian informers while government troops surrounded Taruc's hideout.

Army spokesmen said Taruc, who had evaded capture since the Huks were formed in 1942 to fight the Japanese, was shot down in his home in Tibagan village north of Angeles City, 50 miles north of here, at about 2 p.m.

assumption that any capability possessed by Egypt to defend itself against American bombers in Israeli raids would restrict Israel's chances of imposing its expansionist plans on the Arab countries."

Riad said Egypt entered negotiations under the auspices of Gunnar V. Jarring, special U.N. Middle East envoy, in good faith, but added:

"There could be no peace in the Middle East unless Israel withdraws from all the territories it occupied as a result of its June, 1967, aggression, and recognizes the rights of the Palestinian people."

In Cairo, the government announced that Anwar Sadat, the handpicked successor to President Gamal Abdel Nasser, had been overwhelmingly acclaimed as president for a six-year term. He pledged to carry out Nasser's Middle East aspirations.

Egypt's policy already had been shaped by Nasser—strict Israeli adherence to the 1967 U. N. Security Council resolution calling for an Israeli pullback from conquered territories.

Israel in turn made it clear to U. N. diplomats that should the General Assembly take up an anti-Israel position Israel would consider itself no longer bound by the Security Council resolution. Prospects for any early settlement would be dimmed further, U. N. diplomats admitted.

In Amman, the truce between King Hussein's government and the Palestinian guerrillas was, the guerrillas claimed, violated by police seizure of the guerrilla newspaper Fatah.

One man was killed Thursday night when shooting broke out between guerrillas and security police who stopped a car loaded with copies of the newspaper. The police seized the four passengers in downtown Amman and set the vehicle on fire.

In Washington, the Nixon administration, in its consideration of Middle East peace prospects, is placing more and more emphasis on the need to satisfy the political aspiartions of the Palestinian Arabs, including the hundreds of thousands of refugees.

U. S. hopes for a Middle East settlement were still pinned to the peace initiative begun by Secretary of State William P. Rogers who won a cease-fire and the promise of Israel and Egypt to hold consultations through U. N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden.

Angela's Party Calls For Rally On Extradition

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Communist Party of the U.S.A., confirming that Angela Davis had been a member of the party for years, called for a rally today to protest her possible extradition to California on kidnapping and murder charges.

Party General Secretary Gus Hall called the charges against the black militant philosophy instructor a fraud and a frameup and urged a movement of "national proportions" to free the 26-year-old revolutionary.

"She is gulity of no crime save she is a black woman courageously fighting a racist policy of government," Hall said. "Through Angela Davis's arrest and persecution, the government seeks to terrorize all who fight against racism."

Miss Davis is accused of buying the guns used in the Marin County Hall of Justice shootout in which four persons were killed including a judge who was abducted from a courtroom.

Jean-Wearing Attorney Is Fined $100

A young militant attorney who prefers to wear jeans and a corduroy jacket to court ran headon into the black-robed establishment yesterday and got fined $100 for his garb.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., Marin Municipal Court judge who has been known to send jurors home to put on neckties, took a dim view of the outfit worn by attorney Peter Pipe when he came into his courtroom Wednesday.

Yesterday when Pipe, who lives in Mill Valley, showed up again still in jeans, the jacket, a sport shirt and no tie, the judge found him in contempt and fined him for "disrespect to the court."

He also said that Pipe's client had not been represented by an attorney and forfeited his bail because he was not in court.

Pipe, 28, who sees himself as a representative of the street people, said today, "He's asking us to come in off the streets and to quit throwing bombs in his courtroom. Then he won't let us in.

"I dress in a manner acceptable to my peers," he added, emphasizing that his jeans were clean and that he had had a shower yesterday morning.

He also accused the judge of depriving his client, Elwood Wright, whom he described as a transient, of his right to choose his own attorney in his drunken driving case.

Denied his request to go to jail instead of paying the fine within 30 days, Pipe said he intends to appeal the contempt proceedings in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Goldstein told him that "the courts are under tremendous pressure these days" and that Pipe ought to have more respect for his profession.

In martial law, the military is supreme.

The new laws curb habeas corpus rights, allowing persons to be held without charge for up to 21 days. They can be held for seven days without being brought before a judge, which previously could be done only under special permission from the provincial attorney general.

Within the first few hours, Quebec provincial and Montreal police announced 227 persons had been arrested in four Quebec cities, Montreal, Quebec City, Rimouski and Chicoutimi. There were more arrests than search warrants.

The War Emergencies Act, invoked only twice before—never in peacetime—suspends civil liberties and permits police to make arrests, searches and seizures without warrant, and denies citizens' rights of appeal against police action.

Among those reported under arrest were Robert Lemieux, lawyer for the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ) terrorist groups who kidnaped two political hostages and touched off the gravest crisis in Trudeau's two-and-a-half-year administration.

Grim-faced and determined, Trudeau said the War Emergencies Act was implemented on the basis of information from civic and provincial authorities that a state of "apprehended insurrection" existed in Quebec. Other grounds for invoking the act are war or invasion.

Trudeau did not indicate what evidence was set forth to back the conclusion of the Quebec authorities.

opers of skillfully squeezing through a loophole in the law.

Residents complained that lack of school space caused their children to be bussed across town to five other schools or to go on double sessions.

Meyer received further abuse from the crowd when he maintained the city policy had no direct relation to the school crowding problems.

Mayor Helen Putnam was also the subject of scorn with a teacher's review of the history of growth in East Petaluma, but promised that the city council, planning commission and two city schools districts will work together to gather all available information to be aired at another mass meeting.

Frank Thomas, president of the East Petaluma Civic Association, said firmly, "the time has come to stop the rhetoric." He reported receiving many irate telephone calls, but none criticizing the school systems. Throwing the problem back into the lap of the city, Thomas asked what park sites had been set aside for purchase from bedroom tax revenue.

McGivern pointed to two small sites at La Tercera School and St. Francis Drive. "We're now implementing the plans and are in negotiation," McGivern said.

Meyer reminded the residents that a $100,000 park development bond issue failed two years ago.

Residents responded by urging another bond issue be tried to provide enough money to complete at least one park on the east side.

Daniel Plumley, 1629 Annetta Drive, complained that no improvement had been made at eastside parks in six years, with the exception of five acres of grass at Lucchesi Park. He called McDowell Park "a disaster" and urged that a park similar to McNear Park on the west side be completed as soon as possible.

Meyer said that 75 trees had been planted at McDowell Park, but that all had been destroyed by vandals.

Deciding the city had given up plans to develop the site, the residents called for a "peoples park" and said they would organize the school children to bring it about.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, who serves on the recreation, music and parks commission, said the need is apparent and that the commission intended to keep westside parks "status quo" and to pour all new funds to eastside parks.

While planning commission chairman Paul Stanley promised vaguely to hold another meeting "in the near future," no date was set.

"We don't want people to think you just let them come here to get their problems off their chests," Thomas said. "Let's schedule the meeting after Nov. 3 when it can't be confused with the campaign issues. 'This problem is not an election issue. We plan to carry through on it as long as it takes.' "

State Seeks Bids For Petaluma Road

The state Division of Highways announced it has called for bids Nov. 18 in Sacramento to widen four miles of the Petaluma-Sonoma Highway east of Petaluma.

Bridges over Ellis and Wheat Creeks also will be replaced. A total of $815,000 is available for the project.

COURT

least lifted the cloud the previous ruling put over the public easements, he said, but on the other hand it did not affirm these easements.

Shute said the ruling would be appealed to the California Supreme Court to affirm the easements.

It took the three-justice court 13 months to reconsider its previous ruling. Both rulings were written by Associate Justice James R. Agee, and concurred in by Presiding Justice Daniel R. Shoemaker and Associate Justice Wakefield Taylor.

The original case was on a suit filed by Larry H. Marks Jr., who wanted to fill and develop a tidelands parcel he claims in Tomales Bay. Peter D. Whitney, owner of an adjacent upland parcel, objected that public navigation and fishing rights over Marks's parcel barred Marks from filling it.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner ruled he could find no state or public right involved over Marks's parcel, and ruled in favor of Marks. Whitney appealed to the District Court of Appeal, where he now has lost twice.

Whityeny was joinedi n his appeal by the attorney general's office, State Lands Commission, San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and Sierra Club.

Marks was joined by Westbay Community Associates, which claims extensive tidelands in San Francisco Bay.

Judge Gardiner's ruling acknowledged that "it is possible that the state has retained some public rights. These may be expressed and controlled only by the state and not by a private individual. No attempt will be made to adjudicate herein the existence of extent of any possible reserved control which may yet be handled by the state tidelands commission except between the parties.

"Neither the state nor the tidelands commission are parties to this action. Defendant Whitney does not own the public rights and can neither express nor control them."

The effect of the new ruling of the District Court of Appeal thus was to rescind its own addition to Judge Gardiner's ruling — the implication that sale of the tidelands had severed the public easements.

Marin City CSD Names New Chief

Daniel F. Winters of Marin City last night was named executive director of the Marin City Community Services District. Winters, who has been with the services district nine years, will replace Harold Brooks who resigned from the $10,800 a year post Sept .17.

Winters was formerly Brooks's assistant and before that served as building superintendent for the district.

The new exeuctive director said he plans to focus his efforts on recreation "because we are behind in that now." He said economic development in the community, which had been Brooks's chief goal, will have "to wait for a while."

His first goal, he said, will be a baseball diamond for Marin City youngsters.

Winters resides at 723 Drake Avenue.

Kennel Is Approved On Atherton Avenue

A breeding and training kennel for up to 10 dogs will be allowed at 875 Atherton Avenue near Novato.

Ralph D. Cairns, deputy zoning administrator for Marin County, approved a use permit yesterday for Robert Comaduran Jr., who will buy the 2.5-acre site to breed and train Irish wolfhounds and Saint Bernards.

Cairns granted the use permit on a year-to-year basis on condition that no commercial use except to breed and train, no advertising signs be posted and the dogs be kept indoors at night and create no neighborhood nuisance.

Comaduran siad he would erect a six-foot high redwood fence around the property, with trees for screening. Another seven-foot inner fence will be built around the kennel area.

W.A. Cox of 873 Atherton Avenue said he would have no objection, as long as the kennel is not used to board other dogs.

Cairns also granted a variance to Albert Swanson to build a home at 288 Morningsun Avenue, Mill Valley, on a lot that is a legal non-conforming building site of only 3,000 square feet. Cairns approved a home with 1,275 square feet of floor area instead of the maximum 1,000 square feet allowed for a lo that size.

Oakland Airport To Top Bay Area In Volume By '85

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Oakland could be the San Francisco Bay Area's largest airport by 1985, a federally-aided study of the Association of Bay Area Governments showed Thursday.

If it is assumed that equal air service is provided by then to the area's three airports, San Francisco would rank second with San Jose third, the study continued.

By that year, the study continued, Oakland would handle 29 million passengers annually, San Francisco 24 million and San Jose Municipal Airport 18 million.

If equal service is not provided by airlines, San Francisco International Airport would exceed its capacity of from 25 million to 30 million between 1975 and 1980, the study concluded.

The study cost a half-million dollars, with $335,000 coming from the federal government.

MOVIE STAR FACES OBSCURITY

The elderly, but still water-tight African Queen, made famous in the title role in a movie starring Humphrey Bogart and Katherine Hepburn, sits unused in a San Rafael boatyard. The 58-year-old metal-hulled craft which Bogart sailed and dragged through an African swamp in the 1951 film was purchased in 1967 by San Francisco restaurateur Frederick Reeve to raise funds for cancer research. Refitted in San Rafael, the queen made a national fund raising tour in 1968 with Bogart memorabilia, but now languishes at San Rafael Marine Repair.

Union Rests Without Any Defense Evidence

Union attorneys rested without presenting any defense evidence yesterday, after attorneys for the Independent-Journal completed seven days of evidence in a contempt hearing. The case arises from the Valentine's Day riot outside the I-J on Feb. 14.

Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating said he would rule on the case no sooner than 35 days from now, after both sides present briefs and rebuttals. Keating signed an injunction order Jan. 28, setting down 15 restrictions on picketing, threats, and other strike actions which the I-J contended were violated.

Named as "contemnors" in the I-J action were International Typographical Union Local 21, its president Leon Olson, vice president John J. DeMartini, representative Donald H. Abrams; Periodical and Newspapers Drivers Local 921, its president Jack Goldberger and secretary-treasurer Al Vergez, and the Marin and San Francisco labor councils.

Three attorneys representing the various defendants each moved yesterday for dismissal of the charges against their clients. Judge Keating took the motions under submission.

Final witnesses as the I-J attorneys finished their case earlier yesterday were San Rafael police officers Charles S. Brobeck and Richard A. Douglas.

Brobeck described watching the beginning of the rally from the balcony of a building on Julia Street opposite the I-J. He said demonstrators began hurling objects at the vantage point, forcing police to retreat indoors.

Douglas, who headed the arrest squads that took a dozen persons into custody during the Valentine's Day rally, described directing police in freeing an I-J distributor's car that was mobbed at midday in Julia Street.

He said the marchers, chanting "scabs must go" and "raining tacks, rocks and other objects" on the car, were temporarily forced out of the way by police to permit the car to leave.

Attorneys argued at length over whether the car's arrival through the barricades had been an aggravation to the demonstrators, making it impossible for rally leaders to control the 600 to 800 demonstrators.

Monday Judge Keating will begin hearing a second contempt case arising from the I-J strike which began Jan. 7. ITU Local 21 has accused the I-J of violating court orders through actions of the NorCal security guards employed in the building.

The union complained that the guards assaulted pickets, uttered threats and vile and obscene language and used guard dogs in menacing and threatening manner and other actions.

Sea And Air Piracy Talks

CARABALLEDA, Venezuela (UPI)—Cuban and U.S. representatives have discussed a possible bilateral treaty on exchange of air and sea pirates, Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, director of the Cuban Agrarian Institute said Thursday night.

Rodriguez, who is in Venezuela for the 11th session of the Latin American regional conference of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization, did not say where the conversations occured.

"Cuba is not responsible for air and sea piracy," Rodriguez said. "We grant asylum to the kidnapers who have justified political reasons for their doings, but in most cases we reject the ones who have other reasons. This is the case of an American we sent back to his country some weeks ago," he said.

Marian Gunz, Ross School librarian, will report on the condition, plans and programs of the library before the Ross School District board at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the school.

Sunrise Art Guild Has Show At Fairfax Library

The Sunrise Art Guild, a non-profit art center organized by youth in the Sir Francis Drake High School enrollment area, is sponsoring an art exhibit in the Fairfax branch of the Marin County Library at 47 Broadway.

The exhibit includes paintings, ceramics, poetry, wood-carving, and driftwood. Emily Shortell, Fairfax librarian, said the exhibit will be on display through Oct. 31.

Mrs. Roy Fairchild, chairman of the church and society committee of the San Anselmo First Presbyterian Church, announced that the church will also provide space for the sunrise art guild to display its work. The space was formerly occupied by the Third Rail Coffee House at Mariposa Avenue and Kensington Road.

Seth Seiderman of Drake High School, chairman of the Sunrise Art Guild, announced that membership applications are available for both students and adults at the Fairfax branch of the county library. Student memberships are open to junior high and high school students in the Drake High School area.

Drama Planned By Actors' Playhouse

Actors Playhouse of Marin, a newly formed theatrical group in San Rafael next month will present its first production, "Star Spangled Girl" by Neil Simon at the auditorium of Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The group, which specializes in performances for various charity, service and civic organizations, will present seven performances on Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7 p.m. beginning Nov. 7.

Garry Sees Press Threat In Panther Contempt Actions

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Black Panther attorney Charles Garry says contempt citations against employes of the Panther newspaper threaten freedom of the press everywhere.

"Unless the news media awaken to the danger they are in whereby courts can cut off a reporter's privilege . . . to withhold sources of news . . . their freedom of the press, which is now extremely limited, will be exterminated and they will be prevented from any kind of contact with about 30 per cent of America," Garry said.

Three contempt citations have been returned against employees of the weekly party newspaper for refusing to answer questions before a special federal grand jury which has been investigating the Panthers for more than a year.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is to rule on one of the three. The government's brief in opposition was filed with Justice Douglas this week.

The Panther employes' cases followed the case of New York Times reporter Earl Caldwell, who was subpoenaed before the same grand jury for questioning about stories he has done about the Panthers.

U.S. District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli ruled last April that Caldwell must appear, need not divulge confidential information unless it is in the "compelling and overriding national interest" and the government cannot get it in any other way.

Later he adjudged Caldwell to be in contempt, saying the government had proven these points. Caldwell appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, which has not yet returned a ruling.

One girl employe of the Panther paper is in jail, another is subject to jail and a former circulation manager enjoys a sort of "informal stay." Sheilie Bursey, 18, finished her first week in jail Wednesday because she refused to answer questions about the operation of the newspaper.

Fellow employe Brenda Joyce Presley, 22, received a stay "until further order" from Zirpoli because she was nine months pregnant. She has since had her child, but the judge is now on vacation.

Neither case is on appeal because the case of Virtual Murrell, 26, is before Justice Douglas. Murrell was circulation manager for the newspaper for four months beginning in late 1968.

Murrell refused to answer questions about the internal workings of the paper, was granted immunity, again refused to answer and was adjudged to be in contempt Sept. 3 by the same district judge.

Two weeks later Mrs. Bursey and Mrs. Presley were adjudged to be in contempt for refusing to answer questions. They would not tell if they knew anything about the Marin County shoot-out that resulted in the Aug. 7 killing of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley and three others, about hijackings in the Middle East, about the murder case in Connecticut involving Panther chairman Bobby Seale and about the various functions of the newspaper, according to attorney David E. Pesonen.

Massacre Judge Boots Testimony

FT. HOOD, Tex. (CPI) — The military judge conducting the first court-martial in connection with the My Lai massacre has ruled out testimony previously given to a congressional committee.

Judge Col. Geroge R. Robinson ruled Thursday the prosecution cannot use witnesses against S. Sgt. David Mitchell unless the defendant's attorneys are supplied with copies of the testimony given by the witnesses before a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee.

So far, subcommittee chairman Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., has protected the secrecy of that testimony, and has refused to release it to attorneys defending Mitchell or other soldiers charged in the My Lai incident.

Two Elementary Schools Burned

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two fires —both apparently set by arsonists —caused an estimated $54,000 damage to schools in La Puente and Lawndale Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies discovered a fire at the Sparks Elementary School in La Puente when they responded to a burglary call Thursday night.

That blaze destroyed one classroom and severely damaged another. Damage was estimated at $14,000.

Earlier a $40,000 fire destroyed three classrooms and damaged a fourth at the Kit Carson Elementary School in Lawndale. Firemen said a window had been smashed to gain entry to the school.

Corte Madera Slide Funds Are Available

Corte Madera has been listed as one of seven Northern California communities whose property owners are eligible for federally subsidized flood and mudslide insurance.

However, there has been a "meager response" from residents of the communities, says a spokesman for Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, which is administering tne program.

"Only 75 policies have been written and with the rainy season approaching, we're concerned that property owners in flood prone areas" may not have time to acquire the insurance, the spokesman said.

Corte Madera became eligible for the insurance July 17, after the town had demonstrated its intentions to initiate a flood control study.

The insurance program was established under the 1968 Housing and Urban Development Act and is designed to reduce future flood damage through community action and to encourage individuals who live in flood-prone areas to pay at least part of the cost of insurance against flood damage.

The law seeks to avoid duplication of federal disaster benefits. According to the act, if a property owner doesn't buy the insurance within 12 months after his community becomes eligible, he will not get federal disaster relief to the extent that he could under the insurance program.

Insurance rates, for the coverage of one to four family homes, runs 40 to 50 cents per $100 of insurance. A maximum of $17,500 may be acquired for single family homes and $30,000 for two to four family homes. Contents may also be insured for 50 to 60 per $100 of insurance.

The spokesman urged interested Corte Madera property owners to contact their insurance agent for complete details.

Body Of Bridge Leaper Identified

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The body of a man who jumped off Golden Gate Bridge Sept. 20 has been identified as that of Larry Gordon Ware, 36, address unknown.

The coroner's office here said Ware's identity was discovered by matching his prints with those in Federal Bureau of Investigation files. The FBI prints were taken in 1960 when Ware was in the Navy, the coroner's office said.

Recorder Taken

An auto tape recorder and medical equipment valued at $135 was taken sometime Wednesday from an auto owned by Dr. Richard A. Cercle of 331 Robin Drive, Corte Madera, while the vehicle was parked at the doctor's home, police said yesterday.

Fun Match Set For Dogs, Pups

Nearly 1,000 puppies and adult dogs are expected to compete in the Blue Ribbon Dog Breeders, Inc., fun match Sunday at Benecia Park in Rohnert Park, according to Mrs. Oscar Carver of Petaluma, match chairman.

Owners may enter their purebred puppies — two months and older — between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. Sunday at the show. Judging will continue until about 4 p.m.

Among the 20 judges for the match are Patricia Monahan and Phyllis and Jeff Greer, all of Novato.

Second Annual Conference For Writers Underway

The Second Annual Writers' Conference began today at the College of Marin and will continue tomorrow and Sunday. It features nine writers from across the country.

Today's program was scheduled to open at noon with student poetry reading at room 150, followed at 3 p.m. by a panel discussion with Robert Creely, author of "The Island;" poet Kathleen Fraser, writer Michael Harper, author of "Dear John, Dear Coltrane;" poet David Wagoner, author of two travel books, and James Hall, author of "Racers to the Sun."

Tomorrow's session will begin at 10 a.m. with a reading by Peter Beagle, followed at 11 a.m. with a seminar on technique and form. At 2 p.m. another panel discussion will be offered, to be followed at 3 p.m. with a reading by Tillie Olsen.

At 4:15 p.m., a marketing workshop has been scheduled to be followed at 5 and 8 p.m. with readings.

Sunday's schedule includes student readings at 10:30 a.m. and the closing address at 1 :30 p.m.

Persons interested in attending the remaining sessions may register anytime tomorrow at the lobby of the fine arts building. Additional information may be obtained by phoning the college's information officer.

UCCESSFUL INVESTING

Long-Term Growth Stocks Suggested

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you suggest a few g-t-e-r-m growth stocks? S.Q. I have $15,000 available r investment. What growth ocks would you recommend? .L.

A. Although this column an- ers specific questions from ders, frequently the advice ver has broader applications. find that since the beginning September 13 long-term owth stocks have been recom- ended. For the more conserv- ve investor five growth ocks with moderate to gener- s dividends were suggested r purchase. These were: Gen- al Foods, Gulf Oil, H.J. Heinz, obil Oil and Philip Morris. A e c o n d group of six faster owth companies, all recom- ended as buys, i n c l u d e d: m e r i c a n Hospital Supply, rown Cork & Seal, Dr. Pepper, li Lilly, Chas. Pfizer and Sim- licity Pattern. Two speculative owth issues which were ad- sed recently were American ledical Enterprises and Wang aboratories.

Q. In the spring of 1968 I learned that American Smelting was about to embark on an extensive silver exploration program. Based on this information I bought shares of Coeur d'Alene Mines at 17¾. I am prepared to hold indefinitely if the company has a future. What do you think? W.G.

A. A joint exploration program was e n t e r e d into by American Smelting and Coeur d'Alene in 1964. Subsequent exploration by Asarco established the presence of a commercial orebody on the Coeur property, 1½ miles from Asarco's Galena mine. Turning this knowledge into profits, however, requires time and money. In 1969, Coeur reported profits of $4,229, up from a $12,655 deficit in 1968. Unfortunately your purchase was made when silver speculation was at its height, the price per ounce (N.Y.) was approaching $2.50. By mid-1969 it had fallen to about $1.60 and spot silver is now quoted at about $1.75, with higher prices likely, as demand continues to exceed supply. Because of the substancial private silver hoards which may be released as the price rises, it is unlikely that a return to the $2.50 level will be seen in the near future. However, these high-risk shares may be held as a speculation on the price of silver.

SMART CHART

Banks' Operating Profits Gaining, Underwriter Says

NEW YORK (UPI) — Banks' operating profits should show a gain of approximately seven per cent for 1970, M.A. Schapiro, Inc., underwriters and dealers in bank stocks, has reported.

Schapiro projected a rise in aggregate net operating profits of 25 large representative banks to $1,310,000,000 f r o m $1,220,000,000 in 1969, a gain of 7.4 per cent.

Banks which have been dependent upon high-cost borrowings are now benefiting from the return flow of deposits and the greater availability of federal reserve credit, the firm said.

Loan income of the bigger banks has been affected by the two half-point reductions in the prime interest rate this year, but this is being partially offset by generally lower cost of funds and the modest expansion of total l o a n s and investments, Schapiro said.

Phone Companies Revenues Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Total operating revenues for the Bell System and 19 other independent telephone companies rose $1.6 billion to $17.5 billion during the business year ending June 30, t h e Federal Communications Commission has reported.

The FCC said the Bell System, which includes American Telephone & Telegraph, 22 principle telephone subsidiaries and two associated companies, accounted for $16.7 billion of the total, up from $15.2 billion the previous fiscal year.

The 19 other firms, including the Western Union Telegraph Co., had revenues totaling $733.5 million, an increase from $685.5 million.

Dow Jones Off 4.52 In Slow Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market finished on a soft note today, with electronics attracting the bulk of the selling pressure.

Shortly before the close, declines were leading advances, 855 to 396, while the Dow Jones Industrial Average was off 4.52 points at 763.35.

Closing prices i n c l u d e d: American Telegraph & Telegraph 44 1-4 up 1-8; Bethlehem Steel 21 5-8 off 1-2; Chrysler 24 1-2 off 1; DuPont 116 5-8 off 1 1-8; Ford 51 off 3-8; General Electric 83 1-4 off 1 1-4; General Motors 72 5-8 up 3-8; and IBM 290 3-4 off 2 1-4.

Analyst said traders were concerned about prospects for a substantial budget deficit, g e n e r a l l y disappointing third quarter earnings statements and the apparent firm rejection of President Nixon's Vietnam peace plan by the Communists.

Monte Gordon of Bache & Co. said the "sloppy" third quarter earnings reports now pouring in raised comcern among investors on whether the economy is actually pulling out of its slump.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Marshall Hotel Features Jazz, Folksinging In Historic Setting

The historic Marshall Hotel on the Marin coast, built on pilings over the waters of Tomales Bay, I find, has been giving weekend food service for the past few months.

Owned by a corporation and for a time closed, it is now being managed by Mary Helen Burnison who lives on the premises. Weekend lunches run to sandwiches and chowders. Dinners Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights vary from time to time, but usually include oysters, chowder, perhaps beef stew, and other simple but wholesome fare.

There is also entertainment on frequent occasions. A seasonal onsale general liquor license is active until Dec. 1 — then for three months only wines and beers will be sold and the general license will become effective again on March 1.

Among special artists that have been announced in the hotel's entertainment program is Mark Spoelstra who appeared last night at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo. He is a young pioneer of contemporary music, who accompanies himself on a 12-string guitar. He will be at the Marshall House tomorrow at 3 p.m.

Sunday afternoon from 3 to 7, traditional New Orleans music will be played by Earl Scheelar's Jazz Band and Don Rose's Egghead Jazz Band. Both bands appear under the sponsorship of the Northern California New Orleans Jazz Club.

Another announced booking on Saturday, Oct. 31 is for folksingers Tom Jans and Mimi Farina, a newly formed duo who made a bid for prominence at the Monterey and Berkeley folk festivals. Their repertoire is primarily contemporary ballads, many of their own composition. They accompany themselves on guitar.

The Marshall Hotel is said to be almost 100 years old.

ANOTHER PLACE in West Marin that has been open some time but may not be known to many under its present ownership is the Inverness Coffee House at Inverness Way and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Inverness.

This was once called Graveson's Inverness Coffee Shop. The Gravesons closed and the place was later opened as a family operation of John Ritter and his two sons Rob and Mike, who have it now. They serve breakfasts Saturdays and Sundays and lunches and dinners throughout the week from noon. Closing time is about 9 p.m.

Lunch menu consists mainly of sandwiches and homemade chowders. Dinners, served anytime from noon on, run to brochettes, steaks, oysters, prawns and other seafoods — complete with soup and salad at under $4. The Ritters have made an application for an on-sale wine and beer license, which probably will require another 30 days or more before validation.

KAPPIES HOUSE OF SANDWICHES on Main Street, Tiburon has been sold by Carl and Joelle Nicholson, who will leave next month for New Zealand "to take it easy for awhile."

New owner is a young man, John N. Rooney of San Francisco, who has been in the service and is a computer technician. I have been told that he will continue the operation here basically as it has been conducted in the past and under the same name of Kappie's.

GATBY'S in Sausalito is again making some entertainment changes. The Jean Hoffman Trio will now be playing Sundays starting at 6:30 p.m. as well as on Wednesday through Saturday nights. For the time being, George De Fore is sitting in for Jean Hoffman, who is on a vacation for a few weeks.

On Monday and Tuesday nights there is a newt rio — Ripple II, a fun, lively folk group. This keeps Gatsby's open with a good entertainment schedule seven nights a week. Its no-cover minimum policy also remains in force.

A "EUROPEAN-TYPE BEER GARDEN" will be opened at 5440 Redwood Highway, Novato (in the Sundown shopping complex) sometime before the first of the year by Nick Morf of Bel Marin Keys.

According to Nick, it will be a dancing and fun place, possibly with the name of Dodge City, although the latter is not certain. Nick is involved in several projects, one of which is Squeezer's Palace, a juice bar on Maiden Lane, San Francisco. He is planning a similar operation on Polk Street.

Dodge City, if so named, will be in the former location of Sundown Lighting. It will be remodeled and the garden landscaped.

PROBABLY NO ONE KNOWS for certain when or where the first wine was actually made — but the Persians are among those claiming the credit for it. They believe that Jerusheed, who founded the ancient Persian city of Persepolis, accidentally discovered the art when he unwittingly gulped down some grape juice that had fermented — and found that he liked it.

CORRECTION: On the Menu at the Cat 'N' Fiddle in Sausalito (this has also been knows as The Vicarate) — Dover Sole, not Derby sole as written last week, is one of the house specialties. Sorry.

A NEW TWO-FOR-ONE dinner coupon membership has hit the Marin County scene — this one called Marin Passport to Gourmet Dining. It offers 15 free dinners for $15. Fifteen Marin dineries participate and another five on the Monterey peninsula are included.

Special features are said to be: No restriction on the menu for either person and no need to present membership card until after dinner.

Additional information may be secured by writing to Marin Passport to Gourmet Dining, P.O. Box 1354, San Rafael -- or securing the telephone number from information operator.

THE LION'S SHARE on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile features Dave Von Rink and Frontier tonight through Sunday. Attraction next week Thursday through Sunday is the Coasters.

FOR A FAIRLY BROAD picture of 124 restaurants in the San Francisco Bay, Sacramento, Tahoe and Yosemite areas we suggest San Francisco Magazine's Diner's Choice by Howard Young. This year the list includes more than ever on this side of the bay — 13 in Marin County and five in Sonoma County.

Copies may be obtained by writing to Diner's Choice, 115 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco. Price is $1.

Bus, Ferry Plans On Bridge Panel's Agenda

Commuter bus and ferry plans will be considered by the Golden Gate Bridge District's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee at 9:30 a.m. Monday in toll plaza offices.

Transit Mgr. Donald White will present updated cost estimates for the 132-bus system, and the committee will take up a proposed $14 million ferryboat system proposed in August by the district's naval architect, Philip F. Spaulding of Seattle.

Also on the agenda are subsidies of Marin Transit Systems' commuter feeder bus service to the Tiburon ferry and of buses for commuter clubs.

Plans for a ferryboat terminal in Larkspur reportedly also will be presented. Larkspur and Corte Madera are competing for the terminal, and Corte Madera already has shown district directors a plan for its waterfront that would be built around a terminal.

Herbicide Makers Must Call Back Deadly 2,4,5-T

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Chemical manufacturers have been notified that they must call back from the market and relabel certain chemicals containing the herbicide 2,4,5-T to comply with California regulations.

The state Agriculture Department disclosed Tuesday it told the manufacturers to relabel such weed killers recommended for use around homes, in lakes or ponds, and on ditch banks and recreation areas. The department last August prohibited the sale of chemicals containing 2,4,5-T for those uses effective Nov. 1.

"It is the manufacturers' responsibility to see that all these chemicals are returned to them by wholesalers, distributors and retailers for either disposal or relabeling," the department said.

State restrictive action against 2,4,5-T was based on experiments which showed the chemical may cause birth defects in some animals.

Prices Of Toys Will Be Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa. has asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the pricing, promotion and operation of the nation's toy industry because "the consumer is being jet-cajoled and super-promoted by the worst collection of ultra-junk toys in the industry's history."

He said there was "a critical need for investigation of ... toy-buying hazards such as false or misleading promotions, exorbitant pricing and non-durability."

Rooney cited as examples a $6 guitar he bought on which the strings broke when it was being tuned, and a widely advertised game he paid $4.29 for, "only to find that an earlier price tag of $2.90 had been covered ...."

Commission Session

The Marin Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Blue Room of Marin General Hospital to discuss community involvement in combating delinquency and to interview prospective commission members.

Reinecke's Outlook: 'Awful Good' For '70

Reincecke, addressing a campaign rally at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael, said "Jessie's no fool — this fellow's been around too long."

He said that Unruh has raised $850,000, but has not spent it yet. Unruh may use it for "some dynamiting kind of publicity at the last moment, but more likely he'll be paying the party workers to go out and work on election day," Reinecke said.

"We don't do things that way," he added, "so we'll have to work right up to election day."

Reinecke praised Marin as "the strongest Republican pocket of strength in the northern part of the state." He conceded, however, that "Marin is not exactly the Orange County of the North."

Reinecke, declaring that "things are looking awful good everywhere" for a big Republican win in November, said, "We're building up a great big beautiful Republican snowball that's going to roll right through the 70s."

Reinecke apologized for the absence of his wife, who was also to have attended a luncheon for her yesterday at Dominic's. She had to stay in Sacramento because their 12-year-old daughter, Mimi, was having surgery for an arm broken Tuesday in a fall from a horse, he said.

About 150 persons attended the $3-a-head reception, scheduled from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Reinecke arrived at 7:20 p.m., explaining he had had a heavy campaign schedule all day throughout the Bay Area.

Subway Station Plan Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's visual design committee approved plans Thursday for a subway station under Market Street between Davis and Spear Streets in San Francisco.

The station was not in the original BART designs and will have to be paid for by the city. Tax increment bonds in the Golden Gateway development already have produced $8.5 million to build a box-like structure that will contain the station.

Another $10 million would be needed to complete the job.

Committeemen also approved plans for a station in Concord, although the district's staff said service there could not start before 1972.

Soviets Fire Probe To Study Weather

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets announced today they have orbited a meteorological satellite to study clouds and weather changes.

The news agency Tass said the "Meteor" was launched Thursday and placed into an orbit ranging from 418 miles to 393 miles above the earth's surface. The craft is making one complete revolution every 97.5 minutes at an angle of 81.2 degrees to the equator, Tass said.

Association Taking Over Review Job

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association has agreed to assume responsibility for maintenance and architectural review powers for Greenbrae from Schultz Building Co. on Nov. 1.

Beth M. Reilly, association secretary, reported yesterday that the association also agreed Wednesday to appoint a five-member board of review for arcritectural supervision when the powers are assumed.

The review board will have two association board members and three from the community, she said. Selection of members will come at a later meeting.

The review board will be charged with overseeing architectural plans for construction of new buildings and remodeling and additions to existing buildings in Greenbrae.

The association, in assuming the responsibilties from the building company, will continue with the Schultz policy of collecting between $10 and $15 per year from each of Greenbrae's 1,200 homeowners. The collection raises about $14,000 a year to pay for maintenance and architectural susupervision, Mrs. Reilly said.

The association also accepted the resignation of Robert Nourse, vice president, who resigned because of personal reasons. His post was filled by David Simonds. A second post held by Nourse, that of maintenance committee chairman, was filled by John Russell.

The association also set Oct. 31, at 4:45 p.m., for the annual Halloween party at Greenbrae School. Joan Donati will head the committee in charge of food and preparations, Mrs. Reilly said.

$733,000 Authorized To Fight Jellyfish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed into law a measure authorizing the government to spend $733,000 to help Atlantic and Gulf Coast states research ways to fight the jellyfish and other aquatic pests.

The money is the remainder of an original $2.25 million authorized three years ago. Most of the help so far has gone to Maryland and Virginia for work in the Chesapeake Bay area, but states such as New Jersey, Florida and Mississippi also have a share in the program.

Half of the people of Colombia live in urban areas.

Dr. John W. McGaughey takes pleasure in announcing his association with Dr. John E. Jansheski in the General Practice of Dentistry.

Dr. McGaughey graduated from the University of California Dental School and was recently discharged from the Army after one year tours in Texas and Viet Nam.

Novato, San Anselmo Put Money Measures To Vote

People are sometimes inclined to complain that they get taxed without having any say about it.

The San Anselmo City Council seems to have taken this complaint to heart. It has placed on the Nov. 3 ballot two special tax measures, each for a nine-cent levy for one year.

Measure E asks approval of a nine-cent tax to pay for a $52,000 fire engine. Measurt F asks an identical levy to finance $52,000 worth of street improvements.

The San Anselmo City Council has gone even farther in asking guidance from the people. Measure G asks whether the councilmen's salary, now $150 per month, should be cut to $50.

WE ARE NOT ABOUT to suggest to San Anselmans whether their councilmen are worth $50 or $150 a month. The councilmen several years ago voted themselves the $150 pay, under a state law which says a city council can pay itself that salary or nothing. There have been suggestions that the city fathers should be willing to serve for less. They have shown they are willing by putting it up to the people.

As for the fire engine and the street improvements, the proposed special taxes offer the least expensive way of paying for them, assuming the council could find no way to finance them under its present tax structure. A one-year levy will not entail any interest cost, so the taxpayers will get full value for the money expended — if they vote to expend it.

What could be fairer?

ANOTHER MUNICIPAL measure on the Nov. 3 ballot will be a third attempt by the City of Novato to win approval of a bond issue for street construction.

This appears as Measure G in the ballot booksof Novato voters. Proposed is a $3,250,000 issue to bring Novato's streets up to what the streets in a city its size should be. Many of them are left over from the days when Novato was unincorporated, agricultural county territory, and simply do not meet today's needs.

Twice before we have endorsed Novato's street bond proposal. Twice it has failed to muster the necessary two-thirds approval. This time, we hope it makes it.

Boats On Parade — A Good Show

Marin County, touching San Francisco Bay on one side and the Pacific Ocean on another, has always been largely water-oriented. But it has become much more so with the growth of recreational boating in recent years.

Some idea of the part such boating plays in Marin life will be given by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce's "Fall Marine Holiday" on Sunday.

A parade of decorated boats will head from the Bird Cage up the San Rafael Canal, starting at 1 p.m. They'll be from all around the Bay Area — but mostly from Marin.

Past boat parades sponsored by the chamber have proved spectacular. We expect this year's "sail-in" to be even more so. It will be a show too good to miss.

See you there!

AFFAIRS OF STATE

State Park Grazing Turndown And Responsibility For Fires

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — When the state Parks and Recreation Commission voted to deny grazing privileges to some cattle ranchers in San Diego County whose feed lands have been burned out by the recent fires, it probably did not expect the storm of disapproval churned up by the action.

The cattle ranchers asked permission for use of a portion of the east mesa of Cuyamaca State Park for 120 days during the emergency period when most of the private cattle land is scorched by fire.

He said "the commission's action is a direct rebuke of Governor Reagan's effort to pool all available state resources to assist the victims of the fires."

STULL BLAMED the fires on the conservationists, who he said earlier opposed the controlled burning of underbrush along the foothills of Southern California.

"When last month's fires swept along the foothills," Stull declared, "it was this underbrush which kept the fires out of control, and destroyed our forest lands.

"I place major blame on such short-sighted, selfish-thinking people for the devastation to our forest and communities.

"Now that some of the fire victims want assistance to recoup from their losses, it is these same people who are again turning their backs on such requests. More than 800 head of cattle, and the occupations of a number of local ranchers may be lost because of the unthinking action by a majority of the board.

"All these people are doing is espounding high-sounding platitudes on ecology and conservation while helping to destroy what resources we do have."

IT IS NO secret the parks and recreation commission has been rather tough on cattle grazing in state park preserves, and in many instances, probably rightly so.

But the decision does bring up the subject of fire control by judicious burning of excess brush in marginal forest lands.

CORRECTION

In an "Affairs of State" column published early in September, relating to the passage of SB 637 as amended, it was stated that Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Oakland, sponsored this measure, which would have allowed him to collect some $42,300 from the state legislative retirement fund in case he is not re-elected to the Assembly, had it become law.

The statement that Assemblyman Mulford "sponsored" the bill which made this provision is incorrect, according to state capitol usage. The correct term should have been "voted for" the amended bill, which he did do, according to the Assembly Journal, Page 7559, of Aug. 17.

Some Doctors Do Cheat On Medicare

Regarding your editorial cartoon and the letter of protest of Dr. Edgar J. Rothenberg: In the Sept. 25 issue of a federal tax guide report my accountant showed me was an article — quote:

"In the past year, the IRS processed tax returns of some 11,000 physicians receiving Medicare and Medicaid payments. Preliminary results indicate a number of instances of substantial, unreported income, including some where omission exceeded $100,000."

Yes doctor, many people do fudge on their tax returns, but few have the chance of the medical profession to forget $100,000. I also have had personal experience with the doctor poking his head in the hospital door to say good morning, and thus be eligible to bill Medicare for a hosptal visit. Let's face it doctor, too many of your profession have made a mockery of a program designed to help the aged or needy.

Generosity Helps Cancer Society

The cure for cancer is closer to becoming a reality today due to the generosity of the people of Marin County.

I sincerely want to thank the Independent-Journal and its staff for giving us their time and outstanding news coverage which has greatly helped Marin Unit ACS volunteers make this one of the most successful years. For the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, Marin County residents contributed $69,366 to the society's year-round programs of research, education and service. Fifty-nine per cent of this total will be used here in Marin County for public education, professional education, patient service and transportation. The balance or 41 per cent will be used in cancer research in California. We at the Marin County Unit of the American Cancer Society are convinced that if everyone would exercise some simple safegurads against cancer, there could be significant saving of life from all forms of the disease. An intensive effort is planned by the Marin Unit to inform the people of Marin County about some of these safeguards for protecting themselves against cancer during Cancer Education Week, Nov. 9-15. Our most sincere thanks to all of those people who have given so much time during the past year to help fight cancer.

Why Save Church? Why Vestments?

It was interesting to hear the development of the sermon of Oct. 11 by Dr. (Charles C. Griffin of the First Presbyterian Church. His analogy regarding the 12 stones used by the Israelites in crossing the River Jordan, and the stones used as a covering for the outside wall of the church was quite clear. His rationale being the stones in themselves are not important; only their symbolic meaning; the rocks being a symbol of the united struggle of the 12 tribes of Israel in their attempt to reach their "promised land."

The sermon, without question, was dealing with the possible demolition of the church. The meaning of the sermon was loud and clear — that people who are questioning the demolishing of the building are putting too much stress on the physical aspects of worship...

My answer to this admonition is this: No, we do not have to have the building. I would be willing to worship in a tent. Why have any of the ritual? Enjoying the beauty and cathedral-like atmosphere of the church is no more idolatry than enjoying any other part of the service that enhances meditation. Why have the organ? We don't need it in order to sing. Why have the clerical vestments? I could look at and listen to a minister dressed otherwise. Why have the plush red carpets?

Not one person who would like to see the church saved is unconcerned about the "saving of human life." I do feel, however, that every possible avenue toward preserving the building should be explored. I believe many, many people are not convinced this has been done...

Direct Election Held Totalitarian

If the proposed "direct election" constitutional amendment with its 40 per cent provision goes through we may never again see either a democratic or a republican president in the United States, although a winner with the bare 40 per cent may reorganize a "coalition" government under the new name of "The People's Democratic Republic of North America." He would be helped to achieve this astounding feat of political legerdemain by hundreds of thousands of people who couldn't make up their minds or were too lazy or confused to vote, and by a temporary marriage of all the dissenting elements and sadly misled idealists.

After that there would be only one candidate and one issue in our "elections", and a commissar would assist the voters in marking their ballots. There would also be an end to confusion in the voters' minds, for there would be only one political party with some such name as "The Young Patriots for Peace, Equality, and Freedom," but all we'd ever see from then on would be war, dictatorship, and slavery.

You don't believe it could happen? Read history. Hitler came to power with a number of political parties and a minority vote, and now it has just happened again in Chile. The leftwing Russian dictatorship that threw out democratic Kerensky 53 years ago never had a majority, and the only "elections" they have had were rigged by the Supreme Soviet.

U.N. Refurbishment Helps Russians

Can you imagine spending 80 million to refurbish a building — in these critical times — even if it is the United Nations Building? As usual, it will be the U.S. taxpayers who will have to pay most of that cost.

Would a refurbished building make the U.N. more effective in peace-keeping? Or is it already functioning according to the wishes of its master, the U.S.S.R.? It is definitely to their interest to keep the U.S. not winning wars but draining our manpower and substance! Otherwise, would they have been supplying at leat 80 per cent of their war material to our enemy? All these years!

For that reason, isn't it rather absurd to "ask Russia to help negotiate a just peace" — after the U.S. has started to surrender? If this isn't surrendering, why hasn't the U.S. been demanding some quid pro quo, such as our POW's, every time the President announces more troops will be withdrawn?

If the U.N. had permitted General MacArthur to win the Korean war there would not have been a Vietnam confrontation!

THE DRUMMONDS

North-South Divisions Vanishing In Politics, Economics, Society

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

FORT WORTH — The most striking fact of the South today is not how different it is from the rest of the country but how alike.

Fundamental and far-reaching social, economic and political changes, long in slow motion, are now coming to fruition in a rushing climax.

We have just traveled to the Northeast, the Midwest, the Pacific Coast and the South. It is evident that the United States of America is becoming one — socially, economically and politically; not totally, but to a degree which should wipe from the minds of non-southerners that the South is separate and unequal.

It is increasingly apparent that the things which had long handicapped the South are waning.

HERE IS WHAT'S happening:

The South was economically backward. No more.

It was dominated by one-party politics. The Democratic party could take it for granted. The Republican party saw little value in cultivating its support.

Each of these three long-enduring conditions is being radically and rapidly altered.

ECONOMICS — Average personal income in the South is going up markedly. For example, the greatest gains in the entire nation in 1969 were made here in the Southwest — up 9.5 per cent, and in the Southeast — up 9.2 per cent. This is not a sudden ephemeral rise. It is a steady trend. Ten years ago the gap between the average per capita income in the Southwest and that of the rest of the nation was 30 per cent. Last year it was only 20 per cent.

RACE — The massive mechanization of southern agriculture and the powerful lure of employment in the defense industry in the North and Pacific Coast, during World War II and after, cut the South's black population in half. In the last two decades 3,500,000 Negro-Americans left the South.

Southerners have every reason to contend, and they're quite right in asserting, that the racial issue is not a southern monopoly. It is a national issue and must be treated nationally. It is a tremendous achievement that legal public school segregation is now nearly totally abolished in the South while de facto segregation, brought about by different methods elsewhere in the nation, remains largely untouched.

POLITICS — One-party dominance is on the wane. Eisenhower took four southern states in 1952, Goldwater five in 1964, and the South made possible Nixon's election in 1968 when the Democratic percentage of the presidential vote in the South and border states was down to 29 per cent. No presidential candidate in the '70s can take the South for granted nor wisely neglect it.

NO ONE HAS written more perceptively about how the social, economic and political forces are bringing the nation together than Henry Owen, who headed the policy-planning staff of the State Department under President Johnson and who is now with the Brookings Institution.

"The deep North-South division which has plagued the country since the 1850s," he concludes, "is on the way to being healed."

Whether the process now goes forward unhampered depends in part, he says, on whether the media and the intellectual community of the North discard the outdated cliches of the 1930s. He pleads with them to do so:

"There is a curious ambivalence in the attitude of some northern liberals on this point: Reaching out to students and other alienated elements is viewed as an act of statesmanship, but trying to understand the problems which a century of neglect has created in the South is political opportunity."

It is time for the rest of the nation to see the South as it is, not as they may think it is.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

Nixon 'Full Employment' Goal Disturbs Economists

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's grand design for the nation's economy calls for a return to full employment some time in 1972—just in time to give a boost to his expected bid for a second term.

That might seem like a long time to wait for the 4.3 million persons now out of work, but many of the government's professional economy watchers think the goal may be too ambitious to be met.

One high-ranking economist said privately the economy would have to grow at a pace much faster than now seems probable to restore full employment by mid-1972. Such a growth rate, he said, might touch off a new round of inflation.

PAUL W. McCRACKEN, chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, said the administration hopes to get unemployment down to less than 4 per cent of the work force some time during the 1972 fiscal year that runs from next July 1 to June 30, 1972.

McCracken defined "full employment" as less than 4 per cent jobless. The post-Korean War low for unemployment was 3.3 per cent recorded during three straight months from December, 1968, through February, 1969.

Administration sources made it plain that the plan now calls for full employment to be reached near the end of the fiscal year, about 20 months from now.

SOME GOVERNMENT economists are not happy about the goal. They think it could backfire in one of two ways: Nixon could try to heat up the economy enough to reduce unemployment on schedule and in the process lose all of the gains that have been made against inflation. Or the goal could be missed, which would be more embarrassing than the same rate of unemployment would be had no goal been announced.

McCracken, asked about the goal, confirmed that it had been set. Then he added: "I cite as my authority for that, the President."

The dilemma for economy managers is that there usually is a trade-off between inflation and unemployment.

Nixon hopes to break that mold by producing both low unemployment and a low rate of inflation. The key, administration officials believe, is to do things gradually.

THE COST of living rose in in August at an annual rate of 2.5 per cent, a figure considered to be relatively uninflationary. But it took 20 months for the administration's policies to produce that result and it was achieved at the cost of a business slump and rising unemployment.

Since Nixon took office in January, 1969, unemployment has risen from 3.3 to 5.5 per cent of the work force, an increase of 1.7 million persons.

Street Parking Fee, Sewer Service Charge Scorned By City Council

With local and county taxes at an all-time high, Mill Valley City Councilman Jean S. Barnard has come up with two new sources of revenue which require the heaviest users of city services to pay for them.

No one else on the city council seems to by paying much attention to her, however.

She proposes charging a fee for using city streets as a carport, and a sewer service fee.

Mrs. Barnard thinks the parking fee would both raise revenue for the city and discourage people from parking on — and in some cases blocking — Mill Valley's narrow streets.

Residents would be required to buy a sticker for each car that has no offstreet parking space. This is done in Milwaukee, Wis., she noted, where the cost is $4 a month.

"WHENEVER I bring this up, the other councilmen always ask about overnight guest parking," she said. But she pointed out that Milwaukee solves the problem by having people call a night phone number and give the license number of the guest's car. This is allowed for four days.

"The revenue from this probably would pay for the enforcement. The city might not make any money on it, but it would curb the proliferation of parking on our narrow streets," Mrs. Barnard said. She said Milwaukee does make money on the proposition.

The second proposal, the sewer service fee, would not change the sewer rate of most of Mill Valley's residents. Here's how it would work:

CITIZENS NOW pay for sewer service as part of their tax bills. The city tax rate, this year totaling $2.929 per $100 assessed valuation, include 38 cents for sewers.

Mrs. Barnard would have the sewer tax listed separately on the tax bill. Instead of being based on assessed valuation, it would be based on the number of pipes draining into the sewer.

This, she said, would enable the city to tax institutions such as churches and schools which are tax-free. Mrs. Barnard believes these institutions should not pay property taxes, but should pay something for city services they use, including sewers.

Second, it would eliminate double taxation now being paid by Mill Valley residents, who live in the so-called high school tidelands annexation.

In 1968 this property, served by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, was annexed to Mill Valley. Today, two years later, the land still is served by the district, but residents pay the full Mill Valley tax rate, including the 38 cents for sewer service they don't get.

"These ideas for new revenue were very well received during my campaign for the council," Mrs. Barnard said, "but I can't seem to get any action now that I'm elected."

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Tribute To An Old Friend; Endorsement Of College Measures

Fusselman

There is a feeling of gentle sadness when we read of the passing of some one we have known and admired, even though many years have gone by since last seeing and talking with that one.

It has been some 45 years since we knew Mrs. Pepper of Bolinas. A gracious, gentlewoman was historian and author Marin Waterhouse Pepper.

In those long gone days, I would see her, during the spring and summer months, at least once a week and some times more often. She was a customer of ours. When I would walk into her tea room at Bolinas, I would immediately be surrounded by her happy, friendly youngsters, while she with pride would quietly move through them to greet me.

Her home and tearoom were well up above the waves as they slid on into the beach and then receded. When her order had been filled, she would stroll with me to a rustic shaded lookout where I would have my lunch.

Watching her as she sat there, with a far-away gaze, looking out over the Pacific, I was always impressed by her genuineness. She seemed in tune with the universe, truly a rare and refreshing sight.

Her husband and wonderful family will miss her and miss her, but how proud they can be that she was theirs.

I WOULD LIKE to talk with you about the College of Marin. Billie served on the board of trustees from its beginning for 33 years. She was the secretary of the board for many of those years and then president. The Ada M. Fusselman Library was named for her.

As secretary for years she signed (and wrote long hand) the warrants for every dollar that was spent. Through her many club contacts, she worked for scholarships for scores of worthy students.

Although I have purposely refrained from commenting on school matters in this column, there is a compulsion to break that rule now. I believe she would want me to.

THE TRUSTEES of the college are presenting two measures to the voters — "B" and "C". I have gone over them and discussed them with an informed man on such matters — a man not connected with school affairs, but because of his great interest in education is, in my opinion, an authority.

He and I are in agreement that both "B" and ""C" should be validated by the voters. However, it is apparent to both of us that the permissiveness that has prevailed on campus could be a handicap.

I have always believed that problems should be faced up to and not swept under the rug.

Marin will need the facilities proposed to be funded. It will cost much, much more to do these things at a later date. Therefore it seems to me that abhorrent as some things are that are transpiring, they should be acknowledged and looked squarely in the eye.

THESE THINGS will pass. This country is not going to go down.

If we love this country, and most of us do, then we must prepare for the future now, even though we are shocked and dismayed. Community colleges will become more and more necessary. There is no mistake about that.

Vote yes on both "B" and "C". This should ease the tax burden now and most certainly in time to come.

Elderly Writer Found Murdered

DUXBURY, Mass. (UPI)—Bertha R. Sumner, 79, author of novels made into the "Tammy" series of movies, has been found beaten to death and strangled. Her 16-year-old grandson was arrested Thursday in connection with the death.

Mrs. Sumner wrote under the name Cid Ricketts.

Her body was found sprawled across the threshold of her bedroom of her home, a remodeled windmill, Wednesday night, police said. Cause of death was given as beating with a hammer.

Early Thursday morning, her grandson, John Ricketts Sumner, 16, appeared at the police station and police said he gave them information leading to the discovery of Mrs. Summer's body.

He was arrested and arraigned on a charge of juvenile delinquency—murder.

Mrs. Sumner was born in Brookhaven, Miss., but spent much of her life in New York and Massachusetts. She used her southern background for some of her books, including "Tammy Out of Time" and "Tammy Tell Me True."

Her book "Quality"—titled "Pinkie" in the movies—was produced in 1947 and is considered one of Hollywood's first interracial films.

Working Plans Asked On School Additions

Trustees of the Dixie School District have authorized the district's architect to proceed with working plans for additions to the Miller Creek Junior High School and the Oak View Elementary School.

The board acted Wednesday after architect Harold Crosby of San Francisco showed slides and models of the proposed buildings which include a gymnasium for Miller Creek and a classroom, offices and library for Oak View.

Trustees asked Crosby to complete the construction documents and report back on January 13, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

The board also authorized the superintendent to investigate complaints by several parents that two fifth grade classes at the Mary Silveira School in Marinwood are too large.

Campbell said one class has 35 students and another 34, and added the parents had asked for an additional teacher because "this is a difficult group of youngsters, as far as discipline is concerned."

According to Campbell, the parents told the board the Roundtree housing development, now being built in Marinwood, will bring more students into the school.

The superintendent said the current class size is in accordance with district policy which permits classes from 28 to 35 youngsters. Districtwide average is 30-31 students per class, he said.

The board asked Campbell to study the matter and report back at its Oct. 28 meeting.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

SALARY ADJUSTMENTS — Adjusted the salaries of two principals (Pat Barnes of Lucas Valley School and Michael Glose of Nova Albion School), miscalculated in a clerical error by the district office. Campbell said the error resulted in both being paid less than they should have been. Mrs. Barnes' salary was adjusted from $14,990 to $17,132 and Glose's from $14,350 to $16,400.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS — Authorized the district to proceed with the following capital improvements contained in the 1970-71 budget: playground fencing at Santa Margarita and Dixie Schools; paving and watering system for Nova Albion School and concrete walks, a water system and patio for Don Timoteo School.

NEW EMPLOYEES — Approved hiring of the following persons: Carolyn Swingle, teacher at Miller Creek, at $7,684 for the remainder of the year; Elaine Devincenze, clerical assistant, 10 hours a week at an annual salary of $1,012 and Barney Younglove, custodian, 10 hours a week at $1,212.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE — Approved a one-year maternity leave, beginning Dec. 18, for Patricia Campbell, teacher at Lucas Valley School.

INTER-DISTRICT TRANSFERS — Granted transfers to allow Alline J. Riddle to attend kindergarten in San Rafael and Gerald R. Flanagan of Petaluma to attend Mary Silveira School.

FINANCE GROUP — Authorized disbanding of the 1969-70 Citizens Finance Advisory Group and asked the superintendent to solicit members for a new finance advisory group for 1970-71.

PAYROLL AND BILLS — Approved payroll orders and bills for September in the amount of $332,441.

Money Is Offered For Tennis Courts

The Mariner Cove Improvement Association has offered to donate $500 for the construction of tennis courts at the San Clemente School in East Corte Madera.

Herber C. Leney, association president, reported yesterday the association agreed Wednesday to donate the money in order to start action on the courts which have been sought by East Corte Madera residents for years.

He said the town council will be informed of the offer as well as the Larkspur School District board in hopes of starting joint action by the two groups.

No Charge Is Filed In Window Incident

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Benjamin Skippingday, 22, of San Rafael, who was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of burglary after a San Rafael man said he caught him trying to force open his window.

The district attorney's office did not file a complaint against Skippingday at the request of Donald Gregory Webb, the victim, who said he did not want the case prosecuted.

There are about 2,000 varieties of shrimp, says the National Geographic.

Students Stuck In Elevator

June Black, chief deputy clerk of the Municipal Court, who accompanied the eighth graders on their tour of the building said that there were 18 persons in the elevator which stopped on the way down from the jail.

She said the youngsters exchanged quips and jokes until the elevator was moved down to the bottom level of the building.

One Charge

Robert Earl Davis, 34, of Novato, was bound over to Marin Superior Court only on a charge of burglary but not on one of possessing marijuana as incorrectly reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal.

DESIGNER CHESTER Weinberg broke briefly away from the narrowed silhouette which dominates his spring collection with huge capes, swirling by the yards over print dresses. His spring collection appears to reflect the softness and grace of fashions of the 1920s and 1930s.

Bygone Romantic Look Pops Out In Weinberg Collection

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The romantic look of long ago becomes the look of the 70s in the hands of fashion designer Chester Weinberg.

Weinberg obviously is a designer nostalgic for the softness and grace of the clothes of the 1920s and early 1930s. Paul Pairet, the great French dressmaker of half a century ago, could have done Weinberg's new collection for spring, replete with the soft contours of the garments, the grace of movement through pleated skirts or great swirling capes, the fine fabrics like crepe de chine, georgettes and foulards.

Even the huge cartwheel and picture hats reappeared on the Weinberg models. All that one needed to feel present at an old-fashioned garden party were tea and dainty sandwiches.

IT SHOULD be mentioned here that part of Weinberg's nostalgia is for longer skirts, mid-calf and lower even for daytime, but he's been pushing the longer hemline for a couple of seasons now. Not a mini left!

Weinberg, holder of numerous awards for his fashion creativity, was one of the pace-setting designers who are showing their new collections to the nation's buyers and some press.

Weinberg clothes, the commentator said, were for the "woman who loves fashion, who loves change, women of all ages, all sizes and all pocketbooks." To meet the demand of the woman pricetag-watching, he showed some from his boutique or "Chester Now" collection, less expensive than his couture group The boutique clothes retail from $75 up to $185, the others from $200 to $500.

DESIGNER ADOLFO did the hats, some of them for late day and "tea time" the cartwheels with brims wide as the model's shoulders, framing the face with gentle curve, and matched to the dress. The daytime Adolfos were big panamas in natural tone, with scarf hatband matching the dress or suit. Or, they were outsize felts in palest pastel or white, brims turned jauntily up at one side.

Rarely did Weinberg resort to a favorite technique in the nation's garment centre, of alleviating some of the lengthened hemline with slits up sides or front. Only a few prints featured the slits, and with dark stockings coordinated with the costume, there wasn't much around for the leg watchers.

The total silhouette for Weinberg is one of spareness, gentle fit through the waist, wide belts often used, narrowed shoulders, with an occasional modified leg o'mutton sleeve showing. Narrow shape that is, except when he is in his cape mood.

Some of his capes were more like the old-fashioned Bertha collar, ending above the elbow. Then for contrast on came huge circles of fabric, falling to about 10 inches from the floor, many of them in solid sheer wools over printed dresses, others prints to top prints.

In one evening group, the

First Woman Named To Lutheran Church's Board Of Directors

Mrs. Lenore Koehn of Mill Valley, who has been elected president of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Peace Church, Mill Valley, is the first woman named to the church's board of directors since women were given a vote in church affairs at the recent convention.

Mrs. Koehn says women are now taking more interest in the church since this decision.

A member of the league nine years, she taught Sunday school five years and headed the church's visitation committee for the elderly and shut-ins, both in the church and the community. The new president says she enjoys church work more than anything else and has a special interest in the problems of the elderly. She arranged to give a monthly birthday party for patients at the Valley Park Rehabilitation and Convalescent Hospital in Mill Valley.

MRS. LENORE KOEHN

She hopes to increase membership in the league and expand its missionary activities.

A native of Mill Valley, educated in its schools through Tamalpais High School, Lenore Koehn is the daughter of the late George Gossers, whose family had a meat business in Mill Valley for 42 years. She was married in the Peace Lutheran Church at the time when church services were held at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

After attending Golden Gate College in San Francisco she worked for accounting firms in San Francisco and on the Peninsula. Except for five years when she lived in San Mateo she has lived in Mill Valley all of her life. She has a daughter, Cindy, 9.

Her leisure time activities are playing the piano for her own enjoyment and gardening.

Mrs. William Park To Coordinate Volunteers In Rubella Campaign

The Marin March of Dimes in cooperation with the San Rafael Junior Women's Club will coordinate volunteer workers for the rubella (German measles) vaccination program to be conducted throughout the county by the Marin County Health Department.

Mrs. William F. Park of Terra Linda, who represents both of the volunteer organizations, will be chairman of the volunteers.

"Many volunteers will be needed," Mrs. Park said, "and it is hoped that the general public, as well as physicians, nurses, pharmacists and other health professionals, will offer their services at the school sites."

Mrs. Park said she hopes to organize teams of 16 volunteers each to serve as registrars, swabbers, etc. for approximately one week on either a morning or afternoon shift in school clinics in North, Central and Southern Marin.

Those wishing to serve as volunteer workers in the effort to wipe out rubella, a disease which causes birth defects when it afflicts expectant mothers, may telephone Mrs. Park.

"The object of the rubella eradication program," explained Mrs. Park, "is to prevent a possible epidemic of rubella in 1971 by vaccinating children one through 11 who are most likely to develop the disease and spread it to their mothers or other female relatives or friends who may be pregnant."

"Aside from the human anguish of bearing a child with rubella caused defects — eye or heart damage, deafness, microcephaly (small head and brain), or bone marrow disease — consider the cost to the United States of what some call the "Rubella Class of '64."

"The cost for education and care of the estimated 20,000 children born to women who contracted rubella during their first three months of pregnancy during that epidemic is almost $3 billion annually," she said "with individual costs estimated at from $9,000 to $13,000 a year."

"In California alone, an estimated 1,500 rubella babies were born during the last epidemic. Multiply this figure by $9,000 per individual and you see it costs California over $13,500,000 each year to pay for one epidemic of rubella."

Mrs. Park also urged mothers of pre-school children over the age of one year to have them vaccinated at the school clinics.

"The Health Department," Mrs. Park concluded, "hopes that 90 per cent or more of Marin's under 12-year-old population will be vaccinated."

Dishwasher Water

Water in the dishwasher should be at least 140 degrees. If in doubt, let hot water run from the faucet for a few minutes in a deep bowl, then check the temperature with a meat thermometer.

To Call It Chicken

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — The Pennsylvania State University reminds consumers that if you order a chicken burger it must be 100 per cent chicken, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture standards. Chicken chop suey must contain at least four per cent chicken and chili con carne must have at least 35 per cent beef and not more than 15 per cent fat.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

A Sobering Trip Around The U.S. Needed By Some 'Ugly Americans'

DEAR HELEN:

Being over 30, I shouldn't write this letter because I'll be stereotyped as an old fuddy-duddy but . . .

Suppose you were walking down your Main Street and you observed a group of young people shouting and giggling in a foreign language, but obviously making fun of everything they see.

This group continues down the street, entering a shop. They handle everything in sight, snickering all the while. When one decides to buy, he hauls out more money than the shop owner makes in a week and says, expecting the man to understand his language, "Hey, figure this out for me — I can't understand your funny foreign money." Then they leave, bragging about how they snuckered the guy out of a bargain.

Later, buying a round of drinks — which they're too young to manage — they flop their expensive tourist cameras down on the bar, toss their money beside them and demand service.

This is the picture Europeans get of our newbreed of "Ugly Americans," the affluent kids whose parents turn them loose overseas without supervision, and without instilling courtesy for their hosts in a foreign country.

We saw them more than once on our trip to Europe this summer. Either they were throwing their money — and insults — around, or they were of the unwashed, hippie variety who came over for the "trip" and perhaps ended up in jail on drug charges.

May I suggest that American parents keep their kids home or accompany them on the grand tour — unless they can teach them manners? Why not send them out into their own country to see its ugliness as well as its beauty. It might be a sobering experience. — CONCERNED

DEAR HELEN:

Your item about "Twelve Words at Twelve," the national Prayer for Peace, intrigued me. I've got our church interested, and other organizations are following suit.

Could you give us a few samples of what those 12-word prayers should include? — INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED:

The Synod of the Golden Gate, sponsors of the Midday Prayer for Peace, has sent me a batch of samples. Anyone who wishes a copy may have one. Just send your request and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Independent-Journal.

Should you want further information on beginning such a program in your town, write to: Synod Of The Golden Gate, 330 Ellis Street, San Francisco, Calif., 94102. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have been dating a man for a year now and we care for each other very much. Today I tried to find out what he wants for his birthday. He told me flat out that I was not to get him anything, as he wasn't going to observe my birthday in any way.

He didn't even send me a card on other holidays — Christmas, Valentines's Day, etc., but I thought it was only because we weren't good friends then. Now I'm doubtful if he'll ever give me a Christmas present. It isn't that I'm mercenary — I just want to know he thinks of me on these special days. Isn't it natural to want to buy a gift for someone you care about?

Helen, am I wrong to expect some token of affection? He came from Rome, Italy, five years ago. Maybe he just doesn't know our customs. He didn't even wish me Merry Christmas last year. — HOPEFUL BUT NOT HOPING

DEAR HBNH:

When in the U. S., a Roman should follow our customs. You know your fella well enough to discuss this with him now. So do. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Hellen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

TUG OF WAR COMPROMISE

The Knees Are Dead These Days In Cities Of Europe

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI)—Knees are becoming extinct throughout Europe and soon a woman's leg may be as dead as the dodo, fashion-wise.

The Paris spring ready-to-wear shows begin unfolding their wares tomorrow, and there still will be a few short skirts among the long.

But with the midi-maxi look already in the stores for two months, women throughout the continent dutifully are hiding their knees under long skirts and pants, and covering any remaining trace of leg with boots.

IN PARIS, which remains the fashion capital of the world despite periodic uprisings in London, New York and Rome, the fall uniform is a midi skirt slit to above the knee, wide leather belt at the waist, high necked pullover, high boots, fringed handbag and sleeveless maxi coat.

"Women like to look alike," says designer Hubert de Givenchy, and Parisiennes proved it the other night at a plush discotheque where long skirts and boots were unanimous despite steambath temperatures.

MUNICH: Spring ready-to-wear showings feature the long look. Designers predict total indoctrination of women. Newspapers have dropped their anti-midi cry and about-faced to sing praises of new "feminine styles."

AMSTERDAM: The mini is out. Some shops report they are unable to keep up with the midi-maxi demand. Trousers still are in favor as a compromise. Housewives have complained in letters to newspapers but the youth have been brainwashed into long clothes. Said high school student Anja van der Perk, 15, "All the girls in my class want the new fashions and many have them already. I think it's as much fun as the mini was."

EAST EUROPE: No maxis or midis are seen on the streets of Moscow but most trends are a decade late in the Russian capital and clothes are too expensive to be abandoned overnight. Homemade long styles already have appeared in Warsaw and other East European capitals.

MADRID: The young set and fashion-conscious women have fallen into the midi-maxi army. Minis are scarcely seen in shop windows and a sudden cold spell brought crowds into shops to buy the leg-wrapping styles.

STOCKHOLM: One newspaper launched an anti-midi campaign with free protest buttons demanding "no to midi-maxi." Another newspaper reported women were against the maxi 15-1 in a poll. Fifty girls in minis staged a protest march with the sign, "We fight Paris fashion dictatorship."

However, despite the sniping criticisms maxis and midis are gaining some ground in Stockholm "in" places. Popular uniform this fall is mini skirt, as mini as before, masked by a maxi or midi length coat.

There are still complaints that some shops went overboard on maxi-midi styles, but boutique owners say that more midis are on the way in response to demand. Maxi-midi coats are being worn over pants and boots, too.

The feeling in Europe is that this is a transition period and any length goes from old minis to maxis plus pants, short or long. It is even possible that fashion will permit knee-baring skirts a while longer on vacations and hot days. But in general, the lights are going out on legs all over Europe.

And, So Pants

Gallery Guides at the American Stock Exchange have been wearing minis. They think the midi is unflattering, so they'll wear pants this year. Their new custom-made uniforms consist of two pieces — tunic and pants. The autumn gold, tailored woolen tunic has a modified A-line shape with three-quarter sleeves trimmed in off-white around the neck and down the center of the garment. The pants are fitted at the hips but widen from mid-calf to shoe.

Used Glass Is Being Collected And Used

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — The great glass collection is under way.

Across the country—from Ann Arbor to New Orleans, from New Brunswick to Los Angeles—environment-conscious Americans are helping put their glass bottles and jars back into a giant recycling system.

The containers are starting to re-enter the manufacturing process as "cullet"-ground glass that is needed to make new glass for bottles and jars.

ONE OF the pioneers in reusing glass is Owens-Illinois, Inc., which began a program of getting the public to help gather up used containers at its Bridgeton, N.J., plant two years ago when it became clear that most old-time cullet dealers had been forced out of business for economic reasons.

From the original Bridgeton project, the idea spread to the other 17 cities in which Owens-Illinois has glass container manufacturing plants.

The company now has launched glass container collections in cities in which there are no container manufacturing plants—Ann Arbor, Mich., New Brunswick, N.J., and here in Toledo. The glass is trucked to plants from the collection points.

In Ann Arbor, residents, encouraged by the ecology group called ENACT (Environmental Action for Survival)' collected 65 tons—about 250,000 bottles—within two days.

CULLET IS not the only use for used glass containers. Research now is under way on converting old glass to structural products such as bricks, insulating wool, tiles, rods, sheeting and light- weight aggregate for use in building low-cost housing and roads.

In cooperation with the University of Missouri-Rolla, Owens-Illinois already has paved one street with "glasphalt", a mixture of glass and asphalt, and is planning others.

Tie-Die Fashion News Comes From Ethiopia

Colorful tie-dye fashions from Ethiopia are making international fashion news, thanks to Peace Corps volunteer Stan Provus.

Two years ago, Provus organized 16 Ethiopian "street boys" in a cooperative to create the colorful African patterns. The co-op now has 150 members, including 40 lepers, who handmake all its products. The venture has grown from $100 of borrowed capital to $400,000 in sales.

Provus has found a ready market for the brilliant dashikis and caftans in Israel, Italy and England and more recently in the United States. During a recent visit to Washington, Provus found his fashions popular among girls on the Peace Corps staff — including the models above.

Provus says of his unusual Peace Corps project: "How are you going to get food into these people's mouths unless you help them create their own businesses?"

designer borrowed from the peasant look — and peasants should look so wealthy! Rich fabrics in bright colors went into ankle length dresses, worn with jewelled versions of the tie-on head scarf.

In another, he matched "wigs" with formal dresses, the wigs being head coverings of black net laced with bright flowers, the design of Vidal Sassoon.

SEYMOUR FOX, a house known for quiet elegance, played true to itself in its collection shown Wednesday. The firm showed hemlines the safe way, with suit and costume skirts at three inches or a little more below the knee.

The suit silhouette was strictly the safe Coco Chanel look, with narrow set-in sleeves, collarless jackets trimmed down the front, around the neck and ends of sleeves. Fringe trimmed in many cases, as did brass buttons on both single and double-breasted jackets.

TO PUBLISH ENGAGEMENT AND WEDDING STORIES IN THE I-J

Forms for engagement and wedding story information to be printed in the Independent-Journal are available from the I-J offices in San Rafael, Novato, Mill Valley and Southern Sonoma.

Wedding forms should be returned promptly to the I-J office in your area and information will be printed immediately after the wedding. Photographers should be urged to submit a print of the wedding picture promptly. Color photographs cannot be used.

The Independent-Journal does not print wedding stories or photographs received more than seven days after the wedding.

An engagement form may be accompanied by a professional black and white photograph, which may be picked up at the I-J office after publication. Snapshots, polaroid or color pictures are not suitable.

ON BEING BLACK

Churches And Liquor Stores

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

The churches range from the spacious, ornate structures to the one-room store-front tabernacles. Their major competitors — the liquor stores — come in another variety of physical structures, from a hole-in-the-wall in a commercial section to a modern, air-conditioned minimart right in the middle of a cluster of shabby houses. This neighborhood businessman's grand neon sign beckons the inhabitants for blocks around and generously lights the way to his spacious parking lot.

As with most of our society, churches and liquor stores have undergone some changes over the years.

REMEMBER WHEN liquor stores used to close at an early (respectable) hour and were not allowed to be open on the Sabbath? Today their doors seem always open, and no day is so sacred as to cause them to hang up that closed sign.

Today's local liquor stores join the churches in honoring such holidays as Easter and Christmas. As one proprietor stated, "I make more money on Christmas than I do all year long. Close? You gotta be kidding!"

The churches have recognized the need to offer members a variety of activities, in addition to those of a religious nature. They now attend to many community projects, such as using their facilities as social centers for young people and for many educational and political activities.

The liquor store has also extended itself. If you've visited one lately, you know that for a price, well above supermarket prices, you can get everything from baby formula to beef jerky.

IF THEY don't have what you want, they've got information about its whereabouts, either from the proprietor or a customer on the premises. I refer to such items as male or female companionship for a price, any and every drug, color television sets at "steal" prices and suede coats and blonde wigs for less than a song.

The churches solicit members from every age bracket and every walk of life. Everyone is worth saving, thank heaven! And they often have a variety of souls to work on, especially on the days they offer free meals.

The liquor store also has an interesting clientele, to say the least. Unfortunately, they also cater to all age groups — including our children. Since it is illegal to sell liquor to minors, I think it should be illegal for them to patronize the liquor stores.

But the children are lured onto the premises by a variety of candies, soft drinks and comic books. While there they can observe the peculiar patrons, browse through the girlie magazines and see the local wino attempt to "palm off" some hot item in exchange for his daily bottle of wine.

Yes, churches and liquor stores we got — a lot! It makes one wonder which came first. Did the liquor stores follow the churches, salving the sinners who could not relate to religion? Or did the churches follow in the footsteps of the liquor stores in an attempt to wrestle the drinkers away from the devil?

Whatever the answer, it looks like both establishments will continue taking care of our spiritual needs.

Cooking Odors

Vinegar will do a good job of removing objectionable cooking odors from pots and pans. Pour a cup of vinegar in the pan and simmer for a few minutes. Then wash in the usual way. The pan should be odorless and fresh again.

Bicycle I.D. Gets Results

Almost 30 lost or stolen bicycles have been returned to their owners this year because they were registered with Marin Bike I.D., a service provided by the Peter Pan Chapter of the Children's Home Society.

For a small fee, the bike's frame number, color, make and owner's name and address are registered and a license is attached. Police departments have access to the records and a 24-hour answering service is maintained to keep them current.

Over 1200 bikes have been registered by the Peter Pan Chapter and PTAs in 11 schools. Registration forms are available by writing to Bicycle Identification of Marin at Box 1233 or calling the answering service listed under the same name.

DANCE REVIEW

Insight Lacking In American Classics

By MARIE RAMEAU

OAKLAND — It was, of course, refreshing to see the Oakland Ballet take a more classical trend last night. Unfortunately, in American ballet, classical excerpts are not usually approached with any degree of insight.

Due to atrociously unclassical costuming, the familiar "Sylvia" pas de deux was almost unrecognizable. Asta Arisa exhibited an outstanding extension and line but in unsupported passages appeared weak. Florin Lu-Ball demonstrated brilliant beats but low elevation.

The most that could be said of Miss Arisa's "Dying Swan" was that her costume closely resembled the original. Yet she looked more like a dragonfly and very much alive. Stiff arms and slow bourrees are merely technical shortcomings, but lacking emotional depth, her performance became shallow as well as rather rangy. Finally, although attributed to Fokine, this version did not even remotely compare with the pattern set by him for Pavlova.

"Les Lesquercardes," to music of Delibes, was notably inconsistent. The costumes were late Renaissance, while the music, composed in strict period style, was definitely Rococo. Sheri Jack was musical in the passepied, but the arrangement of the tableaux lacked the grandeur inherent in the score.

"Walk to Paradise Garden" was dated, being reminiscent of Martha Graham's "Appalachian Spring," already famous in the 1940s. The ballet generally lacked sophistication and was redeemed only by Anita Paciotti's elegant and sensitive artistry.

To anyone more than superficially acquainted with Far Eastern dance, Carlos Carvajal's "Peace" must remain distinctively Haight Street, and by this time even the theme deserves a long rest. His real originality emerged in "Chimera," premiered this fall with his own company, Dance Spectrum. Dianne Brock, however, missed the volatile temperament demanded by the title role.

Although the "Trois Gymnopedies" of Eric Satie have been overworked by innumerable choreographers, they again constituted the most effective segment of the program. Director Ron Guidi is only a competent dancer but nevertheless a fine partner as well as a talented and professional choreographer. Hence these were rich in mood and style.

The company will repeat the program today at 8:30 p.m., in Kaiser Auditorium at Oakland.

End Of Month Should See College Creek Work Finished

The Marin Junior College District board last night was told construction of Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, which runs through the heart of the College of Marin, will be completed in two weeks.

Dale A. Fleming, college planning director, told the board the concrete foot bridge spanning the creek at mid-campus has been poured and represents the final concrete work of the propect. Use of the bridge, however, is about a week away.

"I would have had a more up to date (written) report," Flemming told the trustees, "but the project is moving too fast."

He said placement of the sewer line adjacent the creek channel has proceeded to a point upstream of college property and backfilling of channel walls is now in progress.

In related action, the board accepted $50,026 from the Ross Valley Flood Control District as reimbursement for temporary and permanent rights-of-way adjacent the creek construction site.

The amount also includes an allowance for landscaping damaged as a result of construction work.

About $38,000 of the total will be used to finance the cement foot bridge and the remainder for screen plantings along the channel, the board agreed.

The Marin Junior College District Board Also:

EASEMENT — Approved unnimously granting a rectangular 52-square-foot easement to the Marin Municipal Water District for water connections to the science building.

EQUIPMENT — Authorized advertising for bids on about $101,000 worth of equipment for the new Harlan building now under construction.

TRAILER — Approved a proposal for funding by the Oakes Foundation of San Francisco of a mobile trailer for use by the College of Marin nursing students and faculty at Marin General Hospital.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a status report on a policy which would restrict future enrollment of students who do not receive credit in a sufficent number of courses in which they initially registered.

TOUR — Heard a report from board members on a tour of the science and Harlan buildings now under construction. Trustees expressed concern over security of the science building and the possibility that the Harlan building will not be completed on schedule.

TAX AND2 BOND — Expressed appreciation for newspaper and various groups' support of measures B and C on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Chancellor's Note Clears District Name

It took a letter from the chancellor of California Community Colleges to district trustees, but confusion ended last night over what the Marin Junior College District is to call itself.

For several months, some college staff and trustees have been referring to the district as the Marin Community College District.

Wrong, wrote the chancellor. The district will remain with the junior college designation until a senate bill allowing the name change becomes effective in late November.

If at that time the district wishes a name change, the chancellor wrote, the district must seek approval from the county board of supervisors.

Hit Tobacco Ads

BERLIN (UPI) — Health ministers of the State of the West German Federal Republic at a meeting here appealed today to radio and television stations to ban tobacco advertising as a danger to health.

VFW Appeals For Soldiers' Names

Tamalpais Post 72 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is planning to send Christmas packages to servicemen in Vietnam and Korea.

However, the post needs the names of local servicemen now stationed in the Far East by Oct. 29 so that packages can be mailed in time for Christmas delivery.

Persons who know servicemen stationed in the two countries should contact Fred Helberg, of 306 Las Flores Avenue, San Rafael, or Arthur Wedemeyer Jr. of 9 Chanticleer Avenue, Larkspur.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parents's Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport" — Outstanding star-studded cast in this gripping story of the workings of a large airport during a paralyzing blizzard. Builds up very intense and may be too exciting for younger children.

"Cheyenne Social Club" — Two carefree cowpokes inherit a bawdy house with six prostitutes. It is adult material masquerading as family fare. It lacks wit, taste and honesty.

"Downhill Racer" — A brilliant study of the development of a ski champion. Action sequences are complimented by story about the dynamics of sports competition.

"Molly Maquires" — Based on fact, drama is an episode in American labor history. Irish coal miners in 1876 resort to violence to protest oppressive working and living conditions. Harsh, exciting, well acted film.

"Monte Walsh" — That time in American history when Eastern progress came rolling over the old wild West. It is a seriocomic study of lonely dispossessed men with no job market for their skills.

"Patton" — Excellent characterization by George C. Scott who portrays an indomitable spirit that could achieve its destiny only in wartime. A strong film makes use of violence and frequent profanity.

"Sicilian Clan" — Head of a Mafia clan arranges a jail break. The contrast between their professional and personal morals is well dramatized. Film travels slowly over too familiar roads. English subtitles.

"Sunflower" — Emotional melodrama tells of a woman who travels to Russia after the war to trace her lost husband. What to do when she finds him is the core of the film plot. Well acted.

"Taste the Blood of Dracula" — At a Black Mass Dracula is resurrected and plans to bring vengance on the children of the men who killed him. Proceeding liberally sprinkled with blood and gore and shocks for the horror addicts. (Motion Picture Exhibitor Magazine)

"Tell Me That You Love Me Junie Moon" — Three people with crippling defects meet as patients in a hospital and decide to share a house when released and attempt to adjust to the world. Well acted.

"They Call Me, Mr. Tibbs" — Police detective assigned to investigate the murder of a prostitute must choose between a personal friendship and dedication to law enforcement. Explicit sex and violence makes film unsuitable for younger teens.

"Trog" — Well acted, British made science fiction tale about a lady scientist and a monster. Too much blood and gore for younger children.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cotton Comes to Harlem" — A cops and robbers story filmed in Harlem with an almost entirely black cast centers around $87,000 that was hidden in a bale of cotton. Sex, violence and gutter language are unstrained, story has strong realistic ethnic flavor.

"Goodbye Columbus" — Sophisticated, very frank comedy about a love affair between college aged couple which survives a dispute over the use of contraceptives, founders in the end on a choice of values.

"Lovers and Other Strangers" — Amusing well acted comedy about a couple who have been roommates decide to marry. Series of vignettes about their relative's marital affairs are intercut into the wedding preparations. Bedroom scenes crude and profanity abundant.

"Move" — A bawdy, insane comedy satirizing the life style of big city dwellers. The process of moving to another apartment forces a married man to reevaluate his life. Laced with sex, nudity and vulgar humor.

"Ned Kelly" — Bloody and violent film follows the trial of crimes committed by an Australian family of outlaws in the 1870's. Sympathy is thrown to the outlaws as they are pursued by police. Excessive gore.

"A Place for Lovers" — Story of an intimate affair between a beautiful woman, who is gravely ill and a chance acquaintance, set in glamorous wrappings. A tasteless party with pronographic slides and torrid sex scenes make it unsuitable for youth.

ADULTS ONLY

"Best House in London" — Set in Victorian London story deals with streetwalkers striking for a luxurious brothel of their very own. Profuse nudity and all kinds of sexual deviations in this bawdy farce.

"Guess What We Learned in School Today" — Free-form satire attacks hypocritical sex values by contrasting what people say with what they actually do. Great deal of nudity; sex and the humor is crude and tasteless.

"Joanna" — This British "La Dolce Vita" describes a world where personal license is completely accepted, then urges that life has a meaning and roots beyond self gratification.

"M-A-S-H" — Hilarious, subtle anti-war comedy of three army surgeons who develop outlandish life-style to survive the gore that passes before their eyes. Sex, nudity and profanity.

"Something For Everyone" — Well acted, good cast, magnificent scenery and elaborate settings make this macabre satire of sex, sadism and murder more palatable. A thoroughly evil young man gains control of an impoverished countess' estate by various methods. Surprise ending.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

EDITOR — Gregory Armstrong, editor of the prison letters of George Jackson, holds papers in hand as he addresses some 150 persons outside San Quentin Prison. Armstrong spoke at a champagne party yesterday heralding the publication of "Soledad Brother" Jackson's letters in book form.

A MISPLACED DECIMAL MAKES BIG DIFFERENCE

San Anselmo homeowners gagging at the prospect of raising an additional $621 for property taxes if measures E and F are approved Nov. 3 can thank a typographical error in yesterday's Independent-Journal for their discomfort.

The measure which would fund a new fire engine and street repairs would each mean an increase of $6.21 per year for two years to the owner of a $30,000 home, NOT $621.

Girl Re-Arrested For New Hearing

A charge of arson against Grace Patricia Halloran, 24, Novato, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court who felt there had not been enough evidence presented at a preliminary hearing.

Miss Halloran was promptly rearrested, however, by Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino, who said that legal proceedings would start again. He said that he had additional evidence that he will present at a second preliminary hearing.

Youth Commission Seeks To Fill Spots

Chairman George Kewin of Mill Valley announced that the commission will interview interested persons Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Catholic Social Services office, 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Commission vacancies are in Supervisorial District 4 (Southern San Rafael, most of Larkspur and Corte Madera, and from Woodacre westward) and District 5 (North Marin).

Youths interested in serving on the commission may contact youth coordinator L. Charles Smith in Room 163 of the Hall of Justice, in the Civic Center.

The youth commission, composed of four adults and seven youths, has set up committees to study juvenile rights, student discount at movies, student involvement in political and civic activities and rotation of meeting places to encourage more public participation.

The commission also makes recommendation for $1,000 matching funds for new, creative youth programs. Groups that have qualified for this funding include Switchboard of Marin, Mill Valley Drop-In House, San Anselmo Coffee House and the Las Gallinas Revelation (an art cooperative).

Kentfield Fire Panel Sets Special Meeting

Kentfield Fire Protection District directors will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Oct. 26 in the fire station.

Chief Kenneth T. Kamp said the board will discuss full-time hiring of a temporary fireman.

SOLEDAD BROTHER PARTY

Champagne Flows Outside Quentin

About 150 supporters of Soledad Brother George Jackson gathered outside the walls of San Quentin Prison yesterday to celebrate publication of a book of collected letters by the young black revolutionary.

The champagne corks popped like rifle shots and those assembled cheered a message from the guest of honor, unable to attend the reception since he is being held in San Quentin awaiting trial for the murder of a Soledad Prison guard last January.

The Cleaver-Newton-Jackson collective sincerely embraces you all," Jackson wrote. "We could not have struggled to this level without you.

He urged his followers to win over the silent majority to the revolutionary cause: "They are not the least committed beyond persuasion to fascist ideals. You can win them, prevent this thing from going out of control or race war will be the end of us all.

"All your energies should be oriented toward the breakdown of all, or at least the overt manifestation of racist psychology. That's a heavy task."

He concluded the message, signed "George from Dakau," by calling for "power to the people" and "war to the uttermost."

"Right on," shouted the audience, mostly young and white. Brief talks by Jackson's attorney Fay Stender and Gregory Armstrong, editor of the book, "Soledad Brother: The Prison Letters of George Jackson," followed.

Mrs. Stender accused prison authorities of being "determined to murder every remaining black witness to the Soledad murder."

Armstrong called yesterday's celebration one of victory over San Quentin, Soledad and the whole California prison system which 10 years ago set out to break George Jackson," but failed.

Following the speeches, the young people marched up to the prison gate as a guard inside the wall snapped pictures of them and other guards stood and watched.

"Free George Jackson," "Free the Soledad Brothers," "Free all the prisoners," the partygoers shouted in unison. "Smash the state," one young man cried and another called out: "Like Johnny Cash said, 'San Quentin, I hope you rot; you never did no good."

Most of the people remained in front of the prison for 30 minutes longer to talk, accept free copies of the new book and drink more champagne, then disbanded quietly.

Jackson and two other black former Soledad inmates, Fleeta Drumgo and John Clutchette are accused of killing a guard in January, three days after guards killed three black inmates during a scuffle in the prison yard.

Jackson's 17-year-old brother, Jonathan, shot and killed during the Aug. 7 attempted escape from the Marin Hall of Justice, is the recipient of many of the letters in the book. So is Angela Davis, accused of murder and kidnapping in the breakout.

Missionary To Speak Saturday

A two-day missions conference at the Mill Valley First Baptist Church will open tomorrow with an international buffet at 6 p.m. in Spangler Hall at the Church, 285 Miller Avenue.

Guest speaker will be Virginia Nickerson, missionary nurse to the Congo. Special music will be featured.

At the 11 a.m. service Sunday, Rev. Louis F. Knoll, a missionary to South India, will speak.

Speedup Of Development Is Pledged

Efforts will be made next week to step up school development, the Old Adobe School District board heard last night.

Supt. Dean D. Magowan said an officer of the state allocations board will visit the district to review the fast growth of East Petaluma in relation to school needs. (See story page 1 on East Petalumans' bitter reaction to development)

Magowan said figures will be presented in an attempt to justify the construction of a complete 21 classroom school on St. Francis Drive rather than building it in phases as has been proposed.

It is hoped that the new Miwok Valley School will be completed for the fall of 1972. Magowan said final plans are nearly complete, but may be delayed by the state because of a reduction of employees in the plan check department.

"I'm doing everything I can to speed it up as much as possible," Magowan told the board.

The superintendent also reported that the six-classroom addition to La Tercera School is going according to schedule.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

DATA PROCESSING — Sent a letter to the Sonoma County Board of Education saying it saw little benefit from the data processing service because attendance accounting is more difficult and costly and test results are sometimes not received for two or three months.

ATTENDANCE — Heard Magowan report that average daily attendance of 1,425 students projected in the 1970-71 budget has already been met and will be well surpassed by the end of the school year.

PARKS — Heard Magowan report that he is working on a joint agreement with the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission to develop a park area at La Tercera School. He said that Little League fields and landscaping of the school will be included.

High School Girl Reports She's Beaten

A 16-year-old student at San Rafael High School was beaten and kicked in the face during what was described as a racially-motivated attack at the school yesterday.

Police said Kimberly Lockman of 145 Maywood Way, San Rafael, a white girl, was knocked to the floor in a girl's restroom in the school's math building and kicked several times by five to seven black girls.

Miss Lockman told police she knew her assailants as high school students, but refused to identify them, saying she feared reprisal.

Miss Lockman, however, received a large cut on her forehead, a skinned nose, a cut below the right eye and a swollen upper lip, police said. She said she would seek private treatment, according to police.

Today is Friday, Oct. 16, the 289th day of 1970.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born today are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1940 the United States banned all shipments of steel and scrap iron to Japan.

In 1969 the New York Mets, an expansion team formed in 1962, defeated Baltimore to win their first world baseball championship.

A thought for today: American scientist Rossiter Worthington Raymond said, "Life is eternal; and love is immortal; and death is only a horizon; and a horizon is nothing save the limit for foresight."

State's Water Quality Studied

LOS ANGELES — From high mountain lakes to saltwater estuaries, research by University of California engineers and scientists is concerned with the quality of California's water.

A new report, issued by the Water Resources Center on the Los Angeles campus, lists more than 60 UC research projects in water quality. One aspect of the report is the variety of water quality problems under study.

Other projects UC researchers are working on include:

Better methods of sewage treatment.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Trouble With Most Players Is That They Aren't Generous Enough

The trouble with most bridge players is that they aren't generous enough. They think only of winning tricks instead of giving tricks away. If that seems like a proper frame of thought for practical players, consider today's hand.

WITH ACE

Declarer took the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs, observing to his partner: "If a couple of cards are right, we missed the bus." He hoped that West had three hearts headed by the queen and that East had the ace of diamonds, but the odds were about 10 to 1 against any such luck.

South drew two rounds of trumps, led the ace of hearts and continued with a heart to dummy's jack. East won with the queen of hearts and led the jack of diamonds, whereupon the defenders took three diamond tricks. Down one.

"Well, we didn't miss a slam after all," South admitted sheepishly. "With every card wrong, there was no way for me to make even game."

South could have made his contract if he had thought of the right trick to give away. See if you can find it before you read on.

GREEK GIFT

After taking the ace of clubs and two trumps, declarer should take both top hearts and then lead the ten of clubs from dummy. East plays low, and South discards his last heart, allowing West to win the trick.

Since West is out of hearts, he must lead diamonds, allowing South to win a trick with the king. If West led a club, instead, dummy would ruff while South got rid of a diamond. Either way South would make his contract.

If West could lead another heart, he would set up a heart card on the jack of hearts. And give dummy a heart trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ 5
♥ Q 10 9 8
♦ J 10 9 8
♣ 8 4 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

You have three points in high cards and should count three additional points for the side singleton. The total is just barely enough for a raise of partner's suit.

Two Are Arrested In Home Burglary

Two San Rafael juveniles were arrested Wednesday fleeing from a Los Ranchitos home that had been burglarized, police reported yesterday.

San Rafael police and a sheriff's deputy arrested Charles Gaines, 16, of 805 Rincon Way, Santa Venetia, and Nancy Ann Daniele, 16, of 213 Mirada Avenue, Los Ranchitos, about 20 minutes after a witness reported seeing two persons in the yard of 60 Circle Road at 2:27 p.m.

They were found hiding under a bush at the end of a trail of watches, coins and other items from the home of Edward Strombeck, police said.

Gaines and Miss Daniele were booked into Marin Juvenile Hall.

Nixon Decries Farm Bill Inertia

"I believe it will be resented by farm people throughout the United States," Nixon said in a statement Thursday. He accused the Senate of "callous indifference to the needs of the American farmer."

The compromise farm measure — with its historic limitation on pre-crop government subsidies to big farmers —had been accepted by the House but was still pending in the Senate when Congress recessed until after the November elections.

Nixon made his criticism in a statement after he signed a resolution delaying until Jan. 16 a scheduled price control referendum for wheat farmers.

No Expose From The Royal Garden

LONDON (UPI) — Buckingham Palace said Thursday night it had banned publication of the memoirs of a gardener who tended the grounds at Queen Elizabeth's Sandringham estate for 17 years.

Entitled "Royal Gardener," the book was written by Horace Parsons, 66, who retired last month. His publisher, Priory Press LTD. said his reminiscences were "perfectly innocuous."

The palace said the memoirs violated a declaration signed by all royal employes not to write anything about their jobs.

Indiana Farmer Is National Titlist

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Merrill Kelsay, 21, of Whiteland, Ind., was named the 1970 Star Farmer of America Thursday night at the 43rd annual convention of the Future Farmers of America.

Kelsay, a crop and dairy farmer, received the $1,000 cash award and national recognition in a special ceremony.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hearing Trouble Cause Victims Embarrassment, Mental Stress

With age, many people become hard of hearing (presbycusis) but refuse (for many reasons) to get a hearing aid. They miss much of what is said and cause considerable embarrassment to themselves and others. The person not only misses conversation directed to him but also snatches of discussions engaged in by others nearby.

Van Dellen

Oddly, the sufferer seldom complains about diminishing hearing and less so when it develops insidiously and remains unnoticed by himself and others. Many of those in middle or late life regard presbycusia (prez-be-ah-koo-se-ah) as a symptom of aging. They resist the suggestion that their efficiency may suffer. Some not only hide their handicap from others, but they themselves refuse to accept it. Some wait too long before seeking relief, and others never do.

REACTIONS to deafness are variable, and many unenlightened people still regard the deaf as dependent, peculiar, and sometime rediculous. The younger person seldom regards impaired hearing as a serious disability and is apt to think of it as a bit humorous. Even today a deaf character may appear in comedies whereas a blind person is found only in tragedies. Actually, deafness is a disability — a sensory deprivation.

The victim may be forced to change his occupation and readjustments are usually necessary. Sensitive persons may become suspicious or hostile; others develop feelings of isolation, insecurity and depression.

A THOROUGH ear examination is suggested whenever there is evidence of hearing loss. Never buy a hearing aid without first consulting the doctor. More than one person has done this only to find later that his aural deficiency is due to wax in the ear, or his type of deafness is not improved with an aid.

Since the most important aspect is the deaf person's attitude, family and friends should be sympathetic and encouraging.

BAD BREATH

G.M.C. writes: What causes extreme bad breath in a person? Mouthwash is used daily, along with regular brushing. Please advise.

REPLY

If your teeth are thoroughly cleaned with a toothbrush and you use a jet water spray, we can assume that the mouth is not implicated. Other possibilities include infection in the nose and throat, indigestion, constipation, excessive intestinal gas, and distention. The foods eaten also may be to blame. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

VITAMINS INDUCE HEADACHES

F.N. writes: I get a headache whenever I take vitamins. Would you know why this happens to me?

REPLY

You may be allergic to one of the ingredients in the pills or the material surrounding the capsules. If you are taking vitamin B complex, for example, it may contain nicotinic acid which dilates the blood vessels of the brain on the affected side. This could induce head pain.

ALLERGIC TO SMOKE

REPLY

I assume they are the same as those due to inhaling dust — asthma, headache, or a nasal congestion resembling hay fever.

$15,200 Received In Hunger Walk

About $15,200 of between $20,000 and $30,000 pledged to the Marin "Walk Against Hungar" had been received through yesterday, according tc an official of the Crocker Citizens Bank of San Anselmo.

The 20-mile hike Sept. 20 drew about 1,000 walkers who were pledged an average of $1 a mile, according to march organizers.

The bank is still accepting deposits for the walk which was to benefit the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation and the South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions.

Subject only to the conditions authorized in the leases, said deposit and the proceeds thereof will be forfeited to the County if the successful bidder fails or refuses to execute the leases on or before November 13, 1970, after notification of award and submission for signature; otherwise, the deposit accompanying the successful bid will be returned upon execution of the leases. The deposits accompanying rejected bids will be returned upon execution of the leases by the successful bidder or upon expiration of the time allowed for award, whichever is earlier.

(g) The Board of Supervisors reserves the absolute right (1) to reject for good cause, in the Board's discretion, any of the bids submitted, (2) to award to the bidder submitting the bid determined in the Board's discretion to be the lowest bid submitted by a responsible bidder, or (3) to reject all bids submitted. Each bidder agrees by submitting a bid to provide the Board of Supervisors with additional evidence of its ability to perform under the terms of the leases, if so requested. Ex-Marinite Waging Bitter Judicial Race

I-J Special Report

DOWNIEVILLE — A former San Rafael attorney is involved in a superior court election campaign in Sierra County much more bitter than the contest for election to the municipal court in Marin.

Gordon I. Smith, district attorney of Sierra County, is challenging the incumbent, John F. Keane, for the county's only superior court judgeship in the Nov. 3 election.

Smith has run advertisements in the county's two weekly newspapers saying, "Let's have no more complaints to the state judicial council about Sierra County's superior court judge. Six years are enough!" The advertisements also urged Smith be elected because, among other qualifivations, he is "sober."

Judge Keane retorted with advertisements accusing Smith of a campaign "of slander and innuendo" and claiming there has been no complaint to the California Commission on Judicial Qualifications (which, rather than the judicial council, handles such matters) on Keane's performance as judge.

Judge Keane also claims that Smith has never brought a case to trial as district attorney, instead always arranging a guilty plea "either to lesser charges . . . or possibly because of a promised recommendation by the district attorney of a light sentence." In the only case brought to trial before Judge Keane, he claims, Smith turned over prosecution to the state attorney general.

Smith, who was a deputy district attorney in Marin County in 1950-52, served briefly once before as Sierra County Superior Court judge.He was appointed to a vacancy in that court by Gov. Goodwin . Knight in December 1957, while still practicing in Marin but after establishing a legal residence in Downieville.

The following year, Smith was defeated for election to the judgeship. He subsequently ran successfully for district attorney.

In October 1965, he was charged with failure to file federal income tax returns for 1959 through 1962. He first pleaded innocent, but changed the plea to no contest to a charge of failure to file for 1961 only, and was fined $2,500 and given a year's suspended sentence by Judge Lloyd H. Burke in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Turning Stable Land Into Private School Is Rejected

A proposal to turn the Sleepy Hollow Stable property into a private high school was rejected by a 30-28 vote last night at the quarterly membership meeting of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association.

Merritt A. Robinson, association president, said the rejection came in a resolution requesting the Marin County Board of Supervisors to deny the school a use permit "since it is the established policy of the homes association to form a community services district and purchase the property for recreation."

Robinson said an endorsement of the school proposal on Oct. 1 by the association board was withdrawn by the board at a special meeting Sunday in light of the association's previous resolution to purchase the property for recreation.

The school proposal called for a coeducational school with a maximum of 160 students on about a third of the 15.5-acre parcel, with one-third held in its natural state as an ecological preserve and the remainer in parking, athletic fields and tennis courts for school and community use.

Following the rejection of the school plan, the association membership agreed to begin circulation of a petition for formation of a community services district.

Also discussed last night, Robinson said, were plans for a state assembly and senate candidate's night at 7:45 p.m. next Thursday. Five of the six candidates have said they will attend, Robinson said, but the association has not heard from William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, a resident of Sleepy Hollow.

The candidates' night is cosponsored by the San Anselmo Homes Association and San Anselmo Senior Citizens.

ABAG Panel In Reluctant Backing To Health Funds

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee last night reluctantly endorsed a bid by the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council for $372,964 in federal funds for its 1971 planning program.

The committee, however, first tacked on proposed controls to assure the planning program will conform to ABAG's own regional plan, passed several months ago. The controls, urged by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum, also would give ABAG power to review the planning program as it progressed.

The committee's comments were to be passed on to the federal government for its consideration in funding the planning program. The program includes preparation of a land use plan, which already has been done in ABAG's plan.

The Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council has spent 1 million in the past two years, and to date has produced by-laws, an organizational structure, and the proposed planning program, according to an ABAG spokesman.

(Wornum and other Marin supervisors have been sharply critical of the council's arm in Marin, objecting mainly that it is a nonelected agency empowered by the federal government to decide what health programs should be funded, as well as when and where.)

The executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments also:

BOLINAS — Endorsed Bolinas Community Public Utility District's application for a $412,680 grant toward a sewage treatment plant, but urged tight control on development of the Bolinas Mesa. The sewage system "will greatly facilitate urban development of this area," the committee cautioned.

PROPOSITIONS — Endorsed Propositions 1 and 20 on the November ballot, but tabled a motion to endorse Proposition 18, which would allow diversion of highway taxes to rapid transit and smog research. Proposition 1 is a $250 million bond issue for sewage facilities and Proposition 20 is a $60 million bond issue for recreation and wildlife facilities for the California Water Project.

BCDC — Ratified Tiburon City Councilman Branwell Fanning's selection of Belvedere City Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock as his alternate to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Fanning is one of ABAG's four representatives on the 27-member commission.

ROHNERT PARK — Endorsed the City of Rohnert Park's application for a $79,300 grant toward a $176,000 project to improve the city's water system. One deep well will be drilled, and a 300,000 gallon storage tank built.

One Hurt In Two Crashes On The Span

A 26-year-old Sausalito man was slightly injured and five vehicles, including a tow truck and a California Highway Patrol car, were damaged in two accidents on Golden Gate Bridge today.

The patrol said the chain of events started at 12:30 a.m. when a northbound car driven by Edward C. Wagner, 34, of 192 Golden Hind Passage, Corte Madera, stalled near midspan.

Officer Kenneth Parker of the highway patrol arrived and told Wagner he would push his car to the north end of the bridge. As he was preparing to do so, another vehicle, driven by Michael B. Goodbody, 26, of 445 Sausalito Boulevard, Sausalito, struck the patrol car in the rear pushing it into the Wagner vehicle.

Goodbody was taken to Mission Emergency Hospital in San Francisco and treated for cuts and scrapes.

Meanwhile, a bridge tow truck arrived and parked behind Wagner's car. As it was preparing to tow it away, an auto driven by Joseph Cresci Jr., 38, of Petaluma, ran into the rear of the truck.

Cresci was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken driving and held in lieu of $360 bail to appeal this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

100 Entrants For Boat Parade

About 100 entrants are expected in Sunday's Marine Autumn Festival boat parade on the San Rafael Canal, the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce said yesterday.

About 50 applications have been received and another 50 are expected before the parade of decorated boats begins at 1 p.m. the chamber said.

The boats will be competing for nine trophies which will be awarded for the best holiday theme, most unique design and best over-all decoration, the chamber said.

The parade is open to all boat owners, who may pick up applications at the Lazaret, 243 Third Street, San Rafael.

Did Not Claim

Patricia Lawler Coy, 46-year-old Strawberry woman charged with making a false report of planting a bomb at the Hall of Justice last Friday, did not claim to be responsible for the real bomb on Oct. 8 as erroneously reported in Wednesday's Independent-Journal.

Judge Rules No Testimony By Jackson

George Jackson of the Soledad Brothers will not be called as a witness in the trial of a former San Quentin inmate in Marin Superior Court, according to a ruling made yesterday by Judge E. Warren McGuire.

The jury hearing the case of Tommy Lee Walker, 25, had earlier been told by defense attorney Robert Birkie that Jackson, brother of the youth who brought guns into the courtroom of the late Judge Harold J. Haley, might testify.

Judge McGuire, however, after hearing arguments outside the presence of the jury, said he would not allow Jackson to testify for several reasons.

First, he said that Jackson was not at San Quentin on Aug. 15, 1969, when Walker is accused of assaulting two guards. Second, although Jackson and Walker have known each other in prison, there are other inmates who will be called as character witnesses that have spent more time with the defendant.

Third, the judge said that producing the brother of young Jonathan Jackson, instigator of the Aug. 7 shoot-out, might prejudice the jury against Walker.

He allowed the defense permission to call five other prison inmates as witnesses, but said they will be brought to the hall of Justice two at a time.

A jury in the Walker case was finally selected at noon yesterday and the trial was to get under way today.

Midday Run Of Tiburon Ferry Is Cut

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Midday ferry service between Tiburon and Fisherman's Wharf has been discontinued, a spokesman for Harbor Carriers acknowledged here yesterday.

Cut Wednesday were the weekday 11 a.m., 12:50 p.m. and 2:50 p.m. trips from Tiburon and the 10 a.m., 12:15 p.m., 2 p.m. and 3:45 p.m. trips from Pier 43 at the wharf, the ferry company official said. Other scheduled trips will continue, he said.

"There is just not enough traffic there to warrant it," the official said. "You can't go around carrying two or three people."

Those riding the red and white boats Friday received notice of the deletions, the spokesman said, but others who hoped to use the ferries at those times were not informed.

No notice was given to San Francisco or Marin newspapers after the state Public Utilities Commission approved the schedule changes Friday.

Bus feeder service for the Tiburon ferry will not be affected since it is geared to the commute ferries, said Donald White, transit director for the Golden Gate Bridge District.

He said the district would consider replacing the service using district ferries if Tiburon and the Marin County Transit District agree to subsidize it.

The Harbor Carriers spokesman said the midday service has been dropped only for weekdays. The fate of the equivalent weekend trips will be decided Nov. 1, he said.

Realtors Board To Hold Dinner

The Marin County Board of Realtors will hold its 50th anniversary dinner Oct. 23 at 8 p.m. at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael. The dinner will be preceded by a 7 p.m. cocktail hour.

Among highlights of the event are a musical spoof entitled "Realtor on the Roof," and three talks on the past, present and future of the board of realtors by executive manager Dan Deedy, board president W. Bruce Shafer and Donald Beacock, a Corte Madera realtor.

Injuries Minor In Motorcycle Crash

A 24-year-old San Rafael man who complained of faintness following a motorcycle accident in San Rafael said he would seek private care, according to police.

William La Frenz Arfsten of 540 D Street also suffered a cut on the head and scratches on his arms and hands when the motorcycle on which he was riding crashed at 5:58 p.m. on Lootens Place near Fifth Avenue, police said.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

San Rafael School Outlay

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils and of school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives, pleading for large pay increases, cited the rising cost of living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies granted more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin as of the start of the new fiscal year, July 1, are being published by the Independent-Journal during the next few weeks as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

League For Seven Propositions

The League of Women Voters is urging "Yes" votes on seven of the 20 state propositions on the Nov. 3 ballot. It has not taken a position on any of the others.

Central and Southern Marin Leagues of Women Voters announced today they are taking no positions on local ballot measures, but are joining in support of the seven endorsed by the state league. These are:

Propositions 1 (clean water bonds), 9 (permitting appointment of county schools superintendents), 14 (civil service), 15 (assorted minor constitutional revisions), 16 (constitutional convention), 17 (eliminating meaningless section of construction), and 18 (permitting use of 25 per cent of highway taxes for rapid transit).

Trio Named To Postal Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed into law a measure authorizing the government to spend $733,000 to help Atlantic and Gulf Coast states research ways to fight the jellyfish and other aquatic pests.

The money is the remainder of an original $2.25 million authorized three years ago. Most of the help so far has gone to Maryland and Virginia for work in the Chesapeake Bay area, but states such as New Jersey, Florida and Mississippi also have a share in the program.

'Coffin' Bank Looted

Ranch Hand Acquitted Of Beating Horseman

A jury of eight women and four men deliberated only about two hours before acquitting a Sacramento ranch hand of the beating of a former Novato horseman on March 29.

Found innocent was ex-convict, James Marquis Jr., 37.

He along with another ex-convict, Pierre Jon Hall, 30, also of Sacramento, had been accused of savagely beating and kicking Dallas Wyatt, 36, former operator of The Atherton Stables

The district attorney's office has maintained that Novato horsetrader Danny Leroy Sedgwick, 30, had hired Hall and has maintained that Novato horsetrader Danny Leroy Sedgwick's allegedly crooked horse dealings.

Sedgwick is still awaiting trial on six charges of fraud stemming from horse sales as well as one of felony assault.

Hall earlier pleaded guilty to assault and has served a six-month jail sentence. He did not testify at Marquis's trial which was held before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

Wyatt, however, now a guide in Idaho, took the stand to describe the beating but said that it was too dark to see which man hit and kicked him.

Wyatt after the beating, which took place at the stables he formerly leased from Sedgwick, feigned unconsciousness. He then ran to his house, picked up a rifle and fired at his assailants' departing truck.

Marquis and Hall were arrested later in Sacramento where they were being treated for bullet wounds in a hospital.

Series Argument Leads To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police said an argument over the World Series led Thursday to the shooting death of an elderly man and the arrest of his roommate.

Homicide inspector Dave Toschi said an argument erupted while the two men were watching the World Series at their home.

Toschi said Arterberry allegedly hit Robinsn over the head with a baseball bat and Robinson retaliated by firing one shot from a revolver. Robinson refused to give police a statement regarding the incident.

United Crusade Halfway To Goal

The United Bay Area Crusade campaign has now gathered $8.1 million towards its 1970 goal of $16.8 million.

Accurate figures of the amount given by Marinites are unavailable because the crusade does not break down donations by counties, according to Grace Lewis of the Marin office of the crusade.

However, Don Gillis, chairman of the Marin Commerce and Industry Committee of the drive, said Marin's 124 largest local companies have reached 51.8 per cent of the goal of about $45,000.

Gillis announced that the Independent-Journal has raised its contribution 69 per cent over last year to $2,580; E. D. Bullard Co. has raised $5,200; and Redwood Bank has the highest average donation at $75 per employee.

Everything Goes Right For Brooks Robinson

BALTIMORE (UPI)—It was a World Series in which everything Brooks Robinson did was right.

Even when he was called out on strikes in the eighth inning of Thursday's final game, it seemed like the perfect opportunity for the Orioles' fans to cheer him on his way back to the dugout, and they did.

Robinson won the Most Valuable Player award by a mile. Afterwards, he remained his calm, phlegmatic self, but still was moved to call it "the greatest thing that ever happened to me."

"This makes up for everything. There's a lot of satisfaction and pride involved in bouncing back to win it," Robinson said.

"When you feel that you had the best club and didn't win it, like last year, it's a long wait to get it back."

For a year, the Orioles had lived with the memories of last year's World Series five-game loss to the New York Mets and, though they rarely spoke of it, it was on their minds.

"It was a long winter for us last year and I didn't want to go through another winter like that," said first baseman Boog Powell.

"You know what would have happened. It would have been the same thing. We would have to listen to people all winter asking what happened to you guys against the 'Big Red Machine?' Well, we have a machine of our own."

Robinson — 1 for 19 in last year's Series — had nine hits in the Series, scored five runs and led his team with six RBI's. He made defensive gems in each of the first three games and scored the winning run in the first two.

"Robinson dominated the Series," said Sparky Anderson, the losing manager. "He deserved to win the Most Valuable Player award unanimously."

After the Reds won for the only time Wednesday in the fourth game, Robinson said he would not have been terribly distressed for Baltimore to blow the Series.

"I'd be able to live with it," he said at the time, and Thursday he celebrated with the same attitude.

Wearing a black t-shirt and his uniform pants and with his arms folded across his chest, Robinson faced the press. Someone thought he didn't look happy enough for a World Series winner, and asked him.

"No, I'm pretty happy" Brooks said. "It's a personal thing with me. There's a lot of satisfaction."

Robinson said he didn't notice the fans cheering him after his eighth-inning strikeout "because I was so mad about striking out."

"I heard 'em, but it didn't ring any bells," he said.

Mark Belanger, the Orioles' shortstop, said Wednesday's setback made Baltimore that much more alert Thursday.

"There were some thoughts in my mind, yes, about last year," he said. "I think that's why we shook it up so much today, bore down harder. Today, we'd get a run, and everybody would say let's get another, let's get five, six, 10.

"As soon as we got the run, we forgot about that and were thinking 'let's get more.'"

All the Baltimore players admitted last year's series weighed hard on them in this year's.

"After last year, I think we dedicated ourselves to making up for it," said Frank Robinson. "No one said anything out loud, but I think we all were thinking to ourselves."

Added Belanger:

"I think we all had something to prove."

CONGRATULATIONS — Losing manager Sparky Anderson rubs third baseman Brooks Robinson's head as he congratulates the Baltimore star following the Orioles' World Series victory over Cincinnati. Robinson was voted the Most Valuable Player of the Series.

Shuttling Linemen Pays Off For 49ers

Dick Nolan readily acknowledges that the 49ers have an unusually high number of eight defensive linemen in ends Tommy Hart, Bill Belk, Cedrick Hardman and Stan Hindman, and tackles Charlie Krueger, Roland Lakes, Earl Edwards and Sam Silas.

"But," said the 49er coach, "we decided to keep all of them because each has some quality we like. "It's been very beneficial so far."

Indeed, it was very beneficial in last Sunday's 20-6 upset of the Rams as Nolan and his defensive lineaide, Paul Wiggin, kept shuttling the defensive linemen in and out of action.

"Quite often we shuttle them in pairs," said Nolan. "It gives them additional rest and it makes difficult any good reading on a particular position along our front."

Roman Had A Problem

There is no doubt that Roman Gabriel's problem of reading a potential forward wall weakness in the 49er defense was complicated by the constant shuttling. Best evidence of this is the fact the Ram quarterback was sacked three times attempting to pass and couldn't get one touchdown drive coordinated.

"Hart, Hardman and Edwards are young, strong and quick and like to blast in on obvious passing situations," said Nolan. "Belk, too, is a good young one who has learned to analyze a play quickly.

"Krueger is our old warhorse in his 12th season who leads by example. The young fellows have great respect for his ability and that of Lakes, Hindman and Silas in setting the pace."

Nunley Is An Eager Man

"Nunley is the holler guy of the unit, very enthusiastic and eager," said Nolan. "When he circulates before a game, getting guys up and belting them, I a real assett."

Nolan described his backfield defense as a unit that has learned to work together, knowing each other's responsibilities, strengths and weaknesses.

"Jim Johnson and Rosey Taylor are the steadying influence in the backfield," said Nolan. "Jim ranks with any defensive back around today. Rosey, at free safety, allows Johnson and our rookie Bruce Taylor to gamble once in awhile on the corners because he's like a bullet and they are confident he will back them up.

"Mel Phillips, now our regular strong safety, is capable of playing all three backfield spots."

San Marin Vs. Drake In Novato

San Marin High School, coming off a tough loss to crosstown rival Novato High, will try to bounce back tomorrow afternoon against Drake High in a 1:30 Marin County Athletic League football game on the Novato High School field.

The Mustangs of the north will be without the services of offensive lineman Mike Trahan who must sit out the remainder of the season. He's in a body cast, suffering a ruptured disk in his back.

"Sure, we had a tough loss (17-13) to Novato last week," said San Marin coach Bob Martin, "but I expect the kids to bounce back. We had a good practice week."

The San Marin-Drake game will be broadcast over KTIM.

In the other MCAL action, Terra Linda goes against Novato tonight at San Rafael High, 8 o'clock, and Tamalpais clashes with San Rafael tomorrow night at 8, also at San Rafael. The other MCAL team, Redwood, will be at Burlingame High for a non-league game tomorrow at 1 p.m.

Marin Catholic hosts St. Elizabeth's of Oakland at 2 p.m. tomorrow. In games tonight, Petaluma High is at Napa in a North Bay League I game and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park hosts Analy of Sebastapol on the Petaluma High School field.

Pop Warner Grid Teams In Action

First place Terra Linda, with three victories and a tie on its record, battles Redwood tomorrow at Redwood's field in Larkspur in the Marin County Pop Warner Football League. Gametime is 1 p.m. Redwood has one win and one loss in two previous league tilts.

In a non-league game tomorrow, Drake hosts Daly City at San Anselmo starting at noon.

Garrett Goes To Chargers In Trade For Draft Choice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Mike Garrett, the former USC Heisman Trophy winner who has already announced he was giving up football for baseball, will be playing his last season for a new team — the San Diego Chargers.

Garrett was traded by the Kansas City Chiefs yesterday to the Chargers and in exchange the Chiefs will get the Chargers' No. 2 draft choice in 1971.

Chiefs' coach Hank Stram said he made the trade for three reasons.

"First, Mike had previously stated this would be his last year in pro football and that he would pursue a baseball career at the end of this season. Second, our running backs have developed to a point where they will give us the continued efficiency and consistency that we are seeking. We are fortunate to have both quality and depth at the running back position in persons like Warren McVea, Wendell Hayes, Bobby Holmes and Ed Podolak.

"And third, we had an opportunity to obtain a second-round draft choice for Mike. I felt that opportunity would not be available after the season."

Stram added:

"We'll always appreciate the great contributions Mike has made to our team. And, we wish him front-page success with the San Diego Chargers."

Garrett was the Chiefs' No. 5 rusher through the first four games this season, with 68 yards on 21 carries. He had been sidelined much of the time with injuries.

Tars Have Hands Full Against West Valley

"We expect to have our hands full," said College of Marin football coach Dick Read today as he prepared his Tars for tomorrow's opening Camino Norte Conference game with West Valley College of Campbell at Kentfield.

It may have been the understatement of the year for the West Valley team from the San Jose area is the sixth-ranked junior college team in California. Undefeated in four games, the Comets have piled up 156 points to opponents' 41.

Marin, on the other hand, has only one victory — last week's impressive 39-13 decision over San Joaquin Delta College of Stockton — to show for its efforts in four games.

For those who like to compare scores, consider this frightening statistic: Marin lost to San Jose City College, 20-14, this season while West Valley bombed the same San Jose team, 53-14.

"We may be throwing quite a bit," said Read, who admits running against the formidable West Valley club may be quite a struggle.

Kickoff is 1 p.m.

VS. TERRA LINDA

Novato's Challenge

Novato High School's football team will be taking on champion Terra Linda tonight in a game that coach Al Scott says "we have to win to stay alive in the league race."

The Marin County Athletic League clash will be on the San Rafael High School field, kickoff at 8 o'clock.

Novato has a one-win, one-loss record going into the game, while the Trojans of Terra Linda, trying for their fifth straight title, are 2-0.

Scott said he felt the Terra Linda team is not as strong as past Trojan teams and voiced surprise that seven and eight of the starters play both offensive and defensive positions.

GOOD SHOT

"I think we have a good shot at Terra Linda," Scott said. "We're lacking consistency offensively, but we're going to be ready for this one." With guard John Johnston back, Scott said his team will be healthy for the Terra Lindans.

Terra Linda coach Don Lucas is expecting a tough game from the Hornets.

"They haven't put a complete game together yet," he said, "and I hope their first one isn't against us. They've got one of the better defenses in the league."

MAIN CONCERN

He said the Trojans' main concern on defense will be Novato's sparkling quarterback Marty Moroski, the league passing leader with 227 yards so far. "If Moroski gets time to pass, we're in trouble," said Lucas.

Terra Linda lost halfback Bruce Kassab for the rest of the season when he suffered a fractured right leg in a non-contract drill Wednesday. Defensive back Kevin Purcell will be out for two more weeks with injuries and quarterback John Buckley is still nursing a leg injury.

Larry Kerr again will fill in for Buckley. Kerr is a Mr. Do Everything for the Trojans, being used at guard, tight end, fullback, tailback, and now quarterback.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Topseeded Arthur Ashe was eliminated by unseeded Barry MacKay of Ross, 7-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the second round of the $25,000 Thunderbird Open tennis tournament Thursday.

MacKay is scheduled to meet Charlie Pasarell, the No. 2 seed, today. Pasarell advanced to the quarterfinals with a 6-4, 6-4, victory over Richard Russell Thursday.

Marin Catholic 'C' Cagers Romp Again

Rich McCarthy scored 12 points and Mark Sanguinetti contributed 10 to lead undefeated Marin Catholic High School to a 63-23 victory over Terra Linda yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League Class C basketball game at Terra Linda.

Marin Catholic places its 5-0 won-lost record against second place Drake's 5-1 mark next Tuesday in a key game at Drake, 4 p.m.

T. Jeremiah Beam. Part of the Beam family art for 175 years.

Son of the famous Col. Jim Beam, T. Jeremiah is the fifth generation of the only Kentucky family that's made the same Bourbon since 1795. As a matter of fact, 1970 marks the 175th anniversary of the year that Jacob Beam, founder of the Beam clan, sold his first barrel of Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey.

That's a mighty long time for one family to make one product, according to one formula.

So the next time you sip Jim Beam, savor its quality and its light taste. That's what we mean when we say it's a 175-year-old family art.

ALL-TIME RECORD

Plunkett Goes For The Mark

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some time during the second half at Spokane, Wash., Saturday Jim Plunkett, the son of blind parents, will give college football something to look at for years to come.

For if form holds, Plunkett, the gifted Stanford quarterback, should have piled up 214 yards by the second half in the Indians' game against Washington State, and when it happens Jim will become college football's all-time total offense champ, moving a yard past Steve Ramsey, who set the record at 6,568 for North Texas State a year ago.

Since Plunkett runs more than many quarterbacks and passes from 35 to 40 times a game, he could take the record in his five remaining games to a point where it might never be broken.

273.2 AVERAGE

Plunkett, who passed up a chance to play pro football this year in order to help Stanford get to the Rose Bowl, has been averaging 273.2 yards per game this year, and against such teams as Arkansas, Purdue and Southern California, so his figures are for real.

"I'm not interested in records as such," Plunkett said earlier in the week while getting ready for Washington State. "Sure, everyone likes to set records, but to me getting to the Rose Bowl still is the big thing."

Stanford, which defeated Southern California last week and leads the Pacific 3 Conference with a perfect 2-0 record, is a whopping 20 point favorite over Washington State, which is 0-1 in the conference and 1-4 overall. The Indians have only an upset loss to Purdue in five games.

USC HOME

Southern California, now 1-1 in the league, plays at home Saturday night, hosting a Washington Husky team which was upended last week by California. The Huskies, who saw four of their teammates quit Thursday, are 0-1 in the league and 2-2 overall. USC is 3-1-1 overall and last week's loss dropped the Trojans to 12th in the national rankings while Stanford moved from 17th to ninth.

The Trojans, 17 point favorites, face in Washington's Sonny Sixkiller a quarterback who throws the ball from anywhere on the field. Coach John McKay, still miffed at the loss to Stanford, says his team will have to stop Sixkiller to win "and I don't care what the odds are."

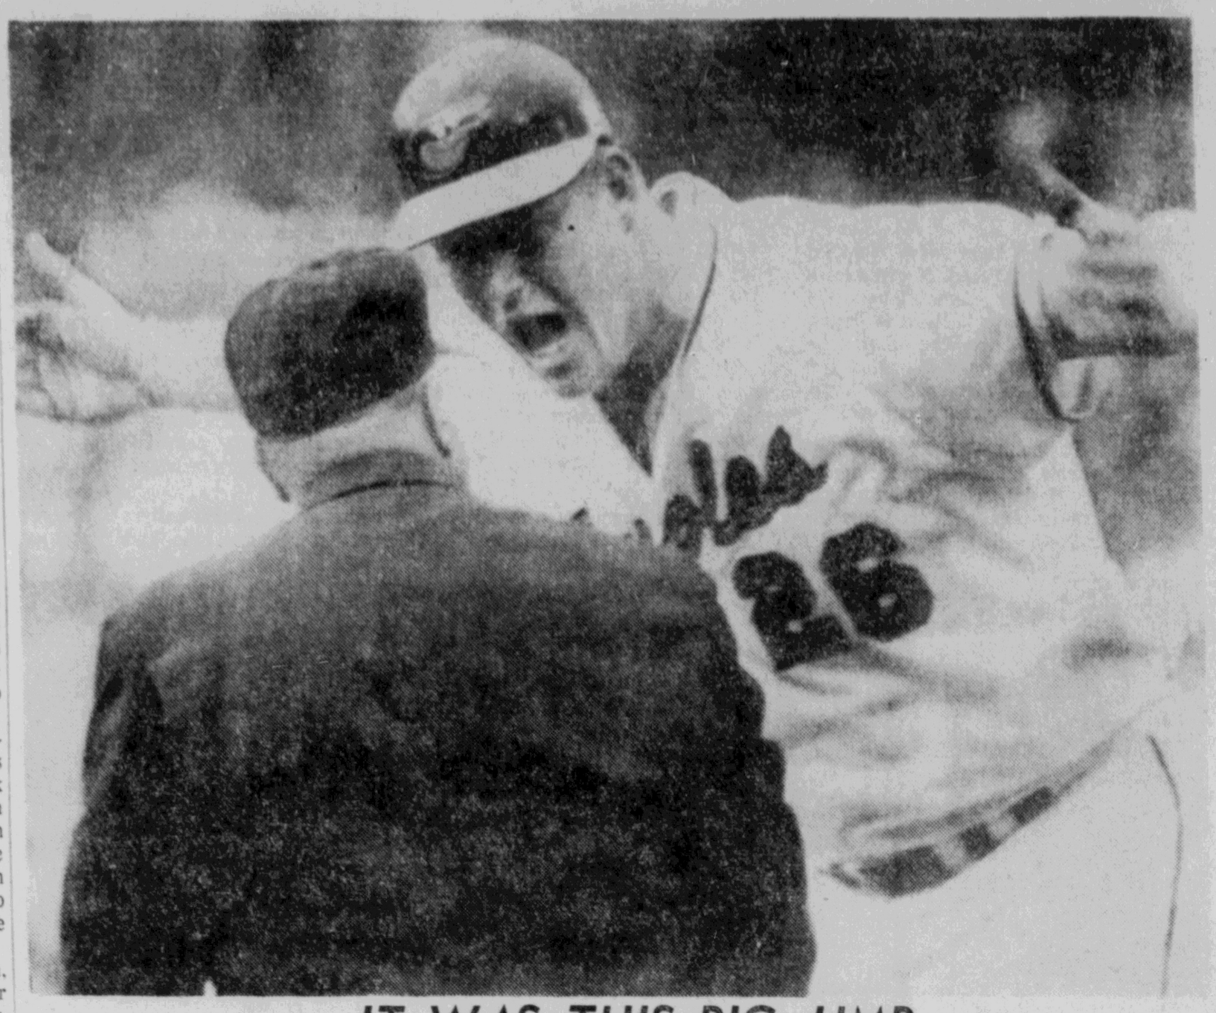
UCLA, which lost to Oregon, 41-40, on three fourth quarter touchdowns last Saturday, hopes to get back into the league race against California, perhaps the most unpredictable team in the West.

The Bruins, who go against Stanford next Saturday, are only two point favorites over the Golden Bears. Both teams are 1-1 in the conference with UCLA 3-2 overall and California 2-3.

NON-CONFERENCE

Oregon, second in the league standings with a 3-1 record and 3-2 overall, and Oregon State (0-2 and 3-2) play outside the conference this Saturday — the Ducks hosting Idaho and the Beavers going to Texas to play Houston, which is tied for 15th with UCLA and Tennessee. There is no line on the Oregon game but Oregon State is an 18-point underdog to Houston.

In the Pacific Coast AA, San Diego State, tied for 19th in the rankings, hosts San Jose State and is an "out" favorite.



IT WAS THIS BIG, UMP

Baltimore first Baseman Boog Powell, looking much like a fisherman explaining the size of a lunker that got away, loomed over diminutive umpire Emmett Ashford during ninth inning dispute yesterday. Argument was short lived and Orioles went on to win the World Series, four games to one, with a 9-3 victory yesterday.

EVEN NEW NAME

'Golden Seals' Home Opener

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ice hockey's most stylish young superstar comes to the Oakland Coliseum tonight in the home opener for Charlie Finley's green and gold drenched California Golden Seals.

Young Bobby Orr, a defenseman who doesn't let the backline position inhibit his scoring ability, challenges the Seals along with the remainder of the National Hockey League champion Boston Bruins.

Orr is the most colorful member of a bruising Boston team, which looks every bit as tough as the one which won the Stanley Cup last season.

Boston's most effective frontline threesome is composed of the smooth-shooting Phil Esposito at center, flanked by playmaking Fred Stanfield and long-haired, brawling Derek Sanderson. Of the three, Sanderson offers an additional contribution with his superb backchecking.

The biggest changes among the Seals are with their uniforms and name. Formerly dressed in green and white, Oakland now wears green and gold, even down to their skates, under the new ownership of the zany Mr. Finley, who yesterday also announced the team has officially changed its name to the California Golden Seals.

Coach Fred Glover, incensed at Oakland's dull performance last season, made several changes without instituting a complete overhaul.

Carol Vadnais, Ted Hampson, Bill Hicke, Earl Ingarfield, goalie Gary Smith and Harry Howell still are the leading veterans. In addition, Ron Stackhouse, Ernie Hicke (Bill's brother) and Tony Featherstone lead a corps of youngsters who see plenty of ice time.

Boston won its first two games. The Seals lost their initial pair. Bill Hicke, however, says Oakland will improve as the season moves on.

"We're bigger, better, more seasoned and should be more exciting," Hicke says. We'll be in the hole right away against the established NHL clubs, but this may have an advantage in getting us some tough team experience early. We're not going to back away from anybody."

BLUE FLAME SPUTTERS

On The Edge Of Success

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS (UPI)—A valve broke under the stress of repeated attempts at the world land speed record by the Blue Flame and stalled the racer Thursday on the very edge of success.

Gary Gabelich drove the rocket to a history-making 609 miles per hour and the 6,500 pound racer had been turned around for the second leg of the record attempt, when the valve snapped loose.

The world land speed record is taken from the average of two runs—one in each direction on the Bonneville Speedway. The record challenger must make both runs in the space of one hour.

Craig Breedlove's jet car, "Spirit of America Sonic I," set the current record at 600.601 m.p.h. in 1965. Breedlove's fastest one-way time was 608 m.p.h.

The Flame was fueled and poised on the track. Crew members were bringing full pressure to its tanks when the hose broke loose, spraying hydrogen peroxide over the 38-foot racer's sleek nose and sending up dark clouds of smoke.

Crew members Mark Neevbauer and Ken McCarthy were hit by the peroxide, but neither was seriously injured, according to project manager Dean Dietrich.

Following a conference with Pete Farnsworth and Dick Keller, chief builders of the natural gas industry racer, Dietrich said it would be a minimum of three days before the Flame could be ready again.

SPORTS SHORTS

Four Penn Gridders Quit Team

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ron Dawson, the leading ground gainer on the University of Pennsylvania football team, quit the club Friday along with three other players.

Shooting

Horse Racing

SAN MATEO (UPI)—Oct. 15 will go down as one of Roy Yaka's biggest riding days.

The Nisei jockey booted home five winners at Bay Meadows Thursday to move into the thick of the race for leading rider honors. He now has 20 victories to his credit.

Golf

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Would you believe 71 strokes under par for 54 holes of golf? That's what Ernie Ivaldi of Hayward, Calif., racked up to win the first Reno Invitational Amateur Golf Tournament.

Play in the Harrah's Hotel-sponsored event, by the way, was on a best-ball basis.

Basketball

Bob Rule, the Sonics' smooth 6-9 center, agreed to undisclosed terms Thursday, thus ending a sometimes bitter dispute with the National Basketball Association team.

Rule had sought a $75,000 plus "incentives" contract—up from his previous salary of $28,500—and the Sonics offered $80,000.

FISH AND GAME

Chasing Those Bucks Is Mighty Strenuous

By AL GIDDINGS

RAVENDALE, Lassen County — Here it is Wednesday and I'm sitting under a tree watching six sage grouse getting a drink at a spring near our camp. It's a rest day, cleanup day, time to take a bath.

The World Series, fourth game, is about to start, and we've just learned that Baltimore won the first three.

But about yesterday!

After we left the duck hunting area at Honey Lake we proceeded up to the Ravendale area, where wife Mary and I teamed up with Howard Leach of Sacramento and Jack Schaule of the same area, planning to give the bucks another go.

Mary, who killed a three-pointer at Webber Lake, is somewhat restricted to camp, though she has provided a cottontail rabbit dinner for tonight. Last night we had venison chops from her buck and the night before we had 10 ducks. This is the life, man!

THE BUCKS? They are tough! The first day we were hunting in flat sagebrush country that just goes on and on. I would say that I walked eight miles seeing one doe and one rattlesnake. It was hot, so I took a back pack filled with food and sodas. None of us saw any horns.

The next day we hunted a mountainous area, but again I saw only two does. I did see 31 antelope, one flock of sage grouse, two flocks of chuckars, two flocks of quail, about 30 ducks in a reservoir, one coyote, five cottontails, and a heck of a lot of lava rock and sage.

Yesterday we tried another area and after hiking two and one-half hours away from the jeep, I suddenly jumped two does. Then four more, and as I'm looking et them I see a tremendous buck watching the deer, but not me. He was about 600 yards away so I sat down until he walked over the ridge, than I took off after him. I finally got to where he crossed and I had a mild case of buck fever! Then I crossed over but couldn't see him.

I TRIED to figure where he should be, but after trying all the likely spots, I realized he was gone. I sat down, drank a coke, ate a candy bar and continued downhill. Leach and Schaule were supposed to meet me at a spring at 3 p.m. but they didn't show so I started walking toward the jeep, and made the mistake of looking back.

There was the big buck and eight doe walking along the ridge about a mile and a half back. I've got to try it all over again, and I'm already exhausted, and one shoe is falling apart, and Bruno, the dog, is pretty footsore from walking from one rock to the next all day, but here we go!

THE DEER got in some trees, with the wind right for me. I got up to where I thought I might get a shot, but again I got buck fever. Where are the deer? They've moved another 500 yards up the ridge, and I can go no more!

I found a rock for taking a sighting rest and get two shots at the buck, but the last I saw of him he was leaving my part of the country.

SO TODAY I'm soaking two blisters and giving Bruno a rest. But Schaule and Leach? Ha! They're out there fighting the heat, rocks and sage, but they will be in the area of a buck which is all those two need to walk all day.

DUCK SEASON opens tomorrow for all you Marin Countians who hunt locally. This year the limit is seven birds per day, seven in possession. San Pablo Bay shooters are restricted to taking but two canvasbacks.

If you travel and transport four ducks, the law requires that you either keep a full wing or the head on the carcass for identification.

MARY AND I were sorry to have to leave Lee and Betsy Fey, the Lebber Lake keepers. The cold weather was just putting the waters in shape for some big browns and brookies. Last year on Oct. 23 I caught an 8½-pound brown out of Webber. So if you're looking for a mountain trip, give Webber a try. It's 26 miles from Truckee in iSerra County. I may see you there.

NHL ROUNDUP

Buffalo Sabres Have Shell-Shocked Goalie

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Before the season began, Punch Imlach, the coach and general manager of the expansion Bufaflo Sabres, said, "We'll need superior goaltending to win."

Imlach is getting that type of goaltending from Roger Crozier but he must have forgotten to tell the rest of the Sabres they'll have to score a few goals to win a few games.

For the second straight night the Sabres dropped a 3-0 decision, the latest one to the Montreal Canadiens Thursday night. Twenty-four hours earlier, they lost to the New York Rangers.

Crozier, who is rapidly working up to a case of shell shock, turned aside 50 shots by the Canadiens after stopping 44 the night before against the Rangers. In Buffalo's three games thus far, Crozier has allowed a respectable seven goals but his mates have supported him with only two, both in the Sabres' 2-1 season-opening victory over Pittsburgh.

Yvan Cournoyer tallied two of Montreal's goals as the Canadiens posted their third win of the young season without a loss. The game was witnessed by a sellout crowd of 60,331 at the Sabres' home opener.

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League, Chicago edged Detroit 2-1, Minnesota topped Pittsburgh 4-2 and Philadelphia shaded Vancouver 5-4.

Chicago, which is expected to have easy pickings in the West Division this season, upped its record to 3-0 as Bobby Hull and Pit Martin slipped second period goals past Red Wings goalie Roy Edwards. Rookie Tom Webster tallied an unassisted goal early in the first period for Detroit's only score.

Walt McKechnie connected for the three-goal hat trick in leading Minnesota past Pittsburgh. The Pinguins had a 2-0 lead on first period goals by Dean Prentice and Wally Boyer before McKechnie tied the game with a pair of scores only 2:45 apart midway through the second session. Danny O'Shea scored the tie breaker at the 10:15 mark of the thrd period and McKechnie closed out the scoring four minutes later.

Serge Bernier's two goals, the first of his NHL career, helped Philadelphia to its second win in three games and sent Vancouver down to its fourth loss in five cutings.

49er Receiver Minus 2 Teeth

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)— Preston Riley will start again Sunday for the San Francisco 49ers, but minus a couple of front teeth.

Wide receiver Dick Witcher is recovering from a slight shoulder separation but probably will see some action. But Riley, who has filled in well, will open when the Prospectors host New Orleans at Kezar Stadium.

Defensive end Stan Hindman is out of Sunday's game while his knee mends while linebacker Dave Wilcox and guard Randy Beisler are still question-marks. Big fullback Ken Willard was shaken up last week at Los Angeles, but he'll be 2 back blasting the New Orleans line.

Sports Editor Gets His Ferarri

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Hack Miller, sports editir of the Deseret News of Salt Lake City, Thursday was officially presented his $20,000 new Ferarri for shooting a hole in one during the three-day Harrahs Hotel Invitational Golf Tournament.

Miller got the hole in one Wednesday, but had to wait until play ended Thursday to be sure of winning the car. If someone else had shot a hole in one, the winner would have been determined by a roll of the dice.

Special features you'll enjoy:

Half a century ago a small group of San Rafael merchants and professional men founded a chamber of commerce, an organization that has been linked with the city's history through war and peace, good times and bad times. An extensive story of the chamber's history by Dorothy Gardiner is featured Saturday in the Independent-Journal's Marin Magazine. When the chamber was founded San Rafael was a small town of 5,512 with the Hotel Rafael, a 400-room building, its main tourist attraction. Hitching posts and water troughs lined Fourth Street and the streets were lighted by electroliers. Through the years, the changes came, the opening of the Golden Gate Bridge, the establishment of Hamilton Field and the World War II activity at Marinship which led to a post-war development of Marin and its county seat, San Rafael. In recent years, the former Freitas Ranch blossomed into a community of homes, industry and business, and the chamber, after a few rocky years is girding for future progress.

A hillside in Drake Highlands near Tomales Bay isn't the most likely site for gardening, but Capt. L.F. Teuscher, a Navy veteran, has transformed it into a well-manicured showplace of hundreds of native plants. Scenes of the garden are spread throughout the center of the Marin Magazine.

Black Tie Warriors In Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Bay Area basketball diehards get a chance to wear formal attire tonight when the San Francisco Warriors open their National Basketball Association schedule.

In the season starter at the Cow Palace, the Warriors will host the Detroit Pistons, who come into town with last year's top draft pick, Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure.

Franklin Mieuli's annual Black Tie affair will be preceded by dinner.

The Warriors finished the 1969-70 campaign in sixth place in the Western Division with a 30-52 record. However, under Al Attles this year, the club ran up a 5-4 pre-season record while displaying good team speed—something critics said was lacking last year.

San Francisco's probable starting five will include Nate Thurmond at center, slimmed-down Jerry Lucas and Bob Portman at forwards and Jeff Mullins and Fritz Williams guards.

Saturday night, the Warriors move to the Oakland Arena to face the expansion Cleveland Cavaliers. That will be followed by the season's first road trip—to Baltimore, Atlanta and New York.

Egyptians Claim U.S. Cheated

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahoud Riad accused the United States today of reneging on a pledge not to supply warplanes to Israel while Middle East peace efforts were underway.

He also denied U.S. and Israeli allegations that Egypt had violated the cease-fire by building SAM missile sites in the truce zone but said, "We did, however, use concrete instead of sandbags to protect some of the existing positions."

NO WEAKENING

Riad's was the first official enunciation of Egyptian policy since the death of President Gamal Abdel Nasser. It was scathing in its criticism of U.S. support of Israel and showed no indication that Cairo was weakening its demands in the Middle East.

He said when Washington discussed its peace initiative with Cairo last summer "the United States pledged to refrain from providing Israel with additional aircraft, as long as the initiative was under way."

"Zionist pressure has succeeded in putting an end to the American initiative," he said. "The United States reneged its commitment not to provide Israel with more aircraft and decided to supply it with additional weapons and planes at the same time as Israel officially announced its boycott of the talks" with U.N. Mediator Gunnar V. Jarring.

'NEW POSITIONS'

Riad said Israel set up "new positions and fortifications on our territory" which news correspondents described as resembling the Maginot Line in pre-World War II France, and the United States "considered this as maintenance work."

In an outspoken attack on U. S. policy in support of Israel, the Egyptian foreign minister declared:

"We consider it essential that the General Assembly be made aware of the serious implications in the U.S. demand that the United Arab Republic abandon its means of antiaircraft defense in the Suez Canal region as a precondition to setting in motion peace contacts. Such an American position is based on the

With dreams of sudden wealth in their eyes and bicarbonate of soda in their purses, three young women challenged the jumbo hamburger contest at the Palate Restaurant in Mill Valley yesterday.

Six and a-quarter hamburgers and countless French fries later, they had to admit defeat.

The girls, all from Stinson Beach, were attracted by a contest sponsored by restaurateur Harold Heller, who is offering $1,000 to any woman and $100 to any man who can chomp six giant Palateburgers and six portions of French fries in one hour.

The idea for the mass assault on Heller's wallet came yesterday morning when the girls saw a newspaper advertisement for the contest.

"Eat your way to fame and fortune," it said. "Winners must consume six jumbo Palateburgers (7 oz. each) on French bread or sesame bun with French fries (3 oz.) in one hour."

"It was a spur-of-the-moment thing but we really think we can do it," said Arlene Zweig, 21, chomping her way through her first sandwich with obvious zeal.

"I sure could use the money," said Rebecca Wipf, 22, attacking her burger with relish.

Karen McLaren, 18, agreed. "I can think of a dozen ways to spend it," she said as she devoured a pile of French fries.

Did they make any special preparations for the contest — fasting, perhaps? "No," said Miss McLaren, "fasting makes your stomach shrink. We don't want that."

"I can't say it's brought other customers in, but we sure have been selling a lot of Palateburgers," he said. Contest rules specify that unsuccessful contestants must pay for the food they consume.

"At this rate I might be able to break even for the man who won," he said, referring to Jerry Anderson of Mill Valley, who downed six burgers Tuesday and walked off with the prize and a stomachache.

As Heller hovered anxiously at the table, the girls gamely ordered their second round. "The first one was easy," they told each other. "Only five more to go." It began to look as if they might make it.

But with a fourth of her second burger down, Miss Zweig dropped out to cheer the others on. They gobbled their second sandwich and sent to the kitchen for more.

A short time later it was obvious they had encountered a classic case of eyes and purses being bigger than stomachs. They weren't going to make it.

Court Reversal Saves Public Tideland Rights

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The District Court of Appeal has reversed itself on a ruling that could have deprived Californians of their navigation and fishing rights over hundreds of thousands of acres of tidelands.

The previous ruling last year said that the 1874 legislative act that authorized the sale of tidelands in Tomales Bay had the effect of terminating the public's rights to these navigation and fishing easements over the disputed tideland parcel.

The result of the previous ruling was to set a precedent that tideland property owners had an unrestricted right to fill and develop their holdings, a precedent that led to the state attorney general and others to petition the court to reconsider the case. The court had made a legal error by ignoring precedents in similar cases, they argued.

The new ruling supercedes the previous one, holding simply that the original decision by Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner was affirmed, and that the broad issue of public easements was not properly before the court.

Those Entering Federal Buildings With Packages Will Be Searched

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon Administration today ordered that guards make inspections of all persons carying bags and packages into federal buildings throughout the nation.

As a result of a recent rash of bombs, The General Services Administration (GSA) previously had extended security hours to a 24-hour basis at federal buildings and ordered closure of unnecessary entrances. It alos gave guards discretion to inspect any suspicious-looking objects carried into the buildings.

The inspection order was broadened today after severl persons reported they had carried odd-looking objects into important government buildings without being challenged. The GSA told guards to ask all persons carrying bags, packages and brief cases to open them for inspection.

The GSA has about 3,500 guards throughout the nation, and about 1,800 of them are in Washington. The order does not apply to the White House and the Capitol, which have their own guards.

"We're not trying to panic people," a GSA spokesman said. "But it's a psychological thing. If a person has to walk in front of a guard he's not likely to carry in something dangerous."

The spokesman said that so far there had been no instances in which inspections had turned up any dangerous objects being taken into the buildings.

Troops Arrest 227 Quebec Terrorists

Canada Sees Suspension Of Liberties

In an unprecedented peacetime action, the government of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau enacted laws subjecting FLQ members — and their helpers — to maximum jail terms of five years.

SEVERAL RAIDS

Trudeau announced his move while combat-ready troops and police swept Montreal and the province of Quebec in coordinated raids that netted hundreds of suspected extremists.

The action followed in the wake of the kidnapings of a British diplomat and a Canadian government official by the FLQ who demanded the release of 23 FLQ members currently in prison on various charges as ransom.

By outlawing the FLQ its members will be regarded as persons who "advocate, promote, or engage in the use of force or the commission of criminal offenses as a means of accomplishing governmental change within Canada."

POLICE SWEEP

Police and army troops, bolstered by an additional 750 airborne paratroopers, swept through the province arresting suspected members of the organizaion which seeks secession of French speaking Quebec from the rest of Canada.

A total of 3,750 troops were ordered into Montreal "chiefly to guard military installations in the Montreal area," a military spokesman said.

The FLQ had threatened from Paris earlier this week to blow up air and rail installations throughout Canada.

The latest government move followed Prime Minister Trudeau's invocation of the War Emergencies Act which empower the government to suspend civil liberties.

Legal experts said the act falls short of martial law since the military in this case is answerable to civil authorities.

East Petalumans Plead Slowdown

By BONNIE BARD

East Petalumans forcefully put the message across last night — in quiet pleas mixed with shouts — that annexations and development must slow down until schools and services can meet existing needs.

In a sometimes strained three hour session with the Petaluma Planning Commission, the residents of East Petaluma called schools and parks totally inadequate and urged the city not to add to the burden by approving still more subdivisions.

Many of the residents demanded that the city require developers to provide land for schools, parks and open space before building plans are approved.

Planning Director William C. McGivern read lengthy state laws to the standing-room-only crowd at city hall governing land development and explained that the city council policy is to give the developer a choice of either dedicating land or paying a bedroom tax of $80 per home.

He explained that the nondedication policy was prepared with the cooperation of developers and said those cities requiring dedication have alienated developers.

Shouting residents from the rear of the room asked, "Who's running Petaluma, anyway? The developers or the city council?"

Meyer said that developers often put land aside for the city to buy, but that the city hasn't had the money to pay for it.

City Atty. Edouard E. Robert noted that developers can be required to donate school and park land only if their projects exceed 400 units, and McGivern reported that most subdivisions have been developed in units of 50-60 homes.

Resorting to shouts again, the crowd accused the devel-

Jury Upholds Guard, Indicts Kent Students

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—A special state grand jury today absolved Ohio National Guardsmen of blame in the fatal shooting of four Kent State University students and indicted 25 students and "agitators" for "deliberate, criminal conduct."

The grand jury said guardsmen acted in self defense when they fired a volley into a group of students on the Kent State campus last May 4 during a demonstration protesting President Nixon's decision to widen the war into Cambodia.

Those indicted were not identified and a spokesman said they would not be until placed under arrest. Arrests were expected to be made shortly, the spokesman said.

The charges were expected to include assault and battery and trespassing, but Robert Balyeat, who headed the grand jury investigation refused to spell out the offenses at a brief news conference.

But when he was asked if narcotics charges were included in the offenses, Balyeat said: "That would be for a separate grand jury."

The panel said the "major responsibility" for the campus incidents of last spring "rests clearly with those persons who are charged with the administration of the university."

The report by the special grand jury differed sharply with the report issued by the President's Commission on Campus Unrest which held an inquiry into the Kent shootings.

The commission blamed the shootings equally on students and guardsmen and said National Guard troops should

Reinecke Says State Will Not Negotiate In Kidnappings

Extremist groups reportedly considering kidnapping public officials in California to win freedom for jailed comrades were warned last night by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke that such exchanges would not be made.

"This needs to be very clear," Reinecke told the Independent-Journal. "We're not going to negotiate. Positively not. You can't negotiate with crooks."

Reinecke, acknowledging the administration had heard that kidnappings may occur, said he had not discussed the threat with Gov. Ronald Reagan, but said, "I'm sure the governor would agree with me.

"I wouldn't expect it (exchange) in my case," Reinecke said.

(United Press International reported that Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said yesterday that government officials had been alerted to the danger of kidnapping and other threats from extremist groups. He said congressmen had been warned to be "very careful." A spokesman for Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, however, said there was no federal government alert.

(Saxbe said the only way to halt "political blackmail" before it starts is to make it a federal crime for officials to give in to it.)

Strange Case Of Promotion Without Boost In Paycheck

By WAT TAKESHITA

The strange case of a Marin County employee, who had worked for 14 months without realizing she had been promoted, was revealed yesterday before the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Audrey (Rey) Collins, draftsman in the county planning department, asked for back pay for the 14 months during which she worked as draftsman 1 when she should have been getting pay as draftsman 2. The total difference comes to about $1,000.

Personnel commissioners heard evidence from Mrs. Collins and Personnel Director Maren Rinne and set a special morning meeting at 7:30 a.m. next Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the Civic Center to decide on Mrs. Collins's case.

Mrs. Collins explained that this is what occurred:

In June 1969, she worked as draftsman 1 at a salary of $633 per month. She had asked for, and former Planning Director Paul C. Zucker had recommended, a promotion to draftsman 2, which would have paid $700 per month as of July 1, 1969.

On July 1, all county employees got a 5 per cent raise. Mrs. Collins got her $666, a 5 per cent raise at her old classification of draftsman 1. She assumed that the supervisors had not changed her classification and continued working until August of this year, when she learned by chance that the county supervisors had authorized a promotion 14 months before.

"I don't know when or where the mistake was made," said Werner von Gundell, who is now county planning director. "But whatever the error was, it was not committed by Mrs. Collins."

John F. Barrows, assistant county administrator, said the only explanation he can see is that Zucker, who got the reclassification authorized by the supervisors, did not follow through with necessary paper work to raise the paycheck for Mrs. Collins.

He said he is reluctant to support the back pay for Mrs. Collins because it could set a precedent for retroactive pay. "Fourteen months after an alleged clerical error occurred, a person wants back pay. How far back does retroactive pay go? I'd hate to see this precedent established."

Mrs. Rinne, personnel director, explained that when the county supervisors reclassify a position, the department head must send a reclassification form to the payroll department before a higher paycheck is issued.

Commissioners were perplexed that Mrs. Collins would wait for 14 months without asking what had happened to her reclassification. "You knew the reclassification had been recommended," said Robert B. McCreadie. "Weren't you curious what had happened? Didn't you ask about it?"

"No," replied Mrs. Collins. "The department was under stress as you know. I didn't want to upset the applecart, and so I didn't say anything." (County supervisors were critical of the planning department under former director Zucker, and Zucker later ran unsuccessfully against Supervisor John F. McInnis.)

Mrs. Collins was promoted both in pay and classification to draftsman 2 as of Sept. 1 this year and now draws $753 per month. She seeks retroactive pay as draftsman 2 from July of 1969 through August of 1970.

40 Heads Of State Will Attend Dinner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says 40 heads of state and their wives have so far accepted President Nixon's invitation to a formal dinner party Oct. 24 to honor the 25th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations.

Entertainment at the affair will be provided by Metropolitan Opera star James McCracken and his wife, Sandra Warfield. Nixon will address the world body in New York on the day before the dinner.

Pope Selects Chamberlain

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI named his French-born secretary of state, Cardinal Jean Villot, as camerlengo (chamberlain) of the Roman Catholic Church today. The post means Villot will temporarily rule the church when the Pope dies.

The post fell vacant when Cardinal Benedetto Aloisi Masella, who twice ran the church after the death of popes, died Sept. 30

Villot, 65, will arrange Pope Paul's funeral, assemble the conclave of cardinals to elect a successor to Paul, receive condolences from foreign governments, seal the papal apartments at the Vatican, St. John in Lateran and Castelgandolfo, and run the Roman Catholic church until a new pope is named.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Innocent Verdict

ATLANTA (UPI) — An all-white jury deliberated for more than three and one-half hours Thursday before returning a verdict of not guilty in the case of two white Atlanta policemen accused of killing a Negro teen-ager.

One of the defendants, J. T. Hasty, burst into tears when the verdict was read and more than a dozen policemen in the court applauded. The other defendant, J. M. Colbert, displayed no emotion.

The two officers were charged with voluntary manslaughter in the death of Andre Moore, 15, on Aug. 4. They testified they fired at the youth because he threw a rock at them and they feared for their lives.

Center Blast

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — An explosion at a police community relations center in the city's Negro district blew out a door Thursday night, sending splinters and flying glass into a room where two policemen were filing reports.

Kenneth Fleming, 38, and Charles Robinson, 30, were hospitalized in satisfactory condition, Fleming with severe scalp lacerations and Robinson with cuts on his back and legs. Two other officers escaped injury.

Minutes after the blast three young men was arrested a block and a half away in a car. Police blocked off the area and stationed guards through the night in case of further trouble.

$325,000 Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The trial of Charles Manson and three codefendants has cost local government more than $325,000 to date, a county official said today.

County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, who keeps track of the costs, issued a semi-monthly report with a total of $332,661. This breaks down into $100,000 for the cost of the city investigation of the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six others last August; and $232,661 to the county for costs directly connected with the trial, now in its fifth month.

The cost of maintaining the jury of 12 and five alternates, sequestered from the news media at a downtown hotel, is $1,500 a day. This includes salaries of nine sheriff's deputies, a round-the-clock guard. It costs $500-$600 a day to feed and house the jurors, Hahn said.

Passenger Airlift

ISTANBUL (UPI) — A Soviet Aeroflot airliner flew into the northern Turkish town of Trabzon today to pick up 46 passengers hijacked to Turkey Thursday by a Lithuanian father and son in the first known hijacking of a Russian airliner.

The airliner brought with it an Aeroflot crew to fly back the hijacked plane, an AN24 twinengiher turboprop airliner. The hostess was killed and the two pilots and a passenger aboard the AN24 were wounded in the hijacking.

The Soviet Union asked for extradition of the two hijackers, although there is no extradition treaty between Turkey and Russia. The Turks said they would act accordingly to "humanitarian consideration" but did not clarify the statement. The father and son were held on criminal charges.

Subway Robbery

NEW YORK (UPI) -- About 200 students robbed and beat passengers on a southbound subway under Manhattan Thursday afternoon.

The students, beleived to be from George Washington High School and Public School 143, got on the train at noontime. Outside the 181st Street station they pulled the emergency cord and terrorized the passengers while the train was stopped. Some were threatened at knifepoint.

Police conducted a lineup of students in the station, but none of the victims could identify his attacker and no arrests were made.

Typhoon's Course

HONG KONG (UPI) — Typhoon Joan bore down on the coast of Communist China today, threatening the mainland's Kwangtung province with 60-mile-per-hour winds and torrential rains. The death from the storm in the Philippines was still rising.

Peking Radio said the typhoon was due to hit the Chinese coast in the next 36 hours, striking first on the Chinese Communist island of Hainan off the North Vietnamese coast.

33 Bridge Deaths

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Police said today 33 persons were known dead in the collapse of Australia's biggest bridge and the death toll could go to 45. Construction unions banned for the time being further work on the span.

$7.5 Million Cathedral Dedicated

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An old red brick cathedral on a hill was destroyed by fire eight years ago. From its ashes rose a spectacular new structure which has provoked both enthusiasm and controversy.

St. Mary's Cathedral, after five years of work and expenditure of $7.5 million, was dedicated Thursday with a huge mass in English accompanied by guitar music and folk songs.

An estimated 1,500 persons turned out during the morning hours and sat beneath massive concrete wings which were supported by the cathedral's four monolithic concrete piers. The interior is 190 feet high and encompasses 40,000 square feet of floor space.

The cathedral also was derided. Critics said the millions of dollars devoted to constructing the church should have gone toward helping the poor.

Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken defended the cathedral project, saying the money was given specifically for the cathedral. He said the donors also are contributors to an annual fund of more than $2 milliom.

St. Mary's was designed by Pier Luigi Nervi, Pietro Belluschi and the firm of McSweeney, Ryan and Lee.

Byrd Rakes Scranton Report On Campuses

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Suggesting that many students on university campuses have no business being there, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., told President Nixon today a partial solution to campus unrest may be creation of more vocation schools and junior colleges.

In a letter and 16-page report to the President which was highly-critical of the Scranton Commission report on unrest, Byrd attacked the so-called racial quota system of many colleges.

"The great flaw of such a system is that young men and women who cannot do college level work are admitted — even recruited — with inevitably disruptive results," he said.

"Perhaps many of us are guilty of helping to create the myth that every person should have a college education," Byrd wrote. "The truth of the matter is that many people on campus today have absolutely no business being there."

He told Nixon the report rightfully criticized the "bigness' of many of the universities, but said the Scranton commission "fails to recommend that at least a partial solution to this bigness would be the establishment of more vocational schools and junior colleges."

Byrd said the report "is in itself inflammatory," adding that it contained "glaring loopholes and flaws."

SEN. ROBERT BYRD
"Irresponsible politics"

The West Virginia Democrat, third-ranking member of the party's Senate leadership, also disputed the Scranton commission's contention that Nixon's role was an issue in the unrest, and the war and race issues had fed the fires of student protest.

He said the report's "effort to blame the President for a situation which existed long prior to his election may have violated the commission's own admonition that no one play irresponsible politics with the issue of campus unrest."

Philadelphia: 271 Schools Strike-Bound

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Philadelphia Federation of Teachers (PFT) went on strike in the city's 271 public schools today, defying a court order.

It was the second time this semester the PFT, representing the majority of the city's 11,500 teachers, stayed out of the classrooms.

The strike was called after marathon bargaining conducted by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer at the state capitol in Harrisburg broke off at 3:40 a.m. EDT without an agreement. The unsolved issues included wages, length of the high school day, accountability and teacher absenteeism.

The school board said the schools would remain open for the city's 295,000 pupils, using parents, substitutes and non-striking teachers in the classrooms. The PFT's rival teacher' group, Philadelphia Education Association, said its members would continue to work.

Judge Theodore L. Reimel issued an injunction Wednesday forbidding a teachers' strike. Reimel, acting on a petition from the Home and School Council, said a walkout would cause "irreparable harm."

Reds Push Closer To A Key Village

PHNOM PENH (UPI)--Communist troops pushed to within rifle sho; of a village only 20 miles north of Phnom Penh today and field reports described the situation as "critical." Radio contact with the village, Rokar Kong, was lost for a time.

U. S. headquarters in Saigon said radar-guided B52 Stratofortresses ignored bad weather spawned by a typhoon and concentrated their full fury on the Ho Chi Minh supply trail in Laos for the eighth consecutive day.

Communist pressures on Rokar Kong coincided with an eight-hour bombardment against the town of Skoun, 35 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, which serves as the supply center for a major Cambodian offensive along Highway 6. But no ground attack followed the raid and Cambodian spokesmen said government forces there were well dug in and protected.

UPI correspondents reporting from Rokar Kong said a Communist force of undetermined size tried to push into the northern end of the town of 3,000 residents late Thursday. But Cambodian officers said the Communists were driven back.

Lt. Chim Savang, a company commander at Rokar Kong, said his latest intelligence indicated that about 300 North Vietnamese infantrymen were positioned less than 200 yards from the center of town.

"Our situation is critical at Rokar King," Savang said. "But we will only get quite worried when the attack comes. It does no good to worry before."

Savang said the North Vietnamese were elements of the 165th regiment, a unit which moved into the Phnom Penh area last week. Rokar Kong is the site of Cambodia's only gin distillery. There were unconfirmed reports earlier that the town had been overrun.

Last Sunday, elements of the same North Vietnamese regiment overran Cambodian positions at Daun Lom, 800 yards north of Rokar Kong. In that fighting, six Cambodians were killed, two wounded and 26 captured.

Meanwhile, President Nguyen Van Thieu said today he was in complete agreement with President Nixon's five-point peace proposal for Indochina and hoped the Communists' rejection of the plan is not final.

"I keep hearing rumors that we have a cold attitude on the peace initiatives extended by President Nixon," Thieu said. "I want to state a clear denial of that attitude. We have agreed together on all initiatives or peace proposals . . ."

This new car is the best reason not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle.

In a year when every car maker seems to be giving you one reason or another not to buy a Volkswagen Beetle, it might be a good idea to listen to the best reason:

Volkswagen's Super Beetle.

It has almost twice the luggage space as the Beetle of yesteryear.

It has a longer-lasting, more powerful engine.

It has a new suspension system for a smoother ride.

It has a flow-through ventilation system to bring in fresh air when the windows are closed.

The interior is, to be honest, much nicer.

The floor, for example, is fully carpeted.

In all, it has 89 things you could never find on a Beetle.

So of all the claims you'll hear this year by car makers that their cars are "better than a Beetle," there's only one car maker with 25 years experience in small cars to back it up.

Volkswagen.

Tiny Turnout In College Balloting

About 190 College of Marin students (out of a possible 5,616) turned out yesterday and Wednesday to cast ballots for nine student body positions.

Student body president Chris Arend yesterday blamed the less than 4 per cent turnout of voters on a "lack of communication."

The election was called to elect new officers to positions which had been filled in May but vacated because of resignations, academic disqualifications and student transfers.

Other election results are: secretary — Melody Misciagna, 106, and Sally Pugh, 67; treasurer — Kenneth Bott, 150; college center commissioner — David M. Biggs, 141, and Michael Satterlee, 47; sophomore women's representative — Mariam Forristal, 88, and Rena Robinett, 77; sophomore men's representative — David N. Pfeiffer, 11, and Galen Dunham, 63; freshman women's representative — Lou Pender, 135; and freshman men's representative — Brad Totten, 90, and Richmond Young, 81. Belvedere Reporter Wins Confidence Issue

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Superior Court judge ruled Thursday that a newspaper reporter did not have to testify at a murder trial.

The decision concerned Mrs. Mary Crawford of Belvedere, a San Francisco Examiner reporter who obtained an exclusive interview with Jose Rios, one of six youths with Spanish surnames who are charged with killing a policeman.

Prosecutor Thomas Norman summoned Mrs. Crawford to the witness stand, where she declared she did not want to testify for the defense or the prosecution because that would damage her reputation for impartiality.

Judge Lawrence Mana at first decided she would have to testify after she said the source of her story appeared in the article.

An attorney who represented Mrs. Crawford in behalf of the Examiner and the San Francisco-Oakland Newspaper Guild appeared later and a 1955 decision of the Third District Court of Appeal ruling was produced.

That court held that a newsman does not have to reveal his source even if it was previously mentioned in a story.

Judge Mana changed his mind then, saying he felt there were differences in the articles, but "I don't know if they are substantial enough for me to take contrary action."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew defended former President Lyndon B. Johnson Thursday against what Agnew called a "degrading" attack by 1968 Democratic presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey.

Agnew called Humphrey "the political turncoat of the year" for saying Johnson was "paranoid" about the Vietnam War.

The vice president, campaigning in central Florida for Gov. Claude Kirk, seeking reelection, and Congressman William Cramer, seeking a U.S. Senate seat, later addressed a rally at Orlando. He scheduled a news conference today at the Bay Hill Country Club at Windermere, where he will spend the weekend golfing.

Agnew said he had read excerpts from an interview (in the New York Times Sunday Magazine) in which Humphrey was quoted as saying one reason he failed to take a firm stand for an end to the Vietnam war at the 1968 Democratic Convention was that "I had a president who was absolutely paranoid about the war ..."

"I know President Johnson and I respect him," Agnew said. "He was not paranoid about the war. When Mr. Humphrey says that in 1970, he viciously attacks a man without whom he would have never been vice president of the United States or a presidential candidate."

"Nobody will ever accuse me of degrading the man whom it was my high honor to serve," Agnew said.

At the Orlando rally, Agnew compared Kirk to himself. He recalled the governor's Jacksonville confrontation with black militant leader H. Rap Brown several years ago.

"It took guts and it took flare," Agnew said, "and if any politician tells you Claude Kirk is a little on the colorful side, take it from one who knows: many a time a man with serious goals has to use colorful language and dramatic actions to get important messages through the media to the people."

Novato Fall Trash Bash Fails City

Novato's fall cleanup campaign scheduled for tomorrow and Oct. 24, has failed to draw volunteer workers, Renee Kiff, cochairman of the Fall Trash Bash, has reported.

"We have 600 children volunteering to clean up the streets from the Scouts and 4-H groups but the teen-agers and adults have failed us," she said.

Only two Parent-Teacher Association groups have volunteered and 30 students from San Marin High School, she said.

"We tried to do this on a voluntary basis to save the city money," she said.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said that this does not mean the end of the semiannual cleanup campaigns. The cleanup committee is a subcommittee of the city beautification committee. It will be up to the beautification committee to determine the future course of cleanup campaigns, Brown said.

"The city budgeted the money for the cleanup campaigns, ($6,000) but this group wanted to try it on a voluntary basis," Brown said.

In the past the city has hired teen-agers to work on the streets and parkways and paid the trucks and city crews to haul away the trash. Last spring, the city spent $2,557 in the cleanup.

"It looks as though it will not work as a voluntary campaign," Brown said.

'Hee Haw' Star Suffers Attack

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Louis Marshall Jones, who is "Grandpa Jones" on the Grand Ole Opry and the "Hee Haw" television show, has been hospitalized in critical condition after a heart attack.

Jones, who keeps his age a secret but is believed to be in his 60's, was stricken at his farm home late Tuesday. A hospital spokesman said late Thursday he was "having a better day but his condition still is critical."

The whiskered cornpone humorist and banjo picker is considered a legend in the country music field and has influenced virtually every country and folk music personality of the past 30 years.

1,000-Mile Hiking Trail Is Proposed

A John Muir trail of the Pacific Coast stretching from Oregon to Mexico was proposed yesterday by Dr. William K. Kortum of Petaluma, Democratic candidate in the First Congressional District.

Kortum, who was a founder and president of Californians Organized to Acquire Access to State Tidelands (COAAST) said he visualizes an eventual 1,000-mile long park on tidal lands.

"This can't be built overnight," Kortum said, "Legal, engineering, private property and right-of-way problems must be slowly resolved."

But, he said, "there are vast areas of the coast already under government control where the trail could be started now."

The 1,072-mile California coastline includes 660 miles in private hands, 353 miles publicly owned and available for recreation and another 50 miles owned by the public but not open for recreation, he reported.

Kortum said he envisioned the possibility of pouring the energy of young people into the project and said a national service corps of 2,000 to 3,000 students could work on the trail.

Saying that young people should also be directed into other areas of public service, Kortum said, "The United States is missing the boat for not directing this energy."

"The coast is fragile and this project must be done with sensitivity," he said in a press conference at his Cotati headquarters.

Kortum said he would work further for the establishment of a coastal conservation and development commission that could regulate coastal building and his proposed trail.

Government Moves To Halt Hit-Run Pickets

The federal government moved yesterday to halt hit-run picketing of stores which have continued to advertise in the Independent-Journal, struck by printers nearly 10 months ago.

U.S. marshals, moving quickly through Central Marin, served pickets — all of whom identified themselves a Teamsters — with papers ordering them to cease picketing or face citations of criminal contempt under the National Labor Relations Act.

However, pickets were seen again today at several locations, now carrying signs saying they represented the Seafarers' and International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's unions.

In an incident related to the serving of papers yesterday, the tires on a car carrying two federal marshals and on another belonging to Bob Hax, an Independent-Journal photographer, were slashed at the Northgate Shopping Center.

The marshals had just served papers in downtown San Rafael and were parked near the Lucky Store in Terra Linda at 3 p.m. when the vandalism occurred.

I-J Publisher Wishard A. Brown appealed to witnesses to the incident to notify San Rafael police.

Petrini's Market in Greenbrae announced yesterday it was canceling its advertising in the Independent-Journal because pickets at his store had thwarted delivery of goods for two days.

"If I can't get merchandise, I can't advertise anyway," he said.

Nathan Berke, attorney for the Independent-Journal, said that the picketing violated a restraining order issued in February against attempted union stoppage of newsprint bound for the I-J and a temporary injunction issued in April against illegal picketing of I-J advertisers. Both orders were issued in U.S. District in San Francisco.

Bay Area trucking companies reported continued difficulty yesterday in making deliveries to Central Marin stores and one trucking official, Michael McMahon, terminal manager for Alltrans Express in San Francisco, said the only driver he dispatched into the San Rafael area today was "kicked out after three stops."

"They (pickets) said if they caught him anymore, they'd send him back with slashed tires," McMahon said.

A truck dispatched yesterday by Associated Freight Lines in Cotati returned, a terminal spokesman said, when the driver was halted and harrassed by pickets. No delivery was made to the area today, the spokesman said, because the driver "didn't want to return."

never again go on a college campus with loaded weapons. The grand jury, however, endorsed the use of live ammunition by guardsmen when needed.

In its report the president's commission concluded: "The actions of some students were violent and criminal, and those of some others were dangerous, reckless and irresponsible. The indiscriminate firing of rifles into a crowd of students and the deaths that followed were unnecessary, unwarranted and inexcusable."

Meanwhile, in Washington, the Justice Department said it is "evaluating" the grand jury report and investigators will reexamine the situation to determine if any federal action is required.

Federal investigators were reported to have concluded earlier that the shootings were unnecessary and that there was no evidence to support reports of sniper fire.

Assistant Attorney General Jerris Leonard, chief of the Civil Rights Division, told reporters Aug. 9 that the government had insufficient evidence to support the presence of sniper fire at either Kent State or Jackson State in Mississippi, where two students were killed by police bullets May 15.

The state grand jury here said the students at the campus rally quickly "degenerated into a riotous mob" when ordered by a Kent State University policeman to disperse.

"It is obvious that if the order to disperse had been heeded, there would not have been the consequences of that fateful day," the report said. "Those who acted as participants and agitators are guilty of deliberate, criminal conduct.

"Those who were present as cheerleaders and onlookers, while not liable for criminal acts, must morally assume a part of the responsibility for what occurred."

The report emphasized that the panel, made up of 15 residents from Portage County, felt the Ohio guardsmen fired in self defense when the four students were killed and nine were wounded.

"We find . . . that those members of the National Guard who were present on the hill adjacent to Taylor Hall on May 4, 1970 fired their weapons in the honest and sincere belief and under circumstances which would have logically caused them to believe that they would suffer bodily injury had they not done so.

"They are not, therefore, subject to criminal prosecution under the laws of this state, for any death or injury resulting therefrom."

The report said 58 Guardsmen were struck by rocks and other objects hurled at them as they moved in formation in the vicinity of the group of students.

The panel said the Kent State administration has "fostered an attitude of laxity, over-indulgence and permissiveness with its students and faculty."

"The evidence presented to us has established that Kent State University was in such a state of disrepair, that it was totally incapable of reacting to the situation in any effective manner," the report said.

The panel said the fact that it found the guardsmen who fired the weapons had "acted in self defense" does not mean it condoned the actions of guard officers.

Finally the eating stopped, and Misses McLaren and Wipf surrendered to the obvious — There simply isn't enough room in a girl's stomach for half a dozen Palateburgers.

The young women stared dismally at their plates, where the remains of three hamburgers and a few forlorn French fries sulked. "It would take a pretty big girl to eat six of them," Miss Zweig observed. The others burped their agreement.

Then they surprised Heller and everyone but themselves by ordering ice cream sundaes. "I'm never too full for ice cream," Miss Zweig said. "Besides, you don't have to chew it. That's half the work with hamburgers."

Leader Slain

MANILA (UPI) — Pedro Taruc, "Supremo" of the Communist Huk guerrillas, was killed today by two civilian informers while government troops surrounded Taruc's hideout.

Army spokesmen said Taruc, who had evaded capture since the Huks were formed in 1942 to fight the Japanese, was shot down in his home in Tibagan village north of Angeles City, 50 miles north of here, at about 2 p.m.

assumption that any capability possessed by Egypt to defend itself against American bombers in Israeli raids would restrict Israel's chances of imposing its expansionist plans on the Arab countries."

Riad said Egypt entered negotiations under the auspices of Gunnar V. Jarring, special U.N. Middle East envoy, in good faith, but added:

"There could be no peace in the Middle East unless Israel withdraws from all the territories it occupied as a result of its June, 1967, aggression, and recognizes the rights of the Palestinian people."

In Cairo, the government announced that Anwar Sadat, the handpicked successor to President Gamal Abdel Nasser, had been overwhelmingly acclaimed as president for a six-year term. He pledged to carry out Nasser's Middle East aspirations.

Egypt's policy already had been shaped by Nasser—strict Israeli adherence to the 1967 U. N. Security Council resolution calling for an Israeli pullback from conquered territories.

Israel in turn made it clear to U. N. diplomats that should the General Assembly take up an anti-Israel position Israel would consider itself no longer bound by the Security Council resolution. Prospects for any early settlement would be dimmed further, U. N. diplomats admitted.

In Amman, the truce between King Hussein's government and the Palestinian guerrillas was, the guerrillas claimed, violated by police seizure of the guerrilla newspaper Fatah.

One man was killed Thursday night when shooting broke out between guerrillas and security police who stopped a car loaded with copies of the newspaper. The police seized the four passengers in downtown Amman and set the vehicle on fire.

In Washington, the Nixon administration, in its consideration of Middle East peace prospects, is placing more and more emphasis on the need to satisfy the political aspiartions of the Palestinian Arabs, including the hundreds of thousands of refugees.

U. S. hopes for a Middle East settlement were still pinned to the peace initiative begun by Secretary of State William P. Rogers who won a cease-fire and the promise of Israel and Egypt to hold consultations through U. N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden.

Angela's Party Calls For Rally On Extradition

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Communist Party of the U.S.A., confirming that Angela Davis had been a member of the party for years, called for a rally today to protest her possible extradition to California on kidnapping and murder charges.

Party General Secretary Gus Hall called the charges against the black militant philosophy instructor a fraud and a frameup and urged a movement of "national proportions" to free the 26-year-old revolutionary.

"She is gulity of no crime save she is a black woman courageously fighting a racist policy of government," Hall said. "Through Angela Davis's arrest and persecution, the government seeks to terrorize all who fight against racism."

Miss Davis is accused of buying the guns used in the Marin County Hall of Justice shootout in which four persons were killed including a judge who was abducted from a courtroom.

Jean-Wearing Attorney Is Fined $100

A young militant attorney who prefers to wear jeans and a corduroy jacket to court ran headon into the black-robed establishment yesterday and got fined $100 for his garb.

Judge Alvin H. Goldstein Jr., Marin Municipal Court judge who has been known to send jurors home to put on neckties, took a dim view of the outfit worn by attorney Peter Pipe when he came into his courtroom Wednesday.

Yesterday when Pipe, who lives in Mill Valley, showed up again still in jeans, the jacket, a sport shirt and no tie, the judge found him in contempt and fined him for "disrespect to the court."

He also said that Pipe's client had not been represented by an attorney and forfeited his bail because he was not in court.

Pipe, 28, who sees himself as a representative of the street people, said today, "He's asking us to come in off the streets and to quit throwing bombs in his courtroom. Then he won't let us in.

"I dress in a manner acceptable to my peers," he added, emphasizing that his jeans were clean and that he had had a shower yesterday morning.

He also accused the judge of depriving his client, Elwood Wright, whom he described as a transient, of his right to choose his own attorney in his drunken driving case.

Denied his request to go to jail instead of paying the fine within 30 days, Pipe said he intends to appeal the contempt proceedings in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Goldstein told him that "the courts are under tremendous pressure these days" and that Pipe ought to have more respect for his profession.

In martial law, the military is supreme.

The new laws curb habeas corpus rights, allowing persons to be held without charge for up to 21 days. They can be held for seven days without being brought before a judge, which previously could be done only under special permission from the provincial attorney general.

Within the first few hours, Quebec provincial and Montreal police announced 227 persons had been arrested in four Quebec cities, Montreal, Quebec City, Rimouski and Chicoutimi. There were more arrests than search warrants.

The War Emergencies Act, invoked only twice before—never in peacetime—suspends civil liberties and permits police to make arrests, searches and seizures without warrant, and denies citizens' rights of appeal against police action.

Among those reported under arrest were Robert Lemieux, lawyer for the Front de Liberation du Quebec (FLQ) terrorist groups who kidnaped two political hostages and touched off the gravest crisis in Trudeau's two-and-a-half-year administration.

Grim-faced and determined, Trudeau said the War Emergencies Act was implemented on the basis of information from civic and provincial authorities that a state of "apprehended insurrection" existed in Quebec. Other grounds for invoking the act are war or invasion.

Trudeau did not indicate what evidence was set forth to back the conclusion of the Quebec authorities.

opers of skillfully squeezing through a loophole in the law.

Residents complained that lack of school space caused their children to be bussed across town to five other schools or to go on double sessions.

Meyer received further abuse from the crowd when he maintained the city policy had no direct relation to the school crowding problems.

Mayor Helen Putnam was also the subject of scorn with a teacher's review of the history of growth in East Petaluma, but promised that the city council, planning commission and two city schools districts will work together to gather all available information to be aired at another mass meeting.

Frank Thomas, president of the East Petaluma Civic Association, said firmly, "the time has come to stop the rhetoric." He reported receiving many irate telephone calls, but none criticizing the school systems. Throwing the problem back into the lap of the city, Thomas asked what park sites had been set aside for purchase from bedroom tax revenue.

McGivern pointed to two small sites at La Tercera School and St. Francis Drive. "We're now implementing the plans and are in negotiation," McGivern said.

Meyer reminded the residents that a $100,000 park development bond issue failed two years ago.

Residents responded by urging another bond issue be tried to provide enough money to complete at least one park on the east side.

Daniel Plumley, 1629 Annetta Drive, complained that no improvement had been made at eastside parks in six years, with the exception of five acres of grass at Lucchesi Park. He called McDowell Park "a disaster" and urged that a park similar to McNear Park on the west side be completed as soon as possible.

Meyer said that 75 trees had been planted at McDowell Park, but that all had been destroyed by vandals.

Deciding the city had given up plans to develop the site, the residents called for a "peoples park" and said they would organize the school children to bring it about.

Councilman Fred V. Mattei, who serves on the recreation, music and parks commission, said the need is apparent and that the commission intended to keep westside parks "status quo" and to pour all new funds to eastside parks.

While planning commission chairman Paul Stanley promised vaguely to hold another meeting "in the near future," no date was set.

"We don't want people to think you just let them come here to get their problems off their chests," Thomas said. "Let's schedule the meeting after Nov. 3 when it can't be confused with the campaign issues. This problem is not an election issue. We plan to carry through on it as long as it takes."

State Seeks Bids For Petaluma Road

The state Division of Highways announced it has called for bids Nov. 18 in Sacramento to widen four miles of the Petaluma-Sonoma Highway east of Petaluma.

Bridges over Ellis and Wheat Creeks also will be replaced. A total of $815,000 is available for the project.

least lifted the cloud the previous ruling put over the public easements, he said, but on the other hand it did not affirm these easements.

Shute said the ruling would be appealed to the California Supreme Court to affirm the easements.

It took the three-justice court 13 months to reconsider its previous ruling. Both rulings were written by Associate Justice James R. Agee, and concurred in by Presiding Justice Daniel R. Shoemaker and Associate Justice Wakefield Taylor.

The original case was on a suit filed by Larry H. Marks Jr., who wanted to fill and develop a tidelands parcel he claims in Tomales Bay. Peter D. Whitney, owner of an adjacent upland parcel, objected that public navigation and fishing rights over Marks's parcel barred Marks from filling it.

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner ruled he could find no state or public right involved over Marks's parcel, and ruled in favor of Marks. Whitney appealed to the District Court of Appeal, where he now has lost twice.

Whityeny was joinedi n his appeal by the attorney general's office, State Lands Commission, San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and Sierra Club.

Marks was joined by Westbay Community Associates, which claims extensive tidelands in San Francisco Bay.

Judge Gardiner's ruling acknowledged that "it is possible that the state has retained some public rights. These may be expressed and controlled only by the state and not by a private individual. No attempt will be made to adjudicate herein the existence of extent of any possible reserved control which may yet be handled by the state tidelands commission except between the parties.

"Neither the state nor the tidelands commission are parties to this action. Defendant Whitney does not own the public rights and can neither express nor control them."

The effect of the new ruling of the District Court of Appeal thus was to rescind its own addition to Judge Gardiner's ruling — the implication that sale of the tidelands had severed the public easements.

Marin City CSD Names New Chief

Daniel F. Winters of Marin City last night was named executive director of the Marin City Community Services District. Winters, who has been with the services district nine years, will replace Harold Brooks who resigned from the $10,800 a year post Sept .17.

Winters was formerly Brooks's assistant and before that served as building superintendent for the district.

The new exeuctive director said he plans to focus his efforts on recreation "because we are behind in that now." He said economic development in the community, which had been Brooks's chief goal, will have "to wait for a while."

His first goal, he said, will be a baseball diamond for Marin City youngsters.

Winters resides at 723 Drake Avenue.

Kennel Is Approved On Atherton Avenue

A breeding and training kennel for up to 10 dogs will be allowed at 875 Atherton Avenue near Novato.

Ralph D. Cairns, deputy zoning administrator for Marin County, approved a use permit yesterday for Robert Comaduran Jr., who will buy the 2.5-acre site to breed and train Irish wolfhounds and Saint Bernards.

Cairns granted the use permit on a year-to-year basis on condition that no commercial use except to breed and train, no advertising signs be posted and the dogs be kept indoors at night and create no neighborhood nuisance.

Comaduran siad he would erect a six-foot high redwood fence around the property, with trees for screening. Another seven-foot inner fence will be built around the kennel area.

W.A. Cox of 873 Atherton Avenue said he would have no objection, as long as the kennel is not used to board other dogs.

Cairns also granted a variance to Albert Swanson to build a home at 288 Morningsun Avenue, Mill Valley, on a lot that is a legal non-conforming building site of only 3,000 square feet. Cairns approved a home with 1,275 square feet of floor area instead of the maximum 1,000 square feet allowed for a lo that size.

Oakland Airport To Top Bay Area In Volume By '85

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Oakland could be the San Francisco Bay Area's largest airport by 1985, a federally-aided study of the Association of Bay Area Governments showed Thursday.

If it is assumed that equal air service is provided by then to the area's three airports, San Francisco would rank second with San Jose third, the study continued.

By that year, the study continued, Oakland would handle 29 million passengers annually, San Francisco 24 million and San Jose Municipal Airport 18 million.

If equal service is not provided by airlines, San Francisco International Airport would exceed its capacity of from 25 million to 30 million between 1975 and 1980, the study concluded.

The study cost a half-million dollars, with $335,000 coming from the federal government.

MOVIE STAR FACES OBSCURITY

The elderly, but still water-tight African Queen, made famous in the title role in a movie starring Humphrey Bogart and Katherine Hepburn, sits unused in a San Rafael boatyard. The 58-year-old metal-hulled craft which Bogart sailed and dragged through an African swamp in the 1951 film was purchased in 1967 by San Francisco restaurateur Frederick Reeve to raise funds for cancer research. Refitted in San Rafael, the queen made a national fund raising tour in 1968 with Bogart memorabilia, but now languishes at San Rafael Marine Repair.

Union Rests Without Any Defense Evidence

Union attorneys rested without presenting any defense evidence yesterday, after attorneys for the Independent-Journal completed seven days of evidence in a contempt hearing. The case arises from the Valentine's Day riot outside the I-J on Feb. 14.

Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating said he would rule on the case no sooner than 35 days from now, after both sides present briefs and rebuttals. Keating signed an injunction order Jan. 28, setting down 15 restrictions on picketing, threats, and other strike actions which the I-J contended were violated.

Named as "contemnors" in the I-J action were International Typographical Union Local 21, its president Leon Olson, vice president John J. DeMartini, representative Donald H. Abrams; Periodical and Newspapers Drivers Local 921, its president Jack Goldberger and secretary-treasurer Al Vergez, and the Marin and San Francisco labor councils.

Three attorneys representing the various defendants each moved yesterday for dismissal of the charges against their clients. Judge Keating took the motions under submission.

Final witnesses as the I-J attorneys finished their case earlier yesterday were San Rafael police officers Charles S. Brobeck and Richard A. Douglas.

Brobeck described watching the beginning of the rally from the balcony of a building on Julia Street opposite the I-J. He said demonstrators began hurling objects at the vantage point, forcing police to retreat indoors.

Douglas, who headed the arrest squads that took a dozen persons into custody during the Valentine's Day rally, described directing police in freeing an I-J distributor's car that was mobbed at midday in Julia Street.

He said the marchers, chanting "scabs must go" and "raining tacks, rocks and other objects" on the car, were temporarily forced out of the way by police to permit the car to leave.

Attorneys argued at length over whether the car's arrival through the barricades had been an aggravation to the demonstrators, making it impossible for rally leaders to control the 600 to 800 demonstrators.

Monday Judge Keating will begin hearing a second contempt case arising from the I-J strike which began Jan. 7. ITU Local 21 has accused the I-J of violating court orders through actions of the NorCal security guards employed in the building.

The union complained that the guards assaulted pickets, uttered threats and vile and obscene language and used guard dogs in menacing and threatening manner and other actions.

Sea And Air Piracy Talks

CARABALLEDA, Venezuela (UPI)—Cuban and U.S. representatives have discussed a possible bilateral treaty on exchange of air and sea pirates, Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, director of the Cuban Agrarian Institute said Thursday night.

Rodriguez, who is in Venezuela for the 11th session of the Latin American regional conference of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization, did not say where the conversations occured.

"Cuba is not responsible for air and sea piracy," Rodriguez said. "We grant asylum to the kidnapers who have justified political reasons for their doings, but in most cases we reject the ones who have other reasons. This is the case of an American we sent back to his country some weeks ago," he said.

Library Report

Marian Gunz, Ross School librarian, will report on the condition, plans and programs of the library before the Ross School District board at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the school.

Sunrise Art Guild Has Show At Fairfax Library

The Sunrise Art Guild, a non-profit art center organized by youth in the Sir Francis Drake High School enrollment area, is sponsoring an art exhibit in the Fairfax branch of the Marin County Library at 47 Broadway.

The exhibit includes paintings, ceramics, poetry, wood-carving, and driftwood. Emily Shortell, Fairfax librarian, said the exhibit will be on display through Oct. 31.

Mrs. Roy Fairchild, chairman of the church and society committee of the San Anselmo First Presbyterian Church, announced that the church will also provide space for the sunrise art guild to display its work. The space was formerly occupied by the Third Rail Coffee House at Mariposa Avenue and Kensington Road.

Seth Seiderman of Drake High School, chairman of the Sunrise Art Guild, announced that membership applications are available for both students and adults at the Fairfax branch of the county library. Student memberships are open to junior high and high school students in the Drake High School area.

Drama Planned By Actors' Playhouse

Actors Playhouse of Marin, a newly formed theatrical group in San Rafael next month will present its first production, "Star Spangled Girl" by Neil Simon at the auditorium of Congregation Rodef Sholom, 170 North San Pedro Road, San Rafael.

The group, which specializes in performances for various charity, service and civic organizations, will present seven performances on Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. and Sundays at 7 p.m. beginning Nov. 7.

Massacre Judge Boots Testimony

FT. HOOD, Tex. (CPI) — The military judge conducting the first court-martial in connection with the My Lai massacre has ruled out testimony previously given to a congressional committee.

Judge Col. Geroge R. Robinson ruled Thursday the prosecution cannot use witnesses against S. Sgt. David Mitchell unless the defendant's attorneys are supplied with copies of the testimony given by the witnesses before a subcommittee of the House Armed Services Committee.

So far, subcommittee chairman Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., has protected the secrecy of that testimony, and has refused to release it to attorneys defending Mitchell or other soldiers charged in the My Lai incident.

Garry Sees Press Threat In Panther Contempt Actions

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Black Panther attorney Charles Garry says contempt citations against employes of the Panther newspaper threaten freedom of the press everywhere.

"Unless the news media awaken to the danger they are in whereby courts can cut off a reporter's privilege . . . to withhold sources of news . . . their freedom of the press, which is now extremely limited, will be exterminated and they will be prevented from any kind of contact with about 30 per cent of America," Garry said.

Three contempt citations have been returned against employees of the weekly party newspaper for refusing to answer questions before a special federal grand jury which has been investigating the Panthers for more than a year.

U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas is to rule on one of the three. The government's brief in opposition was filed with Justice Douglas this week.

The Panther employes' cases followed the case of New York Times reporter Earl Caldwell, who was subpoenaed before the same grand jury for questioning about stories he has done about the Panthers.

U.S. District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli ruled last April that Caldwell must appear, need not divulge confidential information unless it is in the "compelling and overriding national interest" and the government cannot get it in any other way.

Later he adjudged Caldwell to be in contempt, saying the government had proven these points. Caldwell appealed to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, which has not yet returned a ruling.

One girl employe of the Panther paper is in jail, another is subject to jail and a former circulation manager enjoys a sort of "informal stay." Sheilie Bursey, 18, finished her first week in jail Wednesday because she refused to answer questions about the operation of the newspaper.

Fellow employe Brenda Joyce Presley, 22, received a stay "until further order" from Zirpoli because she was nine months pregnant. She has since had her child, but the judge is now on vacation.

Neither case is on appeal because the case of Virtual Murrell, 26, is before Justice Douglas. Murrell was circulation manager for the newspaper for four months beginning in late 1968.

Murrell refused to answer questions about the internal workings of the paper, was granted immunity, again refused to answer and was adjudged to be in contempt Sept. 3 by the same district judge.

Two weeks later Mrs. Bursey and Mrs. Presley were adjudged to be in contempt for refusing to answer questions. They would not tell if they knew anything about the Marin County shoot-out that resulted in the Aug. 7 killing of Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley and three others, about hijackings in the Middle East, about the murder case in Connecticut involving Panther chairman Bobby Seale and about the various functions of the newspaper, according to attorney David E. Pesonen.

Two Elementary Schools Burned

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two fires —both apparently set by arsonists —caused an estimated $54,000 damage to schools in La Puente and Lawndale Thursday.

Sheriff's deputies discovered a fire at the Sparks Elementary School in La Puente when they responded to a burglary call Thursday night.

That blaze destroyed one classroom and severely damaged another. Damage was estimated at $14,000.

Earlier a $40,000 fire destroyed three classrooms and damaged a fourth at the Kit Carson Elementary School in Lawndale. Firemen said a window had been smashed to gain entry to the school.

Corte Madera Slide Funds Are Available

Corte Madera has been listed as one of seven Northern California communities whose property owners are eligible for federally subsidized flood and mudslide insurance.

However, there has been a "meager response" from residents of the communities, says a spokesman for Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies, which is administering the program.

"Only 75 policies have been written and with the rainy season approaching, we're concerned that property owners in flood prone areas" may not have time to acquire the insurance, the spokesman said.

Corte Madera became eligible for the insurance July 17, after the town had demonstrated its intentions to initiate a flood control study.

The insurance program was established under the 1968 Housing and Urban Development Act and is designed to reduce future flood damage through community action and to encourage individuals who live in flood-prone areas to pay at least part of the cost of insurance against flood damage.

The law seeks to avoid duplication of federal disaster benefits. According to the act, if a property owner doesn't buy the insurance within 12 months after his community becomes eligible, he will not get federal disaster relief to the extent that he could under the insurance program.

Insurance rates, for the coverage of one to four family homes, runs 40 to 50 cents per $100 of insurance. A maximum of $17,500 may be acquired for single family homes and $30,000 for two to four family homes. Contents may also be insured for 50 to 60 per $100 of insurance.

The spokesman urged interested Corte Madera property owners to contact their insurance agent for complete details.

Body Of Bridge Leaper Identified

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The body of a man who jumped off Golden Gate Bridge Sept. 20 has been identified as that of Larry Gordon Ware, 36, address unknown.

The coroner's office here said Ware's identity was discovered by matching his prints with those in Federal Bureau of Investigation files. The FBI prints were taken in 1960 when Ware was in the Navy, the coroner's office said.

Recorder Taken

An auto tape recorder and medical equipment valued at $135 was taken sometime Wednesday from an auto owned by Dr. Richard A. Cercle of 331 Robin Drive, Corte Madera, while the vehicle was parked at the doctor's home, police said yesterday.

Fun Match Set For Dogs, Pups

Nearly 1,000 puppies and adult dogs are expected to compete in the Blue Ribbon Dog Breeders, Inc., fun match Sunday at Benecia Park in Rohnert Park, according to Mrs. Oscar Carver of Petaluma, match chairman.

Owners may enter their purebred puppies — two months and older — between 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. Sunday at the show. Judging will continue until about 4 p.m.

Among the 20 judges for the match are Patricia Monahan and Phyllis and Jeff Greer, all of Novato.

Second Annual Conference For Writers Underway

The Second Annual Writers' Conference began today at the College of Marin and will continue tomorrow and Sunday. It features nine writers from across the country.

Today's program was scheduled to open at noon with student poetry reading at room 150, followed at 3 p.m. by a panel discussion with Robert Creely, author of "The Island;" poet Kathleen Fraser, writer Michael Harper, author of "Dear John, Dear Coltrane;" poet David Wagoner, author of two travel books, and James Hall, author of "Racers to the Sun."

Tomorrow's session will begin at 10 a.m. with a reading by Peter Beagle, followed at 11 a.m. with a seminar on technique and form. At 2 p.m. another panel discussion will be offered, to be followed at 3 p.m. with a reading by Tillie Olsen.

At 4:15 p.m., a marketing workshop has been scheduled to be followed at 5 and 8 p.m. with readings.

Sunday's schedule includes student readings at 10:30 a.m. and the closing address at 1 :30 p.m.

Persons interested in attending the remaining sessions may register anytime tomorrow at the lobby of the fine arts building. Additional information may be obtained by phoning the college's information officer.

Warrant Out In Reopened Grass Case

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — A bench warrant has been issued for the arrest of Lance David DeTrude, 21, of San Rafael after he failed twice to appear for preliminary hearing in Berkeley-Albany Municipal Court.

The warrant was issued Tuesday after he failed to appear that day and on Oct. 8 on charges of cultivation, transportation and possession of marijuana for sale.

The case, dismissed last year in Superior Court for lack of evidence, was reopened in April with new evidence. De Trude was arrested on a warrant Sept. 23 by Larkspur police

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Long-Term Growth Stocks Suggested

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. Could you suggest a few long-term growth stocks? K.S.Q. I have $15,000 available for investment. What growth stocks would you recommend? W.L.

A. Although this column answers specific questions from readers, frequently the advice given has broader applications. I find that since the beginning of September 13 long-term growth stocks have been recommended. For the more conservative investor five growth stocks with moderate to generous dividends were suggested for purchase. These were: General Foods, Gulf Oil, H.J. Heinz, Mobil Oil and Philip Morris. A second group of six faster growth companies, all recommended as buys, included: American Hospital Supply, Crown Cork & Seal, Dr. Pepper, Eli Lilly, Chas. Pfizer and Simplicity Pattern. Two speculative growth issues which were advised recently were American Medical Enterprises and Wang Laboratories.

Q. In the spring of 1968 I learned that American Smelting was about to embark on an extensive silver exploration program. Based on this information I bought shares of Coeur d'Alene Mines at 17¾. I am prepared to hold indefinitely if the company has a future. What do you think? W.G.

A. A joint exploration program was entered into by American Smelting and Coeur d'Alene in 1964. Subsequent exploration by Asarco established the presence of a commercial orebody on the Coeur property, 1½ miles from Asarco's Galena mine. Turning this knowledge into profits, however, requires time and money. In 1969, Coeur reported profits of $4,229, up from a $12,655 deficit in 1968. Unfortunately your purchase was made when silver speculation was at its height, the price per ounce (N.Y.) was approaching $2.50. By mid-1969 it had fallen to about $1.60 and spot silver is now quoted at about $1.75, with higher prices likely, as demand continues to exceed supply. Because of the substancial private silver hoards which may be released as the price rises, it is unlikely that a return to the $2.50 level will be seen in the near future. However, these high-risk shares may be held as a speculation on the price of silver.

Phone Companies Revenues Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)— Total operating revenues for the Bell System and 19 other independent telephone companies rose $1.6 billion to $17.5 billion during the business year ending June 30, the Federal Communications Commission has reported.

The FCC said the Bell System, which includes American Telephone & Telegraph, 22 principle telephone subsidiaries and two associated companies, accounted for $16.7 billion of the total, up from $15.2 billion the previous fiscal year.

The 19 other firms, including the Western Union Telegraph Co., had revenues totaling $733.5 million, an increase from $685.5 million.

Dow Jones Off 4.52 In Slow Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market finished on a soft note today, with electronics attracting the bulk of the selling pressure.

Shortly before the close, declines were leading advances, 855 to 396, while the Dow Jones Industrial Average was off 4.52 points at 763.35.

A turnover of around 11,000,000 shares compared with 11,250,000 shares traded Thursday.

Closing prices included: American Telegraph & Telegraph 44 1-4 up 1-8; Bethlehem Steel 21 5-8 off 1-2; Chrysler 24 1-2 off 1; DuPont 116 5-8 off 1 1-8; Ford 51 off 3-8; General Electric 83 1-4 off 1 1-4; General Motors 72 5-8 up 3-8; and IBM 290 3-4 off 2 1-4.

Analyst said traders were concerned about prospects for a substantial budget deficit, generally disappointing third quarter earnings statements and the apparent firm rejection of President Nixon's Vietnam peace plan by the Communists.

Monte Gordon of Bache & Co. said the "sloppy" third quarter earnings reports now pouring in raised concern among investors on whether the economy is actually pulling out of its slump.

Banks' Operating Profits Gaining, Underwriter Says

NEW YORK (UPI) — Banks' operating profits should show a gain of approximately seven per cent for 1970, M.A. Schapiro, Inc., underwriters and dealers in bank stocks, has reported.

Schapiro projected a rise in aggregate net operating profits of 25 large representative banks to $1,310,000,000 from $1,220,000,000 in 1969, a gain of 7.4 per cent.

Banks which have been dependent upon high-cost borrowings are now benefiting from the return flow of deposits and the greater availability of federal reserve credit, the firm said.

Loan income of the bigger banks has been affected by the two half-point reductions in the prime interest rate this year, but this is being partially offset by generally lower cost of funds and the modest expansion of total loans and investments, Schapiro said.

Buying Chain

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Campbell Soup Co. has agreed to buy Valle's Steak Houses, a restaurant chain, for $38.9 million cash plus subject to Valle's liabilities. Valle's will continue to operate autonomously.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Marshall Hotel Features Jazz, Folksinging In Historic Setting

The historic Marshall Hotel on the Marin coast, built on pilings over the waters of Tomales Bay, I find, has been giving weekend food service for the past few months.

Owned by a corporation and for a time closed, it is now being managed by Mary Helen Burnison who lives on the premises. Weekend lunches run to sandwiches and chowders. Dinners Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights vary from time to time, but usually include oysters, chowder, perhaps beef stew, and other simple but wholesome fare.

There is also entertainment on frequent occasions. A seasonal onsale general liquor license is active until Dec. 1 — then for three months only wines and beers will be sold and the general license will become effective again on March 1.

Among special artists that have been announced in the hotel's entertainment program is Mark Spoelstra who appeared last night at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo. He is a young pioneer of contemporary music, who accompanies himself on a 12-string guitar. He will be at the Marshall House tomorrow at 3 p.m.

Sunday afternoon from 3 to 7, traditional New Orleans music will be played by Earl Scheelar's Jazz Band and Don Rose's Egghead Jazz Band. Both bands appear under the sponsorship of the Northern California New Orleans Jazz Club.

Another announced booking on Saturday, Oct. 31 is for folksingers Tom Jans and Mimi Farina, a newly formed duo who made a bid for prominence at the Monterey and Berkeley folk festivals. Their repertoire is primarily contemporary ballads, many of their own composition. They accompany themselves on guitar.

The Marshall Hotel is said to be almost 100 years old.

ANOTHER PLACE in West Marin that has been open some time but may not be known to many under its present ownership is the Inverness Coffee House at Inverness Way and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Inverness.

This was once called Graveson's Inverness Coffee Shop. The Gravesons closed and the place was later opened as a family operation of John Ritter and his two sons Rob and Mike, who have it now. They serve breakfasts Saturdays and Sundays and lunches and dinners throughout the week from noon. Closing time is about 9 p.m.

Lunch menu consists mainly of sandwiches and homemade chowders. Dinners, served anytime from noon on, run to brochettes, steaks, oysters, prawns and other seafoods — complete with soup and salad at under $4. The Ritters have made an application for an on-sale wine and beer license, which probably will require another 30 days or more before validation.

KAPPIES HOUSE OF SANDWICHES on Main Street, Tiburon has been sold by Carl and Joelle Nicholson, who will leave next month for New Zealand "to take it easy for awhile."

New owner is a young man, John N. Rooney of San Francisco, who has been in the service and is a computer technician. I have been told that he will continue the operation here basically as it has been conducted in the past and under the same name of Kappie's.

GATBY'S in Sausalito is again making some entertainment changes. The Jean Hoffman Trio will now be playing Sundays starting at 6:30 p.m. as well as on Wednesday through Saturday nights. For the time being, George De Fore is sitting in for Jean Hoffman, who is on a vacation for a few weeks.

On Monday and Tuesday nights there is a newt rio — Ripple II, a fun, lively folk group. This keeps Gatsby's open with a good entertainment schedule seven nights a week. Its no-cover minimum policy also remains in force.

A "EUROPEAN-TYPE BEER GARDEN" will be opened at 5440 Redwood Highway, Novato (in the Sundown shopping complex) sometime before the first of the year by Nick Morf of Bel Marin Keys.

According to Nick, it will be a dancing and fun place, possibly with the name of Dodge City, although the latter is not certain. Nick is involved in several projects, one of which is Squeezer's Palace, a juice bar on Maiden Lane, San Francisco. He is planning a similar operation on Polk Street.

Dodge City, if so named, will be in the former location of Sundown Lighting. It will be remodeled and the garden landscaped.

PROBABLY NO ONE KNOWS for certain when or where the first wine was actually made — but the Persians are among those claiming the credit for it. They believe that Jerusheed, who founded the ancient Persian city of Persepolis, accidentally discovered the art when he unwittingly gulped down some grape juice that had fermented — and found that he liked it.

CORRECTION: On the Menu at the Cat 'N' Fiddle in Sausalito (this has also been knows as The Vicarate) — Dover Sole, not Derby sole as written last week, is one of the house specialties. Sorry.

A NEW TWO-FOR-ONE dinner coupon membership has hit the Marin County scene — this one called Marin Passport to Gourmet Dining. It offers 15 free dinners for $15. Fifteen Marin dineries participate and another five on the Monterey peninsula are included.

Special features are said to be: No restriction on the menu for either person and no need to present membership card until after dinner.

Additional information may be secured by writing to Marin Passport to Gourmet Dining, P.O. Box 1354, San Rafael -- or securing the telephone number from information operator.

THE LION'S SHARE on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile features Dave Von Rink and Frontier tonight through Sunday. Attraction next week Thursday through Sunday is the Coasters.

FOR A FAIRLY BROAD picture of 124 restaurants in the San Francisco Bay, Sacramento, Tahoe and Yosemite areas we suggest San Francisco Magazine's Diner's Choice by Howard Young. This year the list includes more than ever on this side of the bay — 13 in Marin County and five in Sonoma County.

Copies may be obtained by writing to Diner's Choice, 115 New Montgomery Street, San Francisco. Price is $1.

Bus, Ferry Plans On Bridge Panel's Agenda

Commuter bus and ferry plans will be considered by the Golden Gate Bridge District's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee at 9:30 a.m. Monday in toll plaza offices.

Transit Mgr. Donald White will present updated cost estimates for the 132-bus system, and the committee will take up a proposed $14 million ferryboat system proposed in August by the district's naval architect, Philip F. Spaulding of Seattle.

Also on the agenda are subsidies of Marin Transit Systems' commuter feeder bus service to the Tiburon ferry and of buses for commuter clubs.

Plans for a ferryboat terminal in Larkspur reportedly also will be presented. Larkspur and Corte Madera are competing for the terminal, and Corte Madera already has shown district directors a plan for its waterfront that would be built around a terminal.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Chemical manufacturers have been notified that they must call back from the market and relabel certain chemicals containing the herbicide 2,4,5-T to comply with California regulations.

The state Agriculture Department disclosed Tuesday it told the manufacturers to relabel such weed killers recommended for use around homes, in lakes or ponds, and on ditch banks and recreation areas. The department last August prohibited the sale of chemicals containing 2,4,5-T for those uses effective Nov. 1.

"It is the manufacturers' responsibility to see that all these chemicals are returned to them by wholesalers, distributors and retailers for either disposal or relabeling," the department said.

State restrictive action against 2,4,5-T was based on experiments which showed the chemical may cause birth defects in some animals.

Prices Of Toys Will Be Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Fred B. Rooney, D-Pa. has asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the pricing, promotion and operation of the nation's toy industry because "the consumer is being jet-cajoled and super-promoted by the worst collection of ultra-junk toys in the industry's history."

He said there was "a critical need for investigation of . . . toy-buying hazards such as false or misleading promotions, exorbitant pricing and non-durability."

Rooney cited as examples a $8 guitar he bought on which the strings broke when it was being tuned, and a widely advertised game he paid $4.29 for, "only to find that an earlier price tag of $2.90 had been covered ...."

Commission Session

The Marin Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission will meet at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Blue Room of Marin General Hospital to discuss community involvement in combating delinquency and to interview prospective commission members.

Reinecke's Outlook: 'Awful Good' For '70

Reincecke, addressing a campaign rally at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant, San Rafael, said "Jessie's no fool — this fellow's been around too long."

He said that Unruh has raised $850,000, but has not spent it yet. Unruh may use it for "some dynamiting kind of publicity at the last moment, but more likely he'll be paying the party workers to go out and work on election day," Reinecke said.

"We don't do things that way," he added, "so we'll have to work right up to election day."

Reinecke praised Marin as "the strongest Republican pocket of strength in the northern part of the state." He conceded, however, that "Marin is not exactly the Orange County of the North."

Reinecke, declaring that "things are looking awful good everywhere" for a big Republican win in November, said, "We're building up a great big beautiful Republican snowball that's going to roll right through the 70s."

Reinecke apologized for the absence of his wife, who was also to have attended a luncheon for her yesterday at Dominic's. She had to stay in Sacramento because their 12-year-old daughter, Mimi, was having surgery for an arm broken Tuesday in a fall from a horse, he said.

About 150 persons attended the $3-a-head reception, scheduled from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Reinecke arrived at 7:20 p.m., explaining he had had a heavy campaign schedule all day throughout the Bay Area.

Subway Station Plan Approved

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bay Area Rapid Transit District's visual design committee approved plans Thursday for a subway station under Market Street between Davis and Spear Streets in San Francisco.

The station was not in the original BART designs and will have to be paid for by the city. Tax increment bonds in the Golden Gateway development already have produced $8.5 million to build a box-like structure that will contain the station.

Another $10 million would be needed to complete the job.

Committeemen also approved plans for a station in Concord, although the district's staff said service there could not start before 1972.

Soviets Fire Probe To Study Weather

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviets announced today they have orbited a meteorological satellite to study clouds and weather changes.

The news agency Tass said the "Meteor" was launched Thursday and placed into an orbit ranging from 418 miles to 393 miles above the earth's surface. The craft is making one complete revolution every 97.5 minutes at an angle of 81.2 degrees to the equator, Tass said.

Association Taking Over Review Job

The Greenbrae Property Owners Association has agreed to assume responsibility for maintenance and architectural review powers for Greenbrae from Schultz Building Co. on Nov. 1.

Beth M. Reilly, association secretary, reported yesterday that the association also agreed Wednesday to appoint a five-member board of review for arcitectural supervision when the powers are assumed.

The review board will have two association board members and three from the community, she said. Selection of members will come at a later meeting.

The review board will be charged with overseeing architectural plans for construction of new buildings and remodeling and additions to existing buildings in Greenbrae.

The association, in assuming the responsibilties from the building company, will continue with the Schultz policy of collecting between $10 and $15 per year from each of Greenbrae's 1,200 homeowners. The collection raises about $14,000 a year to pay for maintenance and architectural susupervision, Mrs. Reilly said.

The association also accepted the resignation of Robert Nourse, vice president, who resigned because of personal reasons. His post was filled by David Simonds. A second post held by Nourse, that of maintenance committee chairman, was filled by John Russell.

The association also set Oct. 31, at 4:45 p.m., for the annual Halloween party at Greenbrae School. Joan Donati will head the committee in charge of food and preparations, Mrs. Reilly said.

$733,000 Authorized To Fight Jellyfish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed into law a measure authorizing the government to spend $733,000 to help Atlantic and Gulf Coast states research ways to fight the jellyfish and other aquatic pests.

The money is the remainder of an original $2.25 million authorized three years ago. Most of the help so far has gone to Maryland and Virginia for work in the Chesapeake Bay area, but states such as New Jersey, Florida and Mississippi also have a share in the program.

Half of the people of Colombia live in urban areas.

Dr. John W. McGaughey takes pleasure in announcing his association with Dr. John E. Jansheski in the General Practice of Dentistry.

Dr. McGaughey graduated from the University of California Dental School and was recently discharged from the Army after one year tours in Texas and Viet Nam.

Novato, San Anselmo Put Money Measures To Vote

People are sometimes inclined to complain that they get taxed without having any say about it.

The San Anselmo City Council seems to have taken this complaint to heart. It has placed on the Nov. 3 ballot two special tax measures, each for a nine-cent levy for one year.

Measure E asks approval of a nine-cent tax to pay for a $52,000 fire engine. Measurt F asks an identical levy to finance $52,000 worth of street improvements.

The San Anselmo City Council has gone even farther in asking guidance from the people. Measure G asks whether the councilmen's salary, now $150 per month, should be cut to $50.

WE ARE NOT ABOUT to suggest to San Anselmans whether their councilmen are worth $50 or $150 a month. The councilmen several years ago voted themselves the $150 pay, under a state law which says a city council can pay itself that salary or nothing. There have been suggestions that the city fathers should be willing to serve for less. They have shown they are willing by putting it up to the people.

As for the fire engine and the street improvements, the proposed special taxes offer the least expensive way of paying for them, assuming the council could find no way to finance them under its present tax structure. A one-year levy will not entail any interest cost, so the taxpayers will get full value for the money expended — if they vote to expend it.

What could be fairer?

ANOTHER MUNICIPAL measure on the Nov. 3 ballot will be a third attempt by the City of Novato to win approval of a bond issue for street construction.

This appears as Measure G in the ballot booksof Novato voters. Proposed is a $3,250,000 issue to bring Novato's streets up to what the streets in a city its size should be. Many of them are left over from the days when Novato was unincorporated, agricultural county territory, and simply do not meet today's needs.

Twice before we have endorsed Novato's street bond proposal. Twice it has failed to muster the necessary two-thirds approval. This time, we hope it makes it.

Boats On Parade — A Good Show

Marin County, touching San Francisco Bay on one side and the Pacific Ocean on another, has always been largely water-oriented. But it has become much more so with the growth of recreational boating in recent years.

Some idea of the part such boating plays in Marin life will be given by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce's "Fall Marine Holiday" on Sunday.

A parade of decorated boats will head from the Bird Cage up the San Rafael Canal, starting at 1 p.m. They'll be from all around the Bay Area — but mostly from Marin.

Past boat parades sponsored by the chamber have proved spectacular. We expect this year's "sail-in" to be even more so. It will be a show too good to miss.

See you there!

State Park Grazing Turndown And Responsibility For Fires

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — When the state Parks and Recreation Commission voted to deny grazing privileges to some cattle ranchers in San Diego County whose feed lands have been burned out by the recent fires, it probably did not expect the storm of disapproval churned up by the action.

The cattle ranchers asked permission for use of a portion of the east mesa of Cuyamaca State Park for 120 days during the emergency period when most of the private cattle land is scorched by fire.

He said "the commission's action is a direct rebuke of Governor Reagan's effort to pool all available state resources to assist the victims of the fires."

STULL BLAMED the fires on the conservationists, who he said earlier opposed the controlled burning of underbrush along the foothills of Southern California.

"When last month's fires swept along the foothills," Stull declared, "it was this underbrush which kept the fires out of control, and destroyed our forest lands.

"I place major blame on such short-sighted, selfish-thinking people for the devastation to our forest and communities.

"Now that some of the fire victims want assistance to recoup from their losses, it is these same people who are again turning their backs on such requests. More than 800 head of cattle, and the occupations of a number of local ranchers may be lost because of the unthinking action by a majority of the board.

"All these people are doing is espounding high-sounding platitudes on ecology and conservation while helping to destroy what resources we do have."

IT IS NO secret the parks and recreation commission has been rather tough on cattle grazing in state park preserves, and in many instances, probably rightly so.

But the decision does bring up the subject of fire control by judicious burning of excess brush in marginal forest lands.

CORRECTION

In an "Affairs of State" column published early in September, relating to the passage of SB 637 as amended, it was stated that Assemblyman Don Mulford, R-Oakland, sponsored this measure, which would have allowed him to collect some $42,300 from the state legislative retirement fund in case he is not re-elected to the Assembly, had it become law.

The statement that Assemblyman Mulford "sponsored" the bill which made this provision is incorrect, according to state capitol usage. The correct term should have been "voted for" the amended bill, which he did do, according to the Assembly Journal, Page 7559, of Aug. 17.

Some Doctors Do Cheat On Medicare

Regarding your editorial cartoon and the letter of protest of Dr. Edgar J. Rothenberg: In the Sept. 25 issue of a federal tax guide report my accountant showed me was an article — quote:

"In the past year, the IRS processed tax returns of some 11,000 physicians receiving Medicare and Medicaid payments. Preliminary results indicate a number of instances of substantial, unreported income, including some where omission exceeded $100,000."

Yes doctor, many people do fudge on their tax returns, but few have the chance of the medical profession to forget $100,000. I also have had personal experience with the doctor poking his head in the hospital door to say good morning, and thus be eligible to bill Medicare for a hosptal visit. Let's face it doctor, too many of your profession have made a mockery of a program designed to help the aged or needy.

Generosity Helps Cancer Society

The cure for cancer is closer to becoming a reality today due to the generosity of the people of Marin County.

I sincerely want to thank the Independent-Journal and its staff for giving us their time and outstanding news coverage which has greatly helped Marin Unit ACS volunteers make this one of the most successful years. For the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, Marin County residents contributed $69,366 to the society's year-round programs of research, education and service. Fifty-nine per cent of this total will be used here in Marin County for public education, professional education, patient service and transportation. The balance or 41 per cent will be used in cancer research in California. We at the Marin County Unit of the American Cancer Society are convinced that if everyone would exercise some simple safegurads against cancer, there could be significant saving of life from all forms of the disease. An intensive effort is planned by the Marin Unit to inform the people of Marin County about some of these safeguards for protecting themselves against cancer during Cancer Education Week, Nov. 9-15. Our most sincere thanks to all of those people who have given so much time during the past year to help fight cancer.

Why Save Church? Why Vestments?

It was interesting to hear the development of the sermon of Oct. 11 by Dr. (Charles C. Griffin of the First Presbyterian Church. His analogy regarding the 12 stones used by the Israelites in crossing the River Jordan, and the stones used as a covering for the outside wall of the church was quite clear. His rationale being the stones in themselves are not important; only their symbolic meaning; the rocks being a symbol of the united struggle of the 12 tribes of Israel in their attempt to reach their "promised land."

The sermon, without question, was dealing with the possible demolition of the church. The meaning of the sermon was loud and clear — that people who are questioning the demolishing of the building are putting too much stress on the physical aspects of worship...

My answer to this admonition is this: No, we do not have to have the building. I would be willing to worship in a tent. Why have any of the ritual? Enjoying the beauty and cathedral-like atmosphere of the church is no more idolatry than enjoying any other part of the service that enhances meditation. Why have the organ? We don't need it in order to sing. Why have the clerical vestments? I could look at and listen to a minister dressed otherwise. Why have the plush red carpets?

Not one person who would like to see the church saved is unconcerned about the "saving of human life." I do feel, however, that every possible avenue toward preserving the building should be explored. I believe many, many people are not convinced this has been done...

Direct Election Held Totalitarian

If the proposed "direct election" constitutional amendment with its 40 per cent provision goes through we may never again see either a democratic or a republican president in the United States, although a winner with the bare 40 per cent may reorganize a "coalition" government under the new name of "The People's Democratic Republic of North America." He would be helped to achieve this astounding feat of political legerdemain by hundreds of thousands of people who couldn't make up their minds or were too lazy or confused to vote, and by a temporary marriage of all the dissenting elements and sadly misled idealists.

After that there would be only one candidate and one issue in our "elections", and a commissar would assist the voters in marking their ballots. There would also be an end to confusion in the voters' minds, for there would be only one political party with some such name as "The Young Patriots for Peace, Equality, and Freedom," but all we'd ever see from then on would be war, dictatorship, and slavery.

You don't believe it could happen? Read history. Hitler came to power with a number of political parties and a minority vote, and now it has just happened again in Chile. The leftwing Russian dictatorship that threw out democratic Kerensky 53 years ago never had a majority, and the only "elections" they have had were rigged by the Supreme Soviet.

U.N. Refurbishment Helps Russians

Can you imagine spending 80 million to refurbish a building — in these critical times — even if it is the United Nations Building? As usual, it will be the U.S. taxpayers who will have to pay most of that cost.

Would a refurbished building make the U.N. more effective in peace-keeping? Or is it already functioning according to the wishes of its master, the U.S.S.R.? It is definitely to their interest to keep the U.S. not winning wars but draining our manpower and substance! Otherwise, would they have been supplying at leat 80 per cent of their war material to our enemy? All these years!

For that reason, isn't it rather absurd to "ask Russia to help negotiate a just peace" — after the U.S. has started to surrender? If this isn't surrendering, why hasn't the U.S. been demanding some quid pro quo, such as our POW's, every time the President announces more troops will be withdrawn?

If the U.N. had permitted General MacArthur to win the Korean war there would not have been a Vietnam confrontation!

THE DRUMMONDS

North-South Divisions Vanishing In Politics, Economics, Society

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

FORT WORTH — The most striking fact of the South today is not how different it is from the rest of the country but how alike.

Fundamental and far-reaching social, economic and political changes, long in slow motion, are now coming to fruition in a rushing climax.

We have just traveled to the Northeast, the Midwest, the Pacific Coast and the South. It is evident that the United States of America is becoming one — socially, economically and politically; not totally, but to a degree which should wipe from the minds of non-southerners that the South is separate and unequal.

It is increasingly apparent that the things which had long handicapped the South are waning.

HERE IS WHAT'S happening:

The South was economically backward. No more.

It was dominated by one-party politics. The Democratic party could take it for granted. The Republican party saw little value in cultivating its support.

Each of these three long-enduring conditions is being radically and rapidly altered.

ECONOMICS — Average personal income in the South is going up markedly. For example, the greatest gains in the entire nation in 1969 were made here in the Southwest — up 9.5 per cent, and in the Southeast — up 9.2 per cent. This is not a sudden ephemeral rise. It is a steady trend. Ten years ago the gap between the average per capita income in the Southwest and that of the rest of the nation was 30 per cent. Last year it was only 20 per cent.

RACE — The massive mechanization of southern agriculture and the powerful lure of employment in the defense industry in the North and Pacific Coast, during World War II and after, cut the South's black population in half. In the last two decades 3,500,000 Negro-Americans left the South.

Southerners have every reason to contend, and they're quite right in asserting, that the racial issue is not a southern monopoly. It is a national issue and must be treated nationally. It is a tremendous achievement that legal public school segregation is now nearly totally abolished in the South while de facto segregation, brought about by different methods elsewhere in the nation, remains largely untouched.

POLITICS — One-party dominance is on the wane. Eisenhower took four southern states in 1952, Goldwater five in 1964, and the South made possible Nixon's election in 1968 when the Democratic percentage of the presidential vote in the South and border states was down to 29 per cent. No presidential candidate in the '70s can take the South for granted nor wisely neglect it.

NO ONE HAS written more perceptively about how the social, economic and political forces are bringing the nation together than Henry Owen, who headed the policy-planning staff of the State Department under President Johnson and who is now with the Brookings Institution.

"The deep North-South division which has plagued the country since the 1850s," he concludes, "is on the way to being healed."

Whether the process now goes forward unhampered depends in part, he says, on whether the media and the intellectual community of the North discard the outdated cliches of the 1930s. He pleads with them to do so:

"There is a curious ambivalence in the attitude of some northern liberals on this point: Reaching out to students and other alienated elements is viewed as an act of statesmanship, but trying to understand the problems which a century of neglect has created in the South is political opportunity."

It is time for the rest of the nation to see the South as it is, not as they may think it is.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

Nixon 'Full Employment' Goal Disturbs Economists

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's grand design for the nation's economy calls for a return to full employment some time in 1972—just in time to give a boost to his expected bid for a second term.

That might seem like a long time to wait for the 4.3 million persons now out of work, but many of the government's professional economy watchers think the goal may be too ambitious to be met.

One high-ranking economist said privately the economy would have to grow at a pace much faster than now seems probable to restore full employment by mid-1972. Such a growth rate, he said, might touch off a new round of inflation.

PAUL W. McCRACKEN, chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, said the administration hopes to get unemployment down to less than 4 per cent of the work force some time during the 1972 fiscal year that runs from next July 1 to June 30, 1972.

McCracken defined "full employment" as less than 4 per cent jobless. The post-Korean War low for unemployment was 3.3 per cent recorded during three straight months from December, 1968, through February, 1969.

Administration sources made it plain that the plan now calls for full employment to be reached near the end of the fiscal year, about 20 months from now.

SOME GOVERNMENT economists are not happy about the goal. They think it could backfire in one of two ways: Nixon could try to heat up the economy enough to reduce unemployment on schedule and in the process lose all of the gains that have been made against inflation. Or the goal could be missed, which would be more embarrassing than the same rate of unemployment would be had no goal been announced.

McCracken, asked about the goal, confirmed that it had been set. Then he added: "I cite as my authority for that, the President."

The dilemma for economy managers is that there usually is a trade-off between inflation and unemployment.

Nixon hopes to break that mold by producing both low unemployment and a low rate of inflation. The key, administration officials believe, is to do things gradually.

THE COST of living rose in in August at an annual rate of 2.5 per cent, a figure considered to be relatively uninflationary. But it took 20 months for the administration's policies to produce that result and it was achieved at the cost of a business slump and rising unemployment.

Since Nixon took office in January, 1969, unemployment has risen from 3.3 to 5.5 per cent of the work force, an increase of 1.7 million persons.

Street Parking Fee, Sewer Service Charge Scorned By City Council

With local and county taxes at an all-time high, Mill Valley City Councilman Jean S. Barnard has come up with two new sources of revenue which require the heaviest users of city services to pay for them.

No one else on the city council seems to by paying much attention to her, however.

She proposes charging a fee for using city streets as a carport, and a sewer service fee.

Mrs. Barnard thinks the parking fee would both raise revenue for the city and discourage people from parking on — and in some cases blocking — Mill Valley's narrow streets.

Residents would be required to buy a sticker for each car that has no offstreet parking space. This is done in Milwaukee, Wis., she noted, where the cost is $4 a month.

WHENEVER I bring this up, the other councilmen always ask about overnight guest parking," she said. But she pointed out that Milwaukee solves the problem by having people call a night phone number and give the license number of the guest's car. This is allowed for four days.

"The revenue from this probably would pay for the enforcement. The city might not make any money on it, but it would curb the proliferation of parking on our narrow streets," Mrs. Barnard said. She said Milwaukee does make money on the proposition.

The second proposal, the sewer service fee, would not change the sewer rate of most of Mill Valley's residents. Here's how it would work:

CITIZENS NOW pay for sewer service as part of their tax bills. The city tax rate, this year totaling $2.929 per $100 assessed valuation, include 38 cents for sewers.

Mrs. Barnard would have the sewer tax listed separately on the tax bill. Instead of being based on assessed valuation, it would be based on the number of pipes draining into the sewer.

This, she said, would enable the city to tax institutions such as churches and schools which are tax-free. Mrs. Barnard believes these institutions should not pay property taxes, but should pay something for city services they use, including sewers.

Second, it would eliminate double taxation now being paid by Mill Valley residents, who live in the so-called high school tidelands annexation.

In 1968 this property, served by the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, was annexed to Mill Valley. Today, two years later, the land still is served by the district, but residents pay the full Mill Valley tax rate, including the 38 cents for sewer service they don't get.

"These ideas for new revenue were very well received during my campaign for the council," Mrs. Barnard said, "but I can't seem to get any action now that I'm elected."

Tribute To An Old Friend; Endorsement Of College Measures

Fusselman

There is a feeling of gentle sadness when we read of the passing of some one we have known and admired, even though many years have gone by since last seeing and talking with that one.

It has been some 45 years since we knew Mrs. Pepper of Bolinas. A gracious, gentlewoman was historian and author Marin Waterhouse Pepper.

In those long gone days, I would see her, during the spring and summer months, at least once a week and some times more often. She was a customer of ours. When I would walk into her tea room at Bolinas, I would immediately be surrounded by her happy, friendly youngsters, while she with pride would quietly move through them to greet me.

Her home and tearoom were well up above the waves as they slid on into the beach and then receded. When her order had been filled, she would stroll with me to a rustic shaded lookout where I would have my lunch.

Watching her as she sat there, with a far-away gaze, looking out over the Pacific, I was always impressed by her genuineness. She seemed in tune with the universe, truly a rare and refreshing sight.

Her husband and wonderful family will miss her and miss her, but how proud they can be that she was theirs.

I WOULD LIKE to talk with you about the College of Marin. Billie served on the board of trustees from its beginning for 33 years. She was the secretary of the board for many of those years and then president. The Ada M. Fusselman Library was named for her.

As secretary ,for years she signed (and wrote long hand) the warrants for every dollar that was spent. Through her many club contacts, she worked for scholarships for scores of worthy students.

Although I have purposely refrained from commenting on school matters in this column, there is a compulsion to break that rule now. I believe she would want me to.

THE TRUSTEES of the college are presenting two measures to the voters — "B" and "C". I have gone over them and discussed them with an informed man on such matters — a man not connected with school affairs, but because of his great interest in education is, in my opinion, an authority.

He and I are in agreement that both "B" and ""C" should be validated by the voters. However, it is apparent to both of us that the permissiveness that has prevailed on campus could be a handicap.

I have always believed that problems should be faced up to and not swept under the rug.

Marin will need the facilities proposed to be funded. It will cost much, much more to do these things at a later date. Therefore it seems to me that abhorrent as some things are that are transpiring, they should be acknowledged and looked squarely in the eye.

THESE THINGS will pass. This country is not going to go down.

If we love this country, and most of us do, then we must prepare for the future now, even though we are shocked and dismayed. Community colleges will become more and more necessary. There is no mistake about that.

Vote yes on both "B" and "C". This should ease the tax burden now and most certainly in time to come.

Elderly Writer Found Murdered

DUXBURY, Mass. (UPI)—Bertha R. Sumner, 79, author of novels made into the "Tammy" series of movies, has been found beaten to death and strangled. Her 16-year-old grandson was arrested Thursday in connection with the death.

Mrs. Sumner wrote under the name Cid Ricketts.

Her body was found sprawled across the threshold of her bedroom of her home, a remodeled windmill, Wednesday night, police said. Cause of death was given as beating with a hammer.

Early Thursday morning, her grandson, John Ricketts Sumner, 16, appeared at the police station and police said he gave them information leading to the discovery of Mrs. Summer's body.

He was arrested and arraigned on a charge of juvenile delinquency—murder.

Mrs. Sumner was born in Brookhaven, Miss., but spent much of her life in New York and Massachusetts. She used her southern background for some of her books, including "Tammy Out of Time" and "Tammy Tell Me True."

Her book "Quality"—titled "Pinkie" in the movies—was produced in 1947 and is considered one of Hollywood's first interracial films.

Working Plans Asked On School Additions

Trustees of the Dixie School District have authorized the district's architect to proceed with working plans for additions to the Miller Creek Junior High School and the Oak View Elementary School.

The board acted Wednesday after architect Harold Crosby of San Francisco showed slides and models of the proposed buildings which include a gymnasium for Miller Creek and a classroom, offices and library for Oak View.

Trustees asked Crosby to complete the construction documents and report back on January 13, according to Supt. Clifford W. Campbell.

The board also authorized the superintendent to investigate complaints by several parents that two fifth grade classes at the Mary Silveira School in Marinwood are too large.

Campbell said one class has 35 students and another 34, and added the parents had asked for an additional teacher because "this is a difficult group of youngsters, as far as discipline is concerned."

According to Campbell, the parents told the board the Roundtree housing development, now being built in Marinwood, will bring more students into the school.

The superintendent said the current class size is in accordance with district policy which permits classes from 28 to 35 youngsters. Districtwide average is 30-31 students per class, he said.

The board asked Campbell to study the matter and report back at its Oct. 28 meeting.

The Dixie School District Board Also:

SALARY ADJUSTMENTS — Adjusted the salaries of two principals (Pat Barnes of Lucas Valley School and Michael Glose of Nova Albion School), miscalculated in a clerical error by the district office. Campbell said the error resulted in both being paid less than they should have been. Mrs. Barnes' salary was adjusted from $14,990 to $17,132 and Glose's from $14,350 to $16,400.

CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS — Authorized the district to proceed with the following capital improvements contained in the 1970-71 budget: playground fencing at Santa Margarita and Dixie Schools; paving and watering system for Nova Albion School and concrete walks, a water system and patio for Don Timoteo School.

NEW EMPLOYEES — Approved hiring of the following persons: Carolyn Swingle, teacher at Miller Creek, at $7,684 for the remainder of the year; Elaine Devincenze, clerical assistant, 10 hours a week at an annual salary of $1,012 and Barney Younglove, custodian, 10 hours a week at $1,212.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE — Approved a one-year maternity leave, beginning Dec. 18, for Patricia Campbell, teacher at Lucas Valley School.

INTER-DISTRICT TRANSFERS — Granted transfers to allow Alline J. Riddle to attend kindergarten in San Rafael and Gerald R. Flanagan of Petaluma to attend Mary Silveira School.

Money Is Offered For Tennis Courts

The Mariner Cove Improvement Association has offered to donate $500 for the construction of tennis courts at the San Clemente School in East Corte Madera.

Herber C. Leney, association president, reported yesterday the association agreed Wednesday to donate the money in order to start action on the courts which have been sought by East Corte Madera residents for years.

He said the town council will be informed of the offer as well as the Larkspur School District board in hopes of starting joint action by the two groups.

No Charge Is Filed In Window Incident

No charge was filed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court against Benjamin Skippingday, 22, of San Rafael, who was arrested Wednesday on suspicion of burglary after a San Rafael man said he caught him trying to force open his window.

The district attorney's office did not file a complaint against Skippingday at the request of Donald Gregory Webb, the victim, who said he did not want the case prosecuted.

There are about 2,000 varieties of shrimp, says the National Geographic.

Students Stuck In Elevator

June Black, chief deputy clerk of the Municipal Court, who accompanied the eighth graders on their tour of the building said that there were 18 persons in the elevator which stopped on the way down from the jail.

She said the youngsters exchanged quips and jokes until the elevator was moved down to the bottom level of the building.

One Charge

Robert Earl Davis, 34, of Novato, was bound over to Marin Superior Court only on a charge of burglary but not on one of possessing marijuana as incorrectly reported yesterday in the Independent-Journal.

DESIGNER CHESTER Weinberg broke briefly away from the narrowed silhouette which dominates his spring collection with huge capes, swirling by the yards over print dresses. His spring collection appears to reflect the softness and grace of fashions of the 1920s and 1930s.

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The romantic look of long ago becomes the look of the 70s in the hands of fashion designer Chester Weinberg.

Weinberg obviously is a designer nostalgic for the softness and grace of the clothes of the 1920s and early 1930s. Paul Pairet, the great French dressmaker of half a century ago, could have done Weinberg's new collection for spring, replete with the soft contours of the garments, the grace of movement through pleated skirts or great swirling capes, the fine fabrics like crepe de chine, georgettes and foulards.

Even the huge cartwheel and picture hats reappeared on the Weinberg models. All that one needed to feel present at an old-fashioned garden party were tea and dainty sandwiches.

IT SHOULD be mentioned here that part of Weinberg's nostalgia is for longer skirts, mid-calf and lower even for daytime, but he's been pushing the longer hemline for a couple of seasons now. Not a mini left!

Weinberg, holder of numerous awards for his fashion creativity, was one of the pace-setting designers who are showing their new collections to the nation's buyers and some press.

Weinberg clothes, the commentator said, were for the "woman who loves fashion, who loves change, women of all ages, all sizes and all pocketbooks." To meet the demand of the woman pricetag-watching, he showed some from his boutique or "Chester Now" collection, less expensive than his couture group The boutique clothes retail from $75 up to $185, the others from $200 to $500.

DESIGNER ADOLFO did the hats, some of them for late day and "tea time" the cartwheels with brims wide as the model's shoulders, framing the face with gentle curve, and matched to the dress. The daytime Adolfos were big panamas in natural tone, with scarf hatband matching the dress or suit. Or, they were outsize felts in palest pastel or white, brims turned jauntily up at one side.

Rarely did Weinberg resort to a favorite technique in the nation's garment centre, of alleviating some of the lengthened hemline with slits up sides or front. Only a few prints featured the slits, and with dark stockings coordinated with the costume, there wasn't much around for the leg watchers.

The total silhouette for Weinberg is one of spareness, gentle fit through the waist, wide belts often used, narrowed shoulders, with an occasional modified leg o'mutton sleeve showing. Narrow shape that is, except when he is in his cape mood.

Some of his capes were more like the old-fashioned Bertha collar, ending above the elbow. Then for contrast on came huge circles of fabric, falling to about 10 inches from the floor, many of them in solid sheer wools over printed dresses, others prints to top prints.

In one evening group, the

Mrs. William Park To Coordinate Volunteers In Rubella Campaign

The Marin March of Dimes in cooperation with the San Rafael Junior Women's Club will coordinate volunteer workers for the rubella (German measles) vaccination program to be conducted throughout the county by the Marin County Health Department.

Mrs. William F. Park of Terra Linda, who represents both of the volunteer organizations, will be chairman of the volunteers.

"Many volunteers will be needed," Mrs. Park said, "and it is hoped that the general public, as well as physicians, nurses, pharmacists and other health professionals, will offer their services at the school sites."

Mrs. Park said she hopes to organize teams of 16 volunteers each to serve as registrars, swabbers, etc. for approximately one week on either a morning or afternoon shift in school clinics in North, Central and Southern Marin.

Those wishing to serve as volunteer workers in the effort to wipe out rubella, a disease which causes birth defects when it afflicts expectant mothers, may telephone Mrs. Park.

"The object of the rubella eradication program," explained Mrs. Park, "is to prevent a possible epidemic of rubella in 1971 by vaccinating children one through 11 who are most likely to develop the disease and spread it to their mothers or other female relatives or friends who may be pregnant."

"Aside from the human anguish of bearing a child with rubella caused defects — eye or heart damage, deafness, microcephaly (small head and brain), or bone marrow disease — consider the cost to the United States of what some call the "Rubella Class of '64."

"The cost for education and care of the estimated 20,000 children born to women who contracted rubella during their first three months of pregnancy during that epidemic is almost $3 billion annually," she said "with individual costs estimated at from $9,000 to $13,000 a year."

"In California alone, an estimated 1,500 rubella babies were born during the last epidemic. Multiply this figure by $9,000 per individual and you see it costs California over $13,500,000 each year to pay for one epidemic of rubella."

Mrs. Park also urged mothers of pre-school children over the age of one year to have them vaccinated at the school clinics.

"The Health Department," Mrs. Park concluded, "hopes that 90 per cent or more of Marin's under 12-year-old population will be vaccinated."

Dishwasher Water

Water in the dishwasher should be at least 140 degrees. If in doubt, let hot water run from the faucet for a few minutes in a deep bowl, then check the temperature with a meat thermometer.

To Call It Chicken

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — The Pennsylvania State University reminds consumers that if you order a chicken burger it must be 100 per cent chicken, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture standards. Chicken chop suey must contain at least four per cent chicken and chili con carne must have at least 35 per cent beef and not more than 15 per cent fat.

First Woman Named To Lutheran Church's Board Of Directors

Mrs. Lenore Koehn of Mill Valley, who has been elected president of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League of Peace Church, Mill Valley, is the first woman named to the church's board of directors since women were given a vote in church affairs at the recent convention.

Mrs. Koehn says women are now taking more interest in the church since this decision.

A member of the league nine years, she taught Sunday school five years and headed the church's visitation committee for the elderly and shut-ins, both in the church and the community. The new president says she enjoys church work more than anything else and has a special interest in the problems of the elderly. She arranged to give a monthly birthday party for patients at the Valley Park Rehabilitation and Convalescent Hospital in Mill Valley.

MRS. LENORE KOEHN

She hopes to increase membership in the league and expand its missionary activities.

A native of Mill Valley, educated in its schools through Tamalpais High School, Lenore Koehn is the daughter of the late George Gossers, whose family had a meat business in Mill Valley for 42 years. She was married in the Peace Lutheran Church at the time when church services were held at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

After attending Golden Gate College in San Francisco she worked for accounting firms in San Francisco and on the Peninsula. Except for five years when she lived in San Mateo she has lived in Mill Valley all of her life. She has a daughter, Cindy, 9.

Her leisure time activities are playing the piano for her own enjoyment and gardening.

By HELEN BOTTEL

DEAR HELEN:

Being over 30, I shouldn't write this letter because I'll be stereotyped as an old fuddy-duddy but . . .

Suppose you were walking down your Main Street and you observed a group of young people shouting and giggling in a foreign language, but obviously making fun of everything they see.

This group continues down the street, entering a shop. They handle everything in sight, snickering all the while. When one decides to buy, he hauls out more money than the shop owner makes in a week and says, expecting the man to understand his language, "Hey, figure this out for me — I can't understand your funny foreign money." Then they leave, bragging about how they snuckered the guy out of a bargain.

Later, buying a round of drinks — which they're too young to manage — they flop their expensive tourist cameras down on the bar, toss their money beside them and demand service.

This is the picture Europeans get of our newbreed of "Ugly Americans," the affluent kids whose parents turn them loose overseas without supervision, and without instilling courtesy for their hosts in a foreign country.

We saw them more than once on our trip to Europe this summer. Either they were throwing their money — and insults — around, or they were of the unwashed, hippie variety who came over for the "trip" and perhaps ended up in jail on drug charges.

May I suggest that American parents keep their kids home or accompany them on the grand tour — unless they can teach them manners? Why not send them out into their own country to see its ugliness as well as its beauty. It might be a sobering experience. — CONCERNED

DEAR HELEN:

Your item about "Twelve Words at Twelve," the national Prayer for Peace, intrigued me. I've got our church interested, and other organizations are following suit.

Could you give us a few samples of what those 12-word prayers should include? — INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED:

The Synod of the Golden Gate, sponsors of the Midday Prayer for Peace, has sent me a batch of samples. Anyone who wishes a copy may have one. Just send your request and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Independent-Journal.

Should you want further information on beginning such a program in your town, write to: Synod Of The Golden Gate, 330 Ellis Street, San Francisco, Calif., 94102. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I have been dating a man for a year now and we care for each other very much. Today I tried to find out what he wants for his birthday. He told me flat out that I was not to get him anything, as he wasn't going to observe my birthday in any way.

He didn't even send me a card on other holidays — Christmas, Valentines's Day, etc., but I thought it was only because we weren't good friends then. Now I'm doubtful if he'll ever give me a Christmas present. It isn't that I'm mercenary — I just want to know he thinks of me on these special days. Isn't it natural to want to buy a gift for someone you care about?

Helen, am I wrong to expect some token of affection? He came from Rome, Italy, five years ago. Maybe he just doesn't know our customs. He didn't even wish me Merry Christmas last year. — HOPEFUL BUT NOT HOPING

DEAR HBNH:

When in the U. S., a Roman should follow our customs. You know your fella well enough to discuss this with him now. So do. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. Address Hellen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

TUG OF WAR COMPROMISE

The Knees Are Dead These Days In Cities Of Europe

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI)—Knees are becoming extinct throughout Europe and soon a woman's leg may be as dead as the dodo, fashion-wise.

The Paris spring ready-to-wear shows begin unfolding their wares tomorrow, and there still will be a few short skirts among the long.

But with the midi-maxi look already in the stores for two months, women throughout the continent dutifully are hiding their knees under long skirts and pants, and covering any remaining trace of leg with boots.

IN PARIS, which remains the fashion capital of the world despite periodic uprisings in London, New York and Rome, the fall uniform is a midi skirt slit to above the knee, wide leather belt at the waist, high necked pullover, high boots, fringed handbag and sleeveless maxi coat.

"Women like to look alike," says designer Hubert de Givenchy, and Parisiennes proved it the other night at a plush discotheque where long skirts and boots were unanimous despite steambath temperatures.

MUNICH: Spring ready-to-wear showings feature the long look. Designers predict total indoctrination of women. Newspapers have dropped their anti-midi cry and about-faced to sing praises of new "feminine styles."

AMSTERDAM: The mini is out. Some shops report they are unable to keep up with the midi-maxi demand. Trousers still are in favor as a compromise. Housewives have complained in letters to newspapers but the youth have been brainwashed into long clothes. Said high school student Anja van der Perk, 15, "All the girls in my class want the new fashions and many have them already. I think it's as much fun as the mini was."

EAST EUROPE: No maxis or midis are seen on the streets of Moscow but most trends are a decade late in the Russian capital and clothes are too expensive to be abandoned overnight. Homemade long styles already have appeared in Warsaw and other East European capitals.

MADRID: The young set and fashion-conscious women have fallen into the midi-maxi army. Minis are scarcely seen in shop windows and a sudden cold spell brought crowds into shops to buy the leg-wrapping styles.

STOCKHOLM: One newspaper launched an anti-midi campaign with free protest buttons demanding "no to midi-maxi." Another newspaper reported women were against the maxi 15-1 in a poll. Fifty girls in minis staged a protest march with the sign, "We fight Paris fashion dictatorship."

However, despite the sniping criticisms maxis and midis are gaining some ground in Stockholm "in" places. Popular uniform this fall is mini skirt, as mini as before, masked by a maxi or midi length coat.

There are still complaints that some shops went overboard on maxi-midi styles, but boutique owners say that more midis are on the way in response to demand. Maxi-midi coats are being worn over pants and boots, too.

The feeling in Europe is that this is a transition period and any length goes from old minis to maxis plus pants, short or long. It is even possible that fashion will permit knee-baring skirts a while longer on vacations and hot days. But in general, the lights are going out on legs all over Europe.

And, So Pants

Gallery Guides at the American Stock Exchange have been wearing minis. They think the midi is unflattering, so they'll wear pants this year. Their new custom-made uniforms consist of two pieces — tunic and pants. The autumn gold, tailored woolen tunic has a modified A-line shape with three-quarter sleeves trimmed in off-white around the neck and down the center of the garment. The pants are fitted at the hips but widen from mid-calf to shoe.

Used Glass Is Being Collected And Used

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) — The great glass collection is under way.

Across the country—from Ann Arbor to New Orleans, from New Brunswick to Los Angeles—environment-conscious Americans are helping put their glass bottles and jars back into a giant recycling system.

The containers are starting to re-enter the manufacturing process as "cullet"-ground glass that is needed to make new glass for bottles and jars.

ONE OF the pioneers in reusing glass is Owens-Illinois, Inc., which began a program of getting the public to help gather up used containers at its Bridgeton, N.J., plant two years ago when it became clear that most old-time cullet dealers had been forced out of business for economic reasons.

From the original Bridgeton project, the idea spread to the other 17 cities in which Owens-Illinois has glass container manufacturing plants.

The company now has launched glass container collections in cities in which there are no container manufacturing plants—Ann Arbor, Mich., New Brunswick, N.J., and here in Toledo. The glass is trucked to plants from the collection points.

In Ann Arbor, residents, encouraged by the ecology group called ENACT (Environmental Action for Survival)' collected 65 tons—about 250,000 bottles—within two days.

CULLET IS not the only use for used glass containers. Research now is under way on converting old glass to structural products such as bricks, insulating wool, tiles, rods, sheeting and light- weight aggregate for use in building low-cost housing and roads.

In cooperation with the University of Missouri-Rolla, Owens-Illinois already has paved one street with "glasphalt", a mixture of glass and asphalt, and is planning others.

Tie-Die Fashion News Comes From Ethiopia

Colorful tie-dye fashions from Ethiopia are making international fashion news, thanks to Peace Corps volunteer Stan Provus.

Two years ago, Provus organized 16 Ethiopian "street boys" in a cooperative to create the colorful African patterns. The co-op now has 150 members, including 40 lepers, who handmake all its products. The venture has grown from $100 of borrowed capital to $400,000 in sales.

Provus has found a ready market for the brilliant dashikis and caftans in Israel, Italy and England and more recently in the United States. During a recent visit to Washington, Provus found his fashions popular among girls on the Peace Corps staff — including the models above.

Provus says of his unusual Peace Corps project: "How are you going to get food into these people's mouths unless you help them create their own businesses?"

designer borrowed from the peasant look — and peasants should look so wealthy! Rich fabrics in bright colors went into ankle length dresses, worn with jewelled versions of the tie-on head scarf.

In another, he matched "wigs" with formal dresses, the wigs being head coverings of black net laced with bright flowers, the design of Vidal Sassoon.

SEYMOUR FOX, a house known for quiet elegance, played true to itself in its collection shown Wednesday. The firm showed hemlines the safe way, with suit and costume skirts at three inches or a little more below the knee.

The suit silhouette was strictly the safe Coco Chanel look, with narrow set-in sleeves, collarless jackets trimmed down the front, around the neck and ends of sleeves. Fringe trimmed in many cases, as did brass buttons on both single and double-breasted jackets.

ON BEING BLACK

Churches And Liquor Stores

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

The number of churches in the black community is equaled only by the number of liquor stores.

The churches range from the spacious, ornate structures to the one-room store-front tabernacles. Their major competitors — the liquor stores — come in another variety of physical structures, from a hole-in-the-wall in a commercial section to a modern, air-conditioned minimart right in the middle of a cluster of shabby houses. This neighborhood businessman's grand neon sign beckons the inhabitants for blocks around and generously lights the way to his spacious parking lot.

As with most of our society, churches and liquor stores have undergone some changes over the years.

REMEMBER WHEN liquor stores used to close at an early (respectable) hour and were not allowed to be open on the Sabbath? Today their doors seem always open, and no day is so sacred as to cause them to hang up that closed sign.

Today's local liquor stores sets at "steal" prices and suede coats and blonde wigs for less than a song.

The churches solicit members from every age bracket and every walk of life. Everyone is worth saving, thank heaven! And they often have a variety of souls to work on, especially on the days they offer free meals.

The liquor store also has an interesting clientele, to say the least. Unfortunately, they also cater to all age groups — including our children. Since it is illegal to sell liquor to minors, I think it should be illegal for them to patronize the liquor stores.

But the children are lured onto the premises by a variety of candies, soft drinks and comic books. While there they can observe the peculiar patrons, browse through the girlie magazines and see the local wino attempt to "palm off" some hot item in exchange for his daily bottle of wine.

Yes, churches and liquor stores we got — a lot! It makes one wonder which came first. Did the liquor stores follow the churches, salving the sinners who could not relate to religion? Or did the churches follow in the footsteps of the liquor stores in an attempt to wrestle the drinkers away from the devil?

Whatever the answer, it looks like both establishments will continue taking care of our spiritual needs.

join the churches in honoring such holidays as Easter and Christmas. As one proprietor stated, "I make more money on Christmas than I do all year long. Close? You gotta be kidding!"

The churches have recognized the need to offer members a variety of activities, in addition to those of a religious nature. They now attend to many community projects, such as using their facilities as social centers for young people and for many educational and political activities.

The liquor store has also extended itself. If you've visited one lately, you know that for a price, well above supermarket prices, you can get everything from baby formula to beef jerky.

IF THEY don't have what you want, they've got information about its whereabouts, either from the proprietor or a customer on the premises. I refer to such items as male or female companionship for a price, any and every drug, color television

Cooking Odors

Vinegar will do a good job of removing objectionable cooking odors from pots and pans. Pour a cup of vinegar in the pan and simmer for a few minutes. Then wash in the usual way. The pan should be odorless and fresh again.

Bicycle I.D. Gets Results

Almost 30 lost or stolen bicycles have been returned to their owners this year because they were registered with Marin Bike I.D., a service provided by the Peter Pan Chapter of the Children's Home Society.

For a small fee, the bike's frame number, color, make and owner's name and address are registered and a license is attached. Police departments have access to the records and a 24-hour answering service is maintained to keep them current.

Over 1200 bikes have been registered by the Peter Pan Chapter and PTAs in 11 schools. Registration forms are available by writing to Bicycle Identification of Marin at Box 1233 or calling the answering service listed under the same name.

DANCE REVIEW

Insight Lacking In American Classics

By MARIE RAMEAU

OAKLAND — It was, of course, refreshing to see the Oakland Ballet take a more classical trend last night. Unfortunately, in American ballet, classical excerpts are not usually approached with any degree of insight.

Due to atrociously unclassical costuming, the familiar "Sylvia" pas de deux was almost unrecognizable. Asta Arisa exhibited an outstanding extension and line but in unsupported passages appeared weak. Florin Lu-Ball demonstrated brilliant beats but low elevation.

The most that could be said of Miss Arisa's "Dying Swan" was that her costume closely resembled the original. Yet she looked more like a dragonfly and very much alive. Stiff arms and slow bourrees are merely technical shortcomings, but lacking emotional depth, her performance became shallow as well as rather rangy. Finally, although attributed to Fokine, this version did not even remotely compare with the pattern set by him for Pavlova.

"Les Lesquercardes," to music of Delibes, was notably inconsistent. The costumes were late Renaissance, while the music, composed in strict period style, was definitely Rococo. Sheri Jack was musical in the passepied, but the arrangement of the tableaux lacked the grandeur inherent in the score.

"Walk to Paradise Garden" was dated, being reminiscent of Martha Graham's "Appalachian Spring," already famous in the 1940s. The ballet generally lacked sophistication and was redeemed only by Anita Paciotti's elegant and sensitive artistry.

To anyone more than superficially acquainted with Far Eastern dance, Carlos Carvajal's "Peace" must remain distinctively Haight Street, and by this time even the theme deserves a long rest. His real originality emerged in "Chimera," premiered this fall with his own company, Dance Spectrum. Dianne Brock, however, missed the volatile temperament demanded by the title role.

Although the "Trois Gymnopedies" of Eric Satie have been overworked by innumerable choreographers, they again constituted the most effective segment of the program. Director Ron Guidi is only a competent dancer but nevertheless a fine partner as well as a talented and professional choreographer. Hence these were rich in mood and style.

The company will repeat the program today at 8:30 p.m., in Kaiser Auditorium at Oakland.

End Of Month Should See College Creek Work Finished

The Marin Junior College District board last night was told construction of Phase 3-A of the Corte Madera Creek flood control project, which runs through the heart of the College of Marin, will be completed in two weeks.

Dale A. Fleming, college planning director, told the board the concrete foot bridge spanning the creek at mid-campus has been poured and represents the final concrete work of the propect. Use of the bridge, however, is about a week away.

"I would have had a more up to date (written) report," Flemming told the trustees, "but the project is moving too fast."

He said placement of the sewer line adjacent the creek channel has proceeded to a point upstream of college property and backfilling of channel walls is now in progress.

In related action, the board accepted $50,026 from the Ross Valley Flood Control District as reimbursement for temporary and permanent rights-of-way adjacent the creek construction site.

The amount also includes an allowance for landscaping damaged as a result of construction work.

About $38,000 of the total will be used to finance the cement foot bridge and the remainder for screen plantings along the channel, the board agreed.

The Marin Junior College District Board Also:

EASEMENT — Approved unnimously granting a rectangular 52-square-foot easement to the Marin Municipal Water District for water connections to the science building.

EQUIPMENT — Authorized advertising for bids on about $101,000 worth of equipment for the new Harlan building now under construction.

TRAILER — Approved a proposal for funding by the Oakes Foundation of San Francisco of a mobile trailer for use by the College of Marin nursing students and faculty at Marin General Hospital.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a status report on a policy which would restrict future enrollment of students who do not receive credit in a sufficent number of courses in which they initially registered.

TOUR — Heard a report from board members on a tour of the science and Harlan buildings now under construction. Trustees expressed concern over security of the science building and the possibility that the Harlan building will not be completed on schedule.

TAX AND2 BOND — Expressed appreciation for newspaper and various groups' support of measures B and C on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Chancellor's Note Clears District Name

It took a letter from the chancellor of California Community Colleges to district trustees, but confusion ended last night over what the Marin Junior College District is to call itself.

For several months, some college staff and trustees have been referring to the district as the Marin Community College District.

Wrong, wrote the chancellor. The district will remain with the junior college designation until a senate bill allowing the name change becomes effective in late November.

If at that time the district wishes a name change, the chancellor wrote, the district must seek approval from the county board of supervisors.

Hit Tobacco Ads

BERLIN (UPI) — Health ministers of the State of the West German Federal Republic at a meeting here appealed today to radio and television stations to ban tobacco advertising as a danger to health.

VFW Appeals For Soldiers' Names

Tamalpais Post 72 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is planning to send Christmas packages to servicemen in Vietnam and Korea.

However, the post needs the names of local servicemen now stationed in the Far East by Oct. 29 so that packages can be mailed in time for Christmas delivery.

Persons who know servicemen stationed in the two countries should contact Fred Helberg, of 306 Las Flores Avenue, San Rafael, or Arthur Wedemeyer Jr. of 9 Chanticleer Avenue, Larkspur.

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and the Parents's Magazine unless otherwise noted. FAMILY

"On a Clear Day You Can See Forever" — Lively, entertaining musical with Barbra Streisand playing several parts, a Bronx college student, a London cockney guttersnipe and an aristocratic English lady. Good fun for the whole family.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Airport" — Outstanding star-studded cast in this gripping story of the workings of a large airport during a paralyzing blizzard. Builds up very intense and may be too exciting for younger children.

"Cheyenne Social Club" — Two carefree cowpokes inherit a bawdy house with six prostitutes. It is adult material masquerading as family fare. It lacks wit, taste and honesty.

"Downhill Racer" — A brilliant study of the development of a ski champion. Action sequences are complimented by story about the dynamics of sports competition.

"Molly Maquires" — Based on fact, drama is an episode in American labor history. Irish coal miners in 1876 resort to violence to protest oppressive working and living conditions. Harsh, exciting, well acted film.

"Monte Walsh" — That time in American history when Eastern progress came rolling over the old wild West. It is a seriocomic study of lonely dispossessed men with no job market for their skills.

"Patton" — Excellent characterization by George C. Scott who portrays an indomitable spirit that could achieve its destiny only in wartime. A strong film makes use of violence and frequent profanity.

"Sicilian Clan" — Head of a Mafia clan arranges a jail break. The contrast between their professional and personal morals is well dramatized. Film travels slowly over too familiar roads. English subtitles.

"Sunflower" — Emotional melodrama tells of a woman who travels to Russia after the war to trace her lost husband. What to do when she finds him is the core of the film plot. Well acted.

"Taste the Blood of Dracula" — At a Black Mass Dracula is resurrected and plans to bring vengance on the children of the men who killed him. Proceeding liberally sprinkled with blood and gore and shocks for the horror addicts. (Motion Picture Exhibitor Magazine)

"Tell Me That You Love Me Junie Moon" — Three people with crippling defects meet as patients in a hospital and decide to share a house when released and attempt to adjust to the world. Well acted.

"They Call Me, Mr. Tibbs" — Police detective assigned to investigate the murder of a prostitute must choose between a personal friendship and dedication to law enforcement. Explicit sex and violence makes film unsuitable for younger teens.

"Trog" — Well acted, British made science fiction tale about a lady scientist and a monster. Too much blood and gore for younger children.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cotton Comes to Harlem" — A cops and robbers story filmed in Harlem with an almost entirely black cast centers around $87,000 that was hidden in a bale of cotton. Sex, violence and gutter language are unstrained, story has strong realistic ethnic flavor.

"Goodbye Columbus" — Sophisticated, very frank comedy about a love affair between college aged couple which survives a dispute over the use of contraceptives, founders in the end on a choice of values.

"Lovers and Other Strangers" — Amusing well acted comedy about a couple who have been roommates decide to marry. Series of vignettes about their relative's marital affairs are intercut into the wedding preparations. Bedroom scenes crude and profanity abundant.

"Move" — A bawdy, insane comedy satirizing the life style of big city dwellers. The process of moving to another apartment forces a married man to reevaluate his life. Laced with sex, nudity and vulgar humor.

"Ned Kelly" — Bloody and violent film follows the trial of crimes committed by an Australian family of outlaws in the 1870's. Sympathy is thrown to the outlaws as they are pursued by police. Excessive gore.

"A Place for Lovers" — Story of an intimate affair between a beautiful woman, who is gravely ill and a chance acquaintance, set in glamorous wrappings. A tasteless party with pronographic slides and torrid sex scenes make it unsuitable for youth.

ADULTS ONLY

"Best House in London" — Set in Victorian London story deals with streetwalkers striking for a luxurious brothel of their very own. Profuse nudity and all kinds of sexual deviations in this bawdy farce.

"Guess What We Learned in School Today" — Free-form satire attacks hypocritical sex values by contrasting what people say with what they actually do. Great deal of nudity; sex and the humor is crude and tasteless.

"Joanna" — This British "La Dolce Vita" describes a world where personal license is completely accepted, then urges that life has a meaning and roots beyond self gratification.

"M-A-S-H" — Hilarious, subtle anti-war comedy of three army surgeons who develop outlandish life-style to survive the gore that passes before their eyes. Sex, nudity and profanity.

"Something For Everyone" — Well acted, good cast, magnificent scenery and elaborate settings make this macabre satire of sex, sadism and murder more palatable. A thoroughly evil young man gains control of an impoverished countess' estate by various methods. Surprise ending.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

EDITOR — Gregory Armstrong, editor of the prison letters of George Jackson, holds papers in hand as he addresses some 150 persons outside San Quentin Prison. Armstrong spoke at a champagne party yesterday heralding the publication of "Soledad Brother" Jackson's letters in book form.

A MISPLACED DECIMAL MAKES BIG DIFFERENCE

San Anselmo homeowners gagging at the prospect of raising an additional $621 for property taxes if measures E and F are approved Nov. 3 can thank a typographical error in yesterday's Independent-Journal for their discomfort.

The measure which would fund a new fire engine and street repairs would each mean an increase of $6.21 per year for two years to the owner of a $30,000 home, NOT $621.

Girl Re-Arrested For New Hearing

A charge of arson against Grace Patricia Halloran, 24, Novato, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court who felt there had not been enough evidence presented at a preliminary hearing.

Miss Halloran was promptly rearrested, however, by Deputy Dist. Atty. Ernest C. Zunino, who said that legal proceedings would start again. He said that he had additional evidence that he will present at a second preliminary hearing.

Miss Halloran is accused of setting fire to her home on Aug. 18.

Youth Commission Seeks To Fill Spots

Chairman George Kewin of Mill Valley announced that the commission will interview interested persons Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Catholic Social Services office, 179 Los Ranchitos Road, San Rafael.

Commission vacancies are in Supervisorial District 4 (Southern San Rafael, most of Larkspur and Corte Madera, and from Woodacre westward) and District 5 (North Marin).

Youths interested in serving on the commission may contact youth coordinator L. Charles Smith in Room 163 of the Hall of Justice, in the Civic Center.

The youth commission, composed of four adults and seven youths, has set up committees to study juvenile rights, student discount at movies, student involvement in political and civic activities and rotation of meeting places to encourage more public participation.

The commission also makes recommendation for $1,000 matching funds for new, creative youth programs. Groups that have qualified for this funding include Switchboard of Marin, Mill Valley Drop-In House, San Anselmo Coffee House and the Las Gallinas Revelation (an art cooperative).

Kentfield Fire Panel Sets Special Meeting

Kentfield Fire Protection District directors will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. Oct. 26 in the fire station.

Chief Kenneth T. Kamp said the board will discuss full-time hiring of a temporary fireman.

SOLEDAD BROTHER PARTY

Champagne Flows Outside Quentin

About 150 supporters of Soledad Brother George Jackson gathered outside the walls of San Quentin Prison yesterday to celebrate publication of a book of collected letters by the young black revolutionary.

The champagne corks popped like rifle shots and those assembled cheered a message from the guest of honor, unable to attend the reception since he is being held in San Quentin awaiting trial for the murder of a Soledad Prison guard last January.

The Cleaver-Newton-Jackson collective sincerely embraces you all," Jackson wrote. "We could not have struggled to this level without you.

He urged his followers to win over the silent majority to the revolutionary cause: "They are not the least committed beyond persuasion to fascist ideals. You can win them, prevent this thing from going out of control or race war will be the end of us all.

"All your energies should be oriented toward the breakdown of all, or at least the overt manifestation of racist psychology. That's a heavy task."

He concluded the message, signed "George from Dakau," by calling for "power to the people" and "war to the uttermost."

"Right on," shouted the audience, mostly young and white. Brief talks by Jackson's attorney Fay Stender and Gregory Armstrong, editor of the book, "Soledad Brother: The Prison Letters of George Jackson," followed.

Mrs. Stender accused prison authorities of being "determined to murder every remaining black witness to the Soledad murder."

Armstrong called yesterday's celebration one of victory over San Quentin, Soledad and the whole California prison system which 10 years ago set out to break George Jackson," but failed.

Following the speeches, the young people marched up to the prison gate as a guard inside the wall snapped pictures of them and other guards stood and watched.

"Free George Jackson," "Free the Soledad Brothers," "Free all the prisoners," the partygoers shouted in unison. "Smash the state," one young man cried and another called out: "Like Johnny Cash said, 'San Quentin, I hope you rot; you never did no good."

Most of the people remained in front of the prison for 30 minutes longer to talk, accept free copies of the new book and drink more champagne, then disbanded quietly.

Jackson and two other black former Soledad inmates, Fleeta Drumgo and John Clutchette are accused of killing a guard in January, three days after guards killed three black inmates during a scuffle in the prison yard.

Jackson's 17-year-old brother, Jonathan, shot and killed during the Aug. 7 attempted escape from the Marin Hall of Justice, is the recipient of many of the letters in the book. So is Angela Davis, accused of murder and kidnapping in the breakout.

Speedup Of Development Is Pledged

Efforts will be made next week to step up school development, the Old Adobe School District board heard last night.

Supt. Dean D. Magowan said an officer of the state allocations board will visit the district to review the fast growth of East Petaluma in relation to school needs. (See story page 1 on East Petalumans' bitter reaction to development)

Magowan said figures will be presented in an attempt to justify the construction of a complete 21 classroom school on St. Francis Drive rather than building it in phases as has been proposed.

It is hoped that the new Miwok Valley School will be completed for the fall of 1972. Magowan said final plans are nearly complete, but may be delayed by the state because of a reduction of employees in the plan check department.

"I'm doing everything I can to speed it up as much as possible," Magowan told the board.

The superintendent also reported that the six-classroom addition to La Tercera School is going according to schedule.

The Old Adobe School District board also:

DATA PROCESSING — Sent a letter to the Sonoma County Board of Education saying it saw little benefit from the data processing service because attendance accounting is more difficult and costly and test results are sometimes not received for two or three months.

ATTENDANCE — Heard Magowan report that average daily attendance of 1,425 students projected in the 1970-71 budget has already been met and will be well surpassed by the end of the school year.

PARKS — Heard Magowan report that he is working on a joint agreement with the Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission to develop a park area at La Tercera School. He said that Little League fields and landscaping of the school will be included.

Missionary To Speak Saturday

A two-day missions conference at the Mill Valley First Baptist Church will open tomorrow with an international buffet at 6 p.m. in Spangler Hall at the Church, 285 Miller Avenue.

Guest speaker will be Virginia Nickerson, missionary nurse to the Congo. Special music will be featured.

At the 11 a.m. service Sunday, Rev. Louis F. Knoll, a missionary to South India, will speak.

High School Girl Reports She's Beaten

A 16-year-old student at San Rafael High School was beaten and kicked in the face during what was described as a racially-motivated attack at the school yesterday.

Police said Kimberly Lockman of 145 Maywood Way, San Rafael, a white girl, was knocked to the floor in a girl's restroom in the school's math building and kicked several times by five to seven black girls.

Miss Lockman told police she knew her assailants as high school students, but refused to identify them, saying she feared reprisal.

Miss Lockman, however, received a large cut on her forehead, a skinned nose, a cut below the right eye and a swollen upper lip, police said. She said she would seek private treatment, according to police.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Trouble With Most Players Is That They Aren't Generous Enough

The trouble with most bridge players is that they aren't generous enough. They think only of winning tricks instead of giving tricks away. If that seems like a proper frame of thought for practical players, consider today's hand.

WITH ACE

Declarer took the first trick in dummy with the ace of clubs, observing to his partner: "If a couple of cards are right, we missed the bus." He hoped that West had three hearts headed by the queen and that East had the ace of diamonds, but the odds were about 10 to 1 against any such luck.

South drew two rounds of trumps, led the ace of hearts and continued with a heart to dummy's jack. East won with the queen of hearts and led the jack of diamonds, whereupon the defenders took three diamond tricks. Down one.

"Well, we didn't miss a slam after all," South admitted sheepishly. "With every card wrong, there was no way for me to make even game."

South could have made his contract if he had thought of the right trick to give away. See if you can find it before you read on.

GREEK GIFT

After taking the ace of clubs and two trumps, declarer should take both top hearts and then lead the ten of clubs from dummy. East plays low, and South discards his last heart, allowing West to win the trick.

Since West is out of hearts, he must lead diamonds, allowing South to win a trick with the king. If West led a club, instead, dummy would ruff while South got rid of a diamond. Either way South would make his contract.

If West could lead another heart, he would set up a heart card on the jack of hearts. And give dummy a heart trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ 5
♥ Q 10 9 8
♦ J 10 9 8
♣ 8 4 3 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts.

You have three points in high cards and should count three additional points for the side singleton. The total is just barely enough for a raise of partner's suit.

Two Are Arrested In Home Burglary

San Rafael police and a sheriff's deputy arrested Charles Gaines, 16, of 805 Rincon Way, Santa Venetia, and Nancy Ann Daniele, 16, of 213 Mirada Avenue, Los Ranchitos, about 20 minutes after a witness reported seeing two persons in the yard of 60 Circle Road at 2:27 p.m.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Oct. 16, the 289th day of 1970.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus and Jupiter.

Those born today are under the sign of Libra.

On this day in history:

In 1940 the United States banned all shipments of steel and scrap iron to Japan.

In 1969 the New York Mets, an expansion team formed in 1962, defeated Baltimore to win their first world baseball championship.

Nixon Decries Farm Bill Inertia

"I believe it will be resented by farm people throughout the United States," Nixon said in a statement Thursday. He accused the Senate of "callous indifference to the needs of the American farmer."

The compromise farm measure — with its historic limitation on pre-crop government subsidies to big farmers —had been accepted by the House but was still pending in the Senate when Congress recessed until after the November elections.

No Expose From The Royal Garden

LONDON (UPI) — Buckingham Palace said Thursday night it had banned publication of the memoirs of a gardener who tended the grounds at Queen Elizabeth's Sandringham estate for 17 years.

Entitled "Royal Gardener," the book was written by Horace Parsons, 66, who retired last month. His publisher, Priory Press LTD. said his reminiscences were "perfectly innocuous."

The palace said the memoirs violated a declaration signed by all royal employes not to write anything about their jobs.

Indiana Farmer Is National Titlist

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Merrill Kelsay, 21, of Whiteland, Ind., was named the 1970 Star Farmer of America Thursday night at the 43rd annual convention of the Future Farmers of America.

Kelsay, a crop and dairy farmer, received the $1,000 cash award and national recognition in a special ceremony.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Hearing Trouble Cause Victims Embarrassment, Mental Stress

With age, many people become hard of hearing (presbycusis) but refuse (for many reasons) to get a hearing aid. They miss much of what is said and cause considerable embarrassment to themselves and others. The person not only misses conversation directed to him but also snatches of discussions engaged in by others nearby.

Van Dellen

Oddly, the sufferer seldom complains about diminishing hearing and less so when it develops insidiously and remains unnoticed by himself and others. Many of those in middle or late life regard presbycusia (prez-be-ah-koo-se-ah) as a symptom of aging. They resist the suggestion that their efficiency may suffer. Some not only hide their handicap from others, but they themselves refuse to accept it. Some wait too long before seeking relief, and others never do.

REACTIONS to deafness are variable, and many unenlightened people still regard the deaf as dependent, peculiar, and sometime rediculous. The younger person seldom regards impaired hearing as a serious disability and is apt to think of it as a bit humorous. Even today a deaf character may appear in comedies whereas a blind person is found only in tragedies. Actually, deafness is a disability — a sensory deprivation.

The victim may be forced to change his occupation and readjustments are usually necessary. Sensitive persons may become suspicious or hostile; others develop feelings of isolation, insecurity and depression.

A THOROUGH ear examination is suggested whenever there is evidence of hearing loss. Never buy a hearing aid without first consulting the doctor. More than one person has done this only to find later that his aural deficiency is due to wax in the ear, or his type of deafness is not improved with an aid.

Since the most important aspect is the deaf person's attitude, family and friends should be sympathetic and encouraging.

BAD BREATH

G.M.C. writes: What causes extreme bad breath in a person? Mouthwash is used daily, along with regular brushing. Please advise.

REPLY

If your teeth are thoroughly cleaned with a toothbrush and you use a jet water spray, we can assume that the mouth is not implicated. Other possibilities include infection in the nose and throat, indigestion, constipation, excessive intestinal gas, and distention. The foods eaten also may be to blame. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

VITAMINS INDUCE HEADACHES

F.N. writes: I get a headache whenever I take vitamins. Would you know why this happens to me?

REPLY

You may be allergic to one of the ingredients in the pills or the material surrounding the capsules. If you are taking vitamin B complex, for example, it may contain nicotinic acid which dilates the blood vessels of the brain on the affected side. This could induce head pain.

ALLERGIC TO SMOKE

REPLY

I assume they are the same as those due to inhaling dust — asthma, headache, or a nasal congestion resembling hay fever.

$15,200 Received In Hunger Walk

About $15,200 of between $20,000 and $30,000 pledged to the Marin "Walk Against Hungar" had been received through yesterday, according tc an official of the Crocker Citizens Bank of San Anselmo.

The 20-mile hike Sept. 20 drew about 1,000 walkers who were pledged an average of $1 a mile, according to march organizers.

The bank is still accepting deposits for the walk which was to benefit the Marin Economic Opportunity Council, the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation and the South Korean campaign of Meals for Millions.

The deposits accompanying rejected bids will be returned upon execution of the leases by the successful bidder or upon expiration of the time allowed for award, whichever is earlier.

(g) The Board of Supervisors reserves the absolute right (1) to reject for good cause, in the Board's discretion, any of the bids submitted, (2) to award to the bidder submitting the bid determined in the Board's discretion to be the lowest bid submitted by a responsible bidder, or (3) to reject all bids submitted. Ex-Marinite Waging Bitter Judicial Race

I-J Special Report

DOWNIEVILLE — A former San Rafael attorney is involved in a superior court election campaign in Sierra County much more bitter than the contest for election to the municipal court in Marin.

Gordon I. Smith, district attorney of Sierra County, is challenging the incumbent, John F. Keane, for the county's only superior court judgeship in the Nov. 3 election.

Smith has run advertisements in the county's two weekly newspapers saying, "Let's have no more complaints to the state judicial council about Sierra County's superior court judge. Six years are enough!" The advertisements also urged Smith be elected because, among other qualifivations, he is "sober."

Judge Keane retorted with advertisements accusing Smith of a campaign "of slander and innuendo" and claiming there has been no complaint to the California Commission on Judicial Qualifications (which, rather than the judicial council, handles such matters) on Keane's performance as judge.

Judge Keane also claims that Smith has never brought a case to trial as district attorney, instead always arranging a guilty plea "either to lesser charges . . . or possibly because of a promised recommendation by the district attorney of a light sentence." In the only case brought to trial before Judge Keane, he claims, Smith turned over prosecution to the state attorney general.

Smith, who was a deputy district attorney in Marin County in 1950-52, served briefly once before as Sierra County Superior Court judge.He was appointed to a vacancy in that court by Gov. Goodwin . Knight in December 1957, while still practicing in Marin but after establishing a legal residence in Downieville.

The following year, Smith was defeated for election to the judgeship. He subsequently ran successfully for district attorney.

In October 1965, he was charged with failure to file federal income tax returns for 1959 through 1962. He first pleaded innocent, but changed the plea to no contest to a charge of failure to file for 1961 only, and was fined $2,500 and given a year's suspended sentence by Judge Lloyd H. Burke in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

A proposal to turn the Sleepy Hollow Stable property into a private high school was rejected by a 30-28 vote last night at the quarterly membership meeting of the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association.

Merritt A. Robinson, association president, said the rejection came in a resolution requesting the Marin County Board of Supervisors to deny the school a use permit "since it is the established policy of the homes association to form a community services district and purchase the property for recreation."

Robinson said an endorsement of the school proposal on Oct. 1 by the association board was withdrawn by the board at a special meeting Sunday in light of the association's previous resolution to purchase the property for recreation.

The school proposal called for a coeducational school with a maximum of 160 students on about a third of the 15.5-acre parcel, with one-third held in its natural state as an ecological preserve and the remainer in parking, athletic fields and tennis courts for school and community use.

Following the rejection of the school plan, the association membership agreed to begin circulation of a petition for formation of a community services district.

Also discussed last night, Robinson said, were plans for a state assembly and senate candidate's night at 7:45 p.m. next Thursday. Five of the six candidates have said they will attend, Robinson said, but the association has not heard from William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, a resident of Sleepy Hollow.

The candidates' night is cosponsored by the San Anselmo Homes Association and San Anselmo Senior Citizens.

ABAG Panel In Reluctant Backing To Health Funds

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The Association of Bay Area Governments executive committee last night reluctantly endorsed a bid by the Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council for $372,964 in federal funds for its 1971 planning program.

The committee, however, first tacked on proposed controls to assure the planning program will conform to ABAG's own regional plan, passed several months ago. The controls, urged by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum, also would give ABAG power to review the planning program as it progressed.

The committee's comments were to be passed on to the federal government for its consideration in funding the planning program. The program includes preparation of a land use plan, which already has been done in ABAG's plan.

The Bay Area Comprehensive Health Planning Council has spent 1 million in the past two years, and to date has produced by-laws, an organizational structure, and the proposed planning program, according to an ABAG spokesman.

(Wornum and other Marin supervisors have been sharply critical of the council's arm in Marin, objecting mainly that it is a nonelected agency empowered by the federal government to decide what health programs should be funded, as well as when and where.)

The executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments also:

BOLINAS — Endorsed Bolinas Community Public Utility District's application for a $412,680 grant toward a sewage treatment plant, but urged tight control on development of the Bolinas Mesa. The sewage system "will greatly facilitate urban development of this area," the committee cautioned.

PROPOSITIONS — Endorsed Propositions 1 and 20 on the November ballot, but tabled a motion to endorse Proposition 18, which would allow diversion of highway taxes to rapid transit and smog research. Proposition 1 is a $250 million bond issue for sewage facilities and Proposition 20 is a $60 million bond issue for recreation and wildlife facilities for the California Water Project.

BCDC — Ratified Tiburon City Councilman Branwell Fanning's selection of Belvedere City Councilman Merritt K. Ruddock as his alternate to the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission. Fanning is one of ABAG's four representatives on the 27-member commission.

ROHNERT PARK — Endorsed the City of Rohnert Park's application for a $79,300 grant toward a $176,000 project to improve the city's water system. One deep well will be drilled, and a 300,000 gallon storage tank built.

One Hurt In Two Crashes On The Span

A 26-year-old Sausalito man was slightly injured and five vehicles, including a tow truck and a California Highway Patrol car, were damaged in two accidents on Golden Gate Bridge today.

The patrol said the chain of events started at 12:30 a.m. when a northbound car driven by Edward C. Wagner, 34, of 192 Golden Hind Passage, Corte Madera, stalled near midspan.

Officer Kenneth Parker of the highway patrol arrived and told Wagner he would push his car to the north end of the bridge. As he was preparing to do so, another vehicle, driven by Michael B. Goodbody, 26, of 445 Sausalito Boulevard, Sausalito, struck the patrol car in the rear pushing it into the Wagner vehicle.

Goodbody was taken to Mission Emergency Hospital in San Francisco and treated for cuts and scrapes.

Meanwhile, a bridge tow truck arrived and parked behind Wagner's car. As it was preparing to tow it away, an auto driven by Joseph Cresci Jr., 38, of Petaluma, ran into the rear of the truck.

Cresci was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of drunken driving and held in lieu of $360 bail to appeal this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

100 Entrants For Boat Parade

About 100 entrants are expected in Sunday's Marine Autumn Festival boat parade on the San Rafael Canal, the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce said yesterday.

About 50 applications have been received and another 50 are expected before the parade of decorated boats begins at 1 p.m. the chamber said.

The boats will be competing for nine trophies which will be awarded for the best holiday theme, most unique design and best over-all decoration, the chamber said.

The parade is open to all boat owners, who may pick up applications at the Lazaret, 243 Third Street, San Rafael.

Did Not Claim

Patricia Lawler Coy, 46-year-old Strawberry woman charged with making a false report of planting a bomb at the Hall of Justice last Friday, did not claim to be responsible for the real bomb on Oct. 8 as erroneously reported in Wednesday's Independent-Journal.

Judge Rules No Testimony By Jackson

George Jackson of the Soledad Brothers will not be called as a witness in the trial of a former San Quentin inmate in Marin Superior Court, according to a ruling made yesterday by Judge E. Warren McGuire.

The jury hearing the case of Tommy Lee Walker, 25, had earlier been told by defense attorney Robert Birkie that Jackson, brother of the youth who brought guns into the courtroom of the late Judge Harold J. Haley, might testify.

Judge McGuire, however, after hearing arguments outside the presence of the jury, said he would not allow Jackson to testify for several reasons.

First, he said that Jackson was not at San Quentin on Aug. 15, 1969, when Walker is accused of assaulting two guards. Second, although Jackson and Walker have known each other in prison, there are other inmates who will be called as character witnesses that have spent more time with the defendant.

Third, the judge said that producing the brother of young Jonathan Jackson, instigator of the Aug. 7 shoot-out, might prejudice the jury against Walker.

He allowed the defense permission to call five other prison inmates as witnesses, but said they will be brought to the hall of Justice two at a time.

A jury in the Walker case was finally selected at noon yesterday and the trial was to get under way today.

Midday Run Of Tiburon Ferry Is Cut

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Midday ferry service between Tiburon and Fisherman's Wharf has been discontinued, a spokesman for Harbor Carriers acknowledged here yesterday.

Cut Wednesday were the weekday 11 a.m., 12:50 p.m. and 2:50 p.m. trips from Tiburon and the 10 a.m., 12:15 p.m., 2 p.m. and 3:45 p.m. trips from Pier 43 at the wharf, the ferry company official said. Other scheduled trips will continue, he said.

"There is just not enough traffic there to warrant it," the official said. "You can't go around carrying two or three people."

Those riding the red and white boats Friday received notice of the deletions, the spokesman said, but others who hoped to use the ferries at those times were not informed.

No notice was given to San Francisco or Marin newspapers after the state Public Utilities Commission approved the schedule changes Friday.

Bus feeder service for the Tiburon ferry will not be affected since it is geared to the commute ferries, said Donald White, transit director for the Golden Gate Bridge District.

He said the district would consider replacing the service using district ferries if Tiburon and the Marin County Transit District agree to subsidize it.

The Harbor Carriers spokesman said the midday service has been dropped only for weekdays. The fate of the equivalent weekend trips will be decided Nov. 1, he said.

Realtors Board To Hold Dinner

The Marin County Board of Realtors will hold its 50th anniversary dinner Oct. 23 at 8 p.m. at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant in San Rafael. The dinner will be preceded by a 7 p.m. cocktail hour.

Among highlights of the event are a musical spoof entitled "Realtor on the Roof," and three talks on the past, present and future of the board of realtors by executive manager Dan Deedy, board president W. Bruce Shafer and Donald Beacock, a Corte Madera realtor.

Injuries Minor In Motorcycle Crash

A 24-year-old San Rafael man who complained of faintness following a motorcycle accident in San Rafael said he would seek private care, according to police.

William La Frenz Arfsten of 540 D Street also suffered a cut on the head and scratches on his arms and hands when the motorcycle on which he was riding crashed at 5:58 p.m. on Lootens Place near Fifth Avenue, police said.

THE PUBLIC PAYROLL

San Rafael School Outlay

Salaries of public employees have been the subject of strong debate this year in budget sessions throughout Marin, at meetings of the board of supervisors, at meetings of city councils and of school district and special district boards.

Employees and their representatives, pleading for large pay increases, cited the rising cost of living and often argued that more money was paid in other counties, cities or districts for similar work.

Few employees got as much as they requested. Most local agencies granted more than they were willing at the outset.

The 1970-71 payrolls of all local agencies in Marin as of the start of the new fiscal year, July 1, are being published by the Independent-Journal during the next few weeks as a complete accounting of what is now paid public employees and as a basis of comparison from agency to agency.

League For Seven Propositions

The League of Women Voters is urging "Yes" votes on seven of the 20 state propositions on the Nov. 3 ballot. It has not taken a position on any of the others.

Central and Southern Marin Leagues of Women Voters announced today they are taking no positions on local ballot measures, but are joining in support of the seven endorsed by the state league. These are:

Propositions 1 (clean water bonds), 9 (permitting appointment of county schools superintendents), 14 (civil service), 15 (assorted minor constitutional revisions), 16 (constitutional convention), 17 (eliminating meaningless section of construction), and 18 (permitting use of 25 per cent of highway taxes for rapid transit).

Trio Named To Postal Panel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed into law a measure authorizing the government to spend $733,000 to help Atlantic and Gulf Coast states research ways to fight the jellyfish and other aquatic pests.

The money is the remainder of an original $2.25 million authorized three years ago. Most of the help so far has gone to Maryland and Virginia for work in the Chesapeake Bay area, but states such as New Jersey, Florida and Mississippi also have a share in the program.

'Coffin' Bank Looted

Ranch Hand Acquitted Of Beating Horseman

A jury of eight women and four men deliberated only about two hours before acquitting a Sacramento ranch hand of the beating of a former Novato horseman on March 29.

Found innocent was ex-convict, James Marquis Jr., 37.

He along with another ex-convict, Pierre Jon Hall, 30, also of Sacramento, had been accused of savagely beating and kicking Dallas Wyatt, 36, former operator of The Atherton Stables

The district attorney's office has maintained that Novato horsetrader Danny Leroy Sedgwick, 30, had hired Hall and has maintained that Novato horsetrader Danny Leroy Sedgwick's allegedly crooked horse dealings.

Sedgwick is still awaiting trial on six charges of fraud stemming from horse sales as well as one of felony assault.

Hall earlier pleaded guilty to assault and has served a six-month jail sentence. He did not testify at Marquis's trial which was held before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court.

Wyatt, however, now a guide in Idaho, took the stand to describe the beating but said that it was too dark to see which man hit and kicked him.

Wyatt after the beating, which took place at the stables he formerely leased from Sedgwick, feigned unconsciousness. He then ran to his house, picked up a rifle and fired at his assailants' departing truck.

Marquis and Hall were arrested later in Sacramento where they were being treated for bullet wounds in a hospital.

Series Argument Leads To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Police said an argument over the World Series led Thursday to the shooting death of an elderly man and the arrest of his roommate.

Homicide inspector Dave Toschi said an argument erupted while the two men were watching the World Series at their home.

Toschi said Arterberry allegedly hit Robinson over the head with a baseball bat and Robinson retaliated by firing one shot from a revolver. Robinson refused to give police a statement regarding the incident.

United Crusade Halfway To Goal

The United Bay Area Crusade campaign has now gathered $8.1 million towards its 1970 goal of $16.8 million.

Accurate figures of the amount given by Marinites are unavailable because the crusade does not break down donations by counties, according to Grace Lewis of the Marin office of the crusade.

However, Don Gillis, chairman of the Marin Commerce and Industry Committee of the drive, said Marin's 124 largest local companies have reached 51.8 per cent of the goal of about $45,000.

Gillis announced that the Independent-Journal has raised its contribution 69 per cent over last year to $2,580; E. D. Bullard Co. has raised $5,200; and Redwood Bank has the highest average donation at $75 per employee.

Everything Goes Right For Brooks Robinson

BALTIMORE (UPI)—It was a World Series in which everything Brooks Robinson did was right.

Even when he was called out on strikes in the eighth inning of Thursday's final game, it seemed like the perfect opportunity for the Orioles' fans to cheer him on his way back to the dugout, and they did.

Robinson won the Most Valuable Player award by a mile. Afterwards, he remained his calm, phlegmatic self, but still was moved to call it "the greatest thing that ever happened to me."

"This makes up for everything. There's a lot of satisfaction and pride involved in bouncing back to win it," Robinson said.

"When you feel that you had the best club and didn't win it, like last year, it's a long wait to get it back."

For a year, the Orioles had lived with the memories of last year's World Series five-game loss to the New York Mets and, though they rarely spoke of it, it was on their minds.

"It was a long winter for us last year and I didn't want to go through another winter like that," said first baseman Boog Powell.

"You know what would have happened. It would have been the same thing. We would have to listen to people all winter asking what happened to you guys against the 'Big Red Machine?' Well, we have a machine of our own."

Robinson — 1 for 19 in last year's Series — had nine hits in the Series, scored five runs and led his team with six RBI's. He made defensive gems in each of the first three games and scored the winning run in the first two.

"Robinson dominated the Series," said Sparky Anderson, the losing manager. "He deserved to win the Most Valuable Player award unanimously."

After the Reds won for the only time Wednesday in the fourth game, Robinson said he would not have been terribly distressed for Baltimore to blow the Series.

"I'd be able to live with it," he said at the time, and Thursday he celebrated with the same attitude.

Wearing a black t-shirt and his uniform pants and with his arms folded across his chest, Robinson faced the press. Someone thought he didn't look happy enough for a World Series winner, and asked him.

"No, I'm pretty happy" Brooks said. "It's a personal thing with me. There's a lot of satisfaction."

Robinson said he didn't notice the fans cheering him after his eighth-inning strikeout "because I was so mad about striking out."

"I heard 'em, but it didn't ring any bells," he said.

Mark Belanger, the Orioles' shortstop, said Wednesday's setback made Baltimore that much more alert Thursday.

"There were some thoughts in my mind, yes, about last year," he said. "I think that's why we shook it up so much today, bore down harder. Today, we'd get a run, and everybody would say let's get another, let's get five, six, 10.

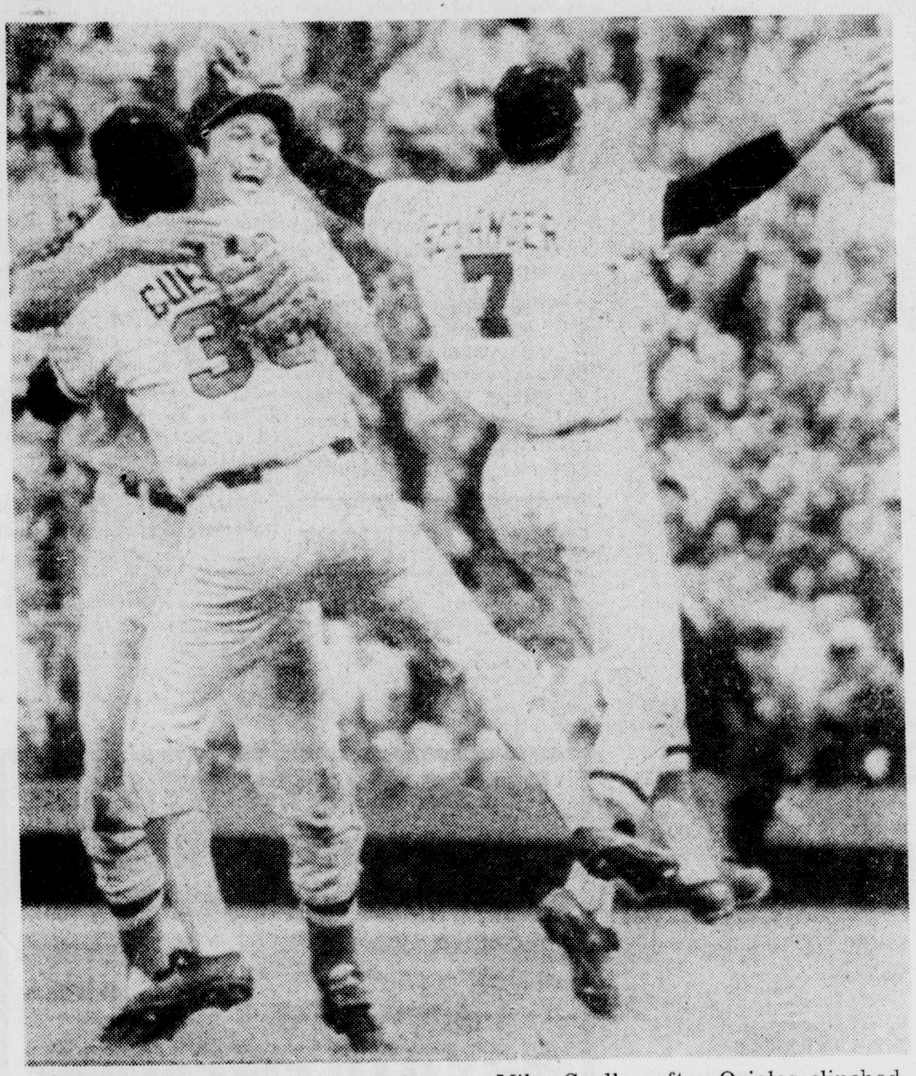
"As soon as we got the run, we forgot about that and were thinking 'let's get more.'"

All the Baltimore players admitted last year's series weighed hard on them in this year's.

"After last year, I think we dedicated ourselves to making up for it," said Frank Robinson. "No one said anything out loud, but I think we all were thinking to ourselves."

Added Belanger:

"I think we all had something to prove."



VICTORY DANCE — Mark Belanger danced around while Brooks Robinson hugged winning pitcher Mike Cuellar after Orioles clinched the World Series with a 9-3 victory over Cincinnati yesterday.

CONGRATULATIONS — Losing manager Sparky Anderson rubs third baseman Brooks Robinson's head as he congratulates the Baltimore star following the Orioles' World Series victory over Cincinnati. Robinson was voted the Most Valuable Player of the Series.

Shuttling Linemen Pays Off For 49ers

Dick Nolan readily acknowledges that the 49ers have an unusually high number of eight defensive linemen in ends Tommy Hart, Bill Belk, Cedrick Hardman and Stan Hindman, and tackles Charlie Krueger, Roland Lakes, Earl Edwards and Sam Silas.

"But," said the 49er coach, "we decided to keep all of them because each has some quality we like. "It's been very beneficial so far."

Indeed, it was very beneficial in last Sunday's 20-6 upset of the Rams as Nolan and his defensive lineaide, Paul Wiggin, kept shuttling the defensive linemen in and out of action.

"Quite often we shuttle them in pairs," said Nolan. "It gives them additional rest and it makes difficult any good reading on a particular position along our front."

Roman Had A Problem

There is no doubt that Roman Gabriel's problem of reading a potential forward wall weakness in the 49er defense was complicated by the constant shuttling. Best evidence of this is the fact the Ram quarterback was sacked three times attempting to pass and couldn't get one touchdown drive coordinated.

"Hart, Hardman and Edwards are young, strong and quick and like to blast in on obvious passing situations," said Nolan. "Belk, too, is a good young one who has learned to analyze a play quickly.

"Krueger is our old warhorse in his 12th season who leads by example. The young fellows have great respect for his ability and that of Lakes, Hindman and Silas in setting the pace."

Nunley Is An Eager Man

"Nunley is the holler guy of the unit, very enthusiastic and eager," said Nolan. "When he circulates before a game, getting guys up and belting them, I a real assett."

Nolan described his backfield defense as a unit that has learned to work together, knowing each other's responsibilities, strengths and weaknesses.

"Jim Johnson and Rosey Taylor are the steadying influence in the backfield," said Nolan. "Jim ranks with any defensive back around today. Rosey, at free safety, allows Johnson and our rookie Bruce Taylor to gamble once in awhile on the corners because he's like a bullet and they are confident he will back them up.

"Mel Phillips, now our regular strong safety, is capable of playing all three backfield spots."

San Marin Vs. Drake In Novato

San Marin High School, coming off a tough loss to crosstown rival Novato High, will try to bounce back tomorrow afternoon against Drake High in a 1:30 Marin County Athletic League football game on the Novato High School field.

The Mustangs of the north will be without the services of offensive lineman Mike Trahan who must sit out the remainder of the season. He's in a body cast, suffering a ruptured disk in his back.

"Sure, we had a tough loss (17-13) to Novato last week," said San Marin coach Bob Martin, "but I expect the kids to bounce back. We had a good practice week."

Martin feels the Mustangs' strong point is right behind the line. "Linebackers Tom Fowler and Jack Burnam have been doing a good job all year," he said.

The San Marin-Drake game will be broadcast over KTIM.

In the other MCAL action, Terra Linda goes against Novato tonight at San Rafael High, 8 o'clock, and Tamalpais clashes with San Rafael tomorrow night at 8, also at San Rafael. The other MCAL team, Redwood, will be at Burlingame High for a non-league game tomorrow at 1 p.m.

Marin Catholic hosts St. Elizabeth's of Oakland at 2 p.m. tomorrow. In games tonight, Petaluma High is at Napa in a North Bay League I game and Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park hosts Analy of Sebastapol on the Petaluma High School field.

Pop Warner Grid Teams In Action

First place Terra Linda, with three victories and a tie on its record, battles Redwood tomorrow at Redwood's field in Larkspur in the Marin County Pop Warner Football League. Gametime is 1 p.m. Redwood has one win and one loss in two previous league tilts.

In a non-league game tomorrow, Drake hosts Daly City at San Anselmo starting at noon.

Garrett Goes To Chargers In Trade For Draft Choice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Mike Garrett, the former USC Heisman Trophy winner who has already announced he was giving up football for baseball, will be playing his last season for a new team — the San Diego Chargers.

Garrett was traded by the Kansas City Chiefs yesterday to the Chargers and in exchange the Chiefs will get the Chargers' No. 2 draft choice in 1971.

Chiefs' coach Hank Stram said he made the trade for three reasons.

"First, Mike had previously stated this would be his last year in pro football and that he would pursue a baseball career at the end of this season. Second, our running backs have developed to a point where they will give us the continued efficiency and consistency that we are seeking. We are fortunate to have both quality and depth at the running back position in persons like Warren McVea, Wendell Hayes, Bobby Holmes and Ed Podolak.

"And third, we had an opportunity to obtain a second-round draft choice for Mike. I felt that opportunity would not be available after the season."

Stram added:

"We'll always appreciate the great contributions Mike has made to our team. And, we wish him front-page success with the San Diego Chargers."

Garrett was the Chiefs' No. 5 rusher through the first four games this season, with 68 yards on 21 carries. He had been sidelined much of the time with injuries.

Tars Have Hands Full Against West Valley

"We expect to have our hands full," said College of Marin football coach Dick Read today as he prepared his Tars for tomorrow's opening Camino Norte Conference game with West Valley College of Campbell at Kentfield.

It may have been the understatement of the year for the West Valley team from the San Jose area is the sixth-ranked junior college team in California. Undefeated in four games, the Comets have piled up 156 points to opponents' 41.

Marin, on the other hand, has only one victory — last week's impressive 39-13 decision over San Joaquin Delta College of Stockton — to show for its efforts in four games.

For those who like to compare scores, consider this frightening statistic: Marin lost to San Jose City College, 20-14, this season while West Valley bombed the same San Jose team, 53-14.

"We may be throwing quite a bit," said Read, who admits running against the formidable West Valley club may be quite a struggle.

Kickoff is 1 p.m.

VS. TERRA LINDA

Novato's Challenge

Novato High School's football team will be taking on champion Terra Linda tonight in a game that coach Al Scott says "we have to win to stay alive in the league race."

The Marin County Athletic League clash will be on the San Rafael High School field, kickoff at 8 o'clock.

Novato has a one-win, one-loss record going into the game, while the Trojans of Terra Linda, trying for their fifth straight title, are 2-0.

Scott said he felt the Terra Linda team is not as strong as past Trojan teams and voiced surprise that seven and eight of the starters play both offensive and defensive positions.

GOOD SHOT

"I think we have a good shot at Terra Linda," Scott said. "We're lacking consistency offensively, but we're going to be ready for this one." With guard John Johnston back, Scott said his team will be healthy for the Terra Lindans.

Terra Linda coach Don Lucas is expecting a tough game from the Hornets.

"They haven't put a complete game together yet," he said, "and I hope their first one isn't against us. They've got one of the better defenses in the league."

MAIN CONCERN

He said the Trojans' main concern on defense will be Novato's sparkling quarterback Marty Moroski, the league passing leader with 227 yards so far. "If Moroski gets time to pass, we're in trouble," said Lucas.

Terra Linda lost halfback Bruce Kassab for the rest of the season when he suffered a fractured right leg in a non-contract drill Wednesday. Defensive back Kevin Purcell will be out for two more weeks with injuries and quarterback John Buckley is still nursing a leg injury.

Larry Kerr again will fill in for Buckley. Kerr is a Mr. Do Everything for the Trojans, being used at guard, tight end, fullback, tailback, and now quarterback.

MacKay In Upset Over Ashe

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Topseeded Arthur Ashe was eliminated by unseeded Barry MacKay of Ross, 7-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the second round of the $25,000 Thunderbird Open tennis tournament Thursday.

MacKay is scheduled to meet Charlie Pasarell, the No. 2 seed, today. Pasarell advanced to the quarterfinals with a 6-4, 6-4, victory over Richard Russell Thursday.

Marin Catholic 'C' Cagers Romp Again

Rich McCarthy scored 12 points and Mark Sanguinetti contributed 10 to lead undefeated Marin Catholic High School to a 63-23 victory over Terra Linda yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League Class C basketball game at Terra Linda.

Marin Catholic places its 5-0 won-lost record against second place Drake's 5-1 mark next Tuesday in a key game at Drake, 4 p.m.

T. Jeremiah Beam. Part of the Beam family art for 175 years.

Son of the famous Col. Jim Beam, T. Jeremiah is the fifth generation of the only Kentucky family that's made the same Bourbon since 1795. As a matter of fact, 1970 marks the 175th anniversary of the year that Jacob Beam, founder of the Beam clan, sold his first barrel of Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey.

That's a mighty long time for one family to make one product, according to one formula.

So the next time you sip Jim Beam, savor its quality and its light taste. That's what we mean when we say it's a 175-year-old family art.

ALL-TIME RECORD

Plunkett Goes For The Mark

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Some time during the second half at Spokane, Wash., Saturday Jim Plunkett, the son of blind parents, will give college football something to look at for years to come.

For if form holds, Plunkett, the gifted Stanford quarterback, should have piled up 214 yards by the second half in the Indians' game against Washington State, and when it happens Jim will become college football's all-time total offense champ, moving a yard past Steve Ramsey, who set the record at 6,568 for North Texas State a year ago.

Since Plunkett runs more than many quarterbacks and passes from 35 to 40 times a game, he could take the record in his five remaining games to a point where it might never be broken.

273.2 AVERAGE

Plunkett, who passed up a chance to play pro football this year in order to help Stanford get to the Rose Bowl, has been averaging 273.2 yards per game this year, and against such teams as Arkansas, Purdue and Southern California, so his figures are for real.

"I'm not interested in records as such," Plunkett said earlier in the week while getting ready for Washington State. "Sure, everyone likes to set records, but to me getting to the Rose Bowl still is the big thing."

Stanford, which defeated Southern California last week and leads the Pacific 3 Conference with a perfect 2-0 record, is a whopping 20 point favorite over Washington State, which is 0-1 in the conference and 1-4 overall. The Indians have only an upset loss to Purdue in five games.

USC HOME

Southern California, now 1-1 in the league, plays at home Saturday night, hosting a Washington Husky team which was upended last week by California. The Huskies, who saw four of their teammates quit Thursday, are 0-1 in the league and 2-2 overall. USC is 3-1-1 overall and last week's loss dropped the Trojans to 12th in the national rankings while Stanford moved from 17th to ninth.

The Trojans, 17 point favorites, face in Washington's Sonny Sixkiller a quarterback who throws the ball from anywhere on the field. Coach John McKay, still miffed at the loss to Stanford, says his team will have to stop Sixkiller to win "and I don't care what the odds are."

UCLA, which lost to Oregon, 41-40, on three fourth quarter touchdowns last Saturday, hopes to get back into the league race against California, perhaps the most unpredictable team in the West.

The Bruins, who go against Stanford next Saturday, are only two point favorites over the Golden Bears. Both teams are 1-1 in the conference with UCLA 3-2 overall and California 2-3.

NON-CONFERENCE

Oregon, second in the league standings with a 3-1 record and 3-2 overall, and Oregon State (0-2 and 3-2) play outside the conference this Saturday — the Ducks hosting Idaho and the Beavers going to Texas to play Houston, which is tied for 15th with UCLA and Tennessee. There is no line on the Oregon game but Oregon State is an 18-point underdog to Houston.

In the Pacific Coast AA, San Diego State, tied for 19th in the rankings, hosts San Jose State and is an "out" favorite.

Four Penn Gridders Quit Team

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Ron Dawson, the leading ground gainer on the University of Pennsylvania football team, quit the club Friday along with three other players.

Shooting

Horse Racing

SAN MATEO (UPI)—Oct. 15 will go down as one of Roy Yaka's biggest riding days.

The Nisei jockey booted home five winners at Bay Meadows Thursday to move into the thick of the race for leading rider honors. He now has 29 victories to his credit.

Golf

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Would you believe 71 strokes under par for 54 holes of golf? That's what Ernie Ivaldi of Hayward, Calif., racked up to win the first Reno Invitational Amateur Golf Tournament.

Play in the Harrah's Hotel-sponsored event, by the way, was on a best-ball basis.

Basketball

Bob Rule, the Sonics' smooth 6-9 center, agreed to undisclosed terms Thursday, thus ending a sometimes bitter dispute with the National Basketball Association team.

Rule had sought a $75,000 plus "incentives" contract—up from his previous salary of $28,500—and the Sonics offered $80,000.

IT WAS THIS BIG, UMP

Baltimore first Baseman Boog Powell, looking much like a fisherman explaining the size of a lunker that got away, loomed over diminutive umpire Emmett Ashford during ninth inning dispute yesterday. Argument was short lived and Orioles went on to win the World Series, four games to one, with a 9-3 victory yesterday.

BLUE FLAME SPUTTERS

On The Edge Of Success

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS (UPI)—A valve broke under the stress of repeated attempts at the world land speed record by the Blue Flame and stalled the racer Thursday on the very edge of success.

Gary Gabelich drove the rocket to a history-making 609 miles per hour and the 6,500 pound racer had been turned around for the second leg of the record attempt, when the valve snapped loose.

The world land speed record is taken from the average of two runs—one in each direction on the Bonneville Speedway. The record challenger must make both runs in the space of one hour.

Craig Breedlove's jet car, "Spirit of America Sonic I," set the current record at 600.601 m.p.h. in 1965. Breedlove's fastest one-way time was 608 m.p.h.

The Flame was fueled and poised on the track. Crew members were bringing full pressure to its tanks when the hose broke loose, spraying hydrogen peroxide over the 38-foot racer's sleek nose and sending up dark clouds of smoke.

Crew members Mark Neevbauer and Ken McCarthy were hit by the peroxide, but neither was seriously injured, according to project manager Dean Dietrich.

Following a conference with Pete Farnsworth and Dick Keller, chief builders of the natural gas industry racer, Dietrich said it would be a minimum of three days before the Flame could be ready again.

'Golden Seals' Home Opener

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ice hockey's most stylish young superstar comes to the Oakland Coliseum tonight in the home opener for Charlie Finley's green and gold drenched California Golden Seals.

Young Bobby Orr, a defenseman who doesn't let the backline position inhibit his scoring ability, challenges the Seals along with the remainder of the National Hockey League champion Boston Bruins.

Orr is the most colorful member of a bruising Boston team, which looks every bit as tough as the one which won the Stanley Cup last season.

Boston's most effective frontline threesome is composed of the smooth-shooting Phil Esposito at center, flanked by playmaking Fred Stanfield and long-haired, brawling Derek Sanderson. Of the three, Sanderson offers an additional contribution with his superb backchecking.

The biggest changes among the Seals are with their uniforms and name. Formerly dressed in green and white, Oakland now wears green and gold, even down to their skates, under the new ownership of the zany Mr. Finley, who yesterday also announced the team has officially changed its name to the California Golden Seals.

Coach Fred Glover, incensed at Oakland's dull performance last season, made several changes without instituting a complete overhaul.

Carol Vadnais, Ted Hampson, Bill Hicke, Earl Ingarfield, goalie Gary Smith and Harry Howell still are the leading veterans. In addition, Ron Stackhouse, Ernie Hicke (Bill's brother) and Tony Featherstone lead a corps of youngsters who see plenty of ice time.

Boston won its first two games. The Seals lost their initial pair. Bill Hicke, however, says Oakland will improve as the season moves on.

"We're bigger, better, more seasoned and should be more exciting," Hicke says. We'll be in the hole right away against the established NHL clubs, but this may have an advantage in getting us some tough team experience early. We're not going to back away from anybody."

FISH AND GAME

Chasing Those Bucks Is Mighty Strenuous

By AL GIDDINGS

RAVENDALE, Lassen County — Here it is Wednesday and I'm sitting under a tree watching six sage grouse getting a drink at a spring near our camp. It's a rest day, cleanup day, time to take a bath.

The World Series, fourth game, is about to start, and we've just learned that Baltimore won the first three.

But about yesterday!

After we left the duck hunting area at Honey Lake we proceeded up to the Ravendale area, where wife Mary and I teamed up with Howard Leach of Sacramento and Jack Schaule of the same area, planning to give the bucks another go.

Mary, who killed a three-pointer at Webber Lake, is somewhat restricted to camp, though she has provided a cottontail rabbit dinner for tonight. Last night we had venison chops from her buck and the night before we had 10 ducks. This is the life, man!

THE BUCKS? They are tough! The first day we were hunting in flat sagebrush country that just goes on and on. I would say that I walked eight miles seeing one doe and one rattlesnake. It was hot, so I took a back pack filled with food and sodas. None of us saw any horns.

The next day we hunted a mountainous area, but again I saw only two does. I did see 31 antelope, one flock of sage grouse, two flocks of chuckars, two flocks of quail, about 30 ducks in a reservoir, one coyote, five cottontails, and a heck of a lot of lava rock and sage.

Yesterday we tried another area and after hiking two and one-half hours away from the jeep, I suddenly jumped two does. Then four more, and as I'm looking at them I see a tremendous buck watching the deer, but not me. He was about 600 yards away so I sat down until he walked over the ridge, than I took off after him. I finally got to where he crossed and I had a mild case of buck fever! Then I crossed over but couldn't see him.

I TRIED to figure where he should be, but after trying all the likely spots, I realized he was gone. I sat down, drank a coke, ate a candy bar and continued downhill. Leach and Schaule were supposed to meet me at a spring at 3 p.m. but they didn't show so I started walking toward the jeep, and made the mistake of looking back.

There was the big buck and eight doe walking along the ridge about a mile and a half back. I've got to try it all over again, and I'm already exhausted, and one shoe is falling apart, and Bruno, the dog, is pretty footsore from walking from one rock to the next all day, but here we go!

THE DEER got in some trees, with the wind right for me. I got up to where I thought I might get a shot, but again I got buck fever. Where are the deer? They've moved another 500 yards up the ridge, and I can go no more!

I found a rock for taking a sighting rest and get two shots at the buck, but the last I saw of him he was leaving my part of the country.

SO TODAY I'm soaking two blisters and giving Bruno a rest. But Schaule and Leach? Ha! They're out there fighting the heat, rocks and sage, but they will be in the area of a buck which is all those two need to walk all day.

DUCK SEASON opens tomorrow for all you Marin Countians who hunt locally. This year the limit is seven birds per day, seven in possession. San Pablo Bay shooters are restricted to taking but two canvasbacks.

If you travel and transport four ducks, the law requires that you either keep a full wing or the head on the carcass for identification.

MARY AND I were sorry to have to leave Lee and Betsy Fey, the Lebber Lake keepers. The cold weather was just putting the waters in shape for some big browns and brookies. Last year on Oct. 23 I caught an 8½-pound brown out of Webber. So if you're looking for a mountain trip, give Webber a try. It's 26 miles from Truckee in iSerra County. I may see you there.

Black Tie Warriors In Opener

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bay Area basketball diehards get a chance to wear formal attire tonight when the San Francisco Warriors open their National Basketball Association schedule.

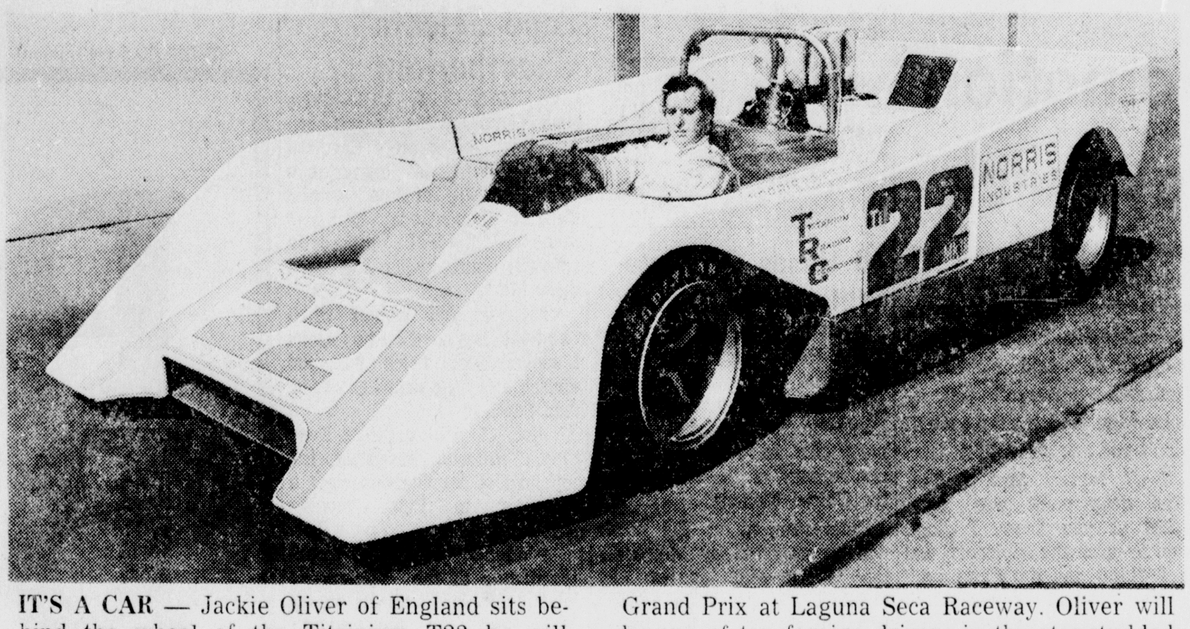
In the season starter at the Cow Palace, the Warriors will host the Detroit Pistons, who come into town with last year's top draft pick, Bob Lanier of St. Bonaventure.

Franklin Mieuli's annual Black Tie affair will be preceded by dinner.

The Warriors finished the 1969-70 campaign in sixth place in the Western Division with a 30-52 record. However, under Al Attles this year, the club ran up a 5-4 pre-season record while displaying good team speed—something critics said was lacking last year.

San Francisco's probable starting five will include Nate Thurmond at center, slimmed-down Jerry Lucas and Bob Portman at forwards and Jeff Mullins and Pritz Williams guards.

Saturday night, the Warriors move to the Oakland Arena to face the expansion Cleveland Cavaliers. That will be followed by the season's first road trip—to Baltimore, Atlanta and New York.



IT'S A CAR — Jackie Oliver of England sits behind the wheel of the Titainium T22 he will drive in this weekend's $76,000 Monterey-Castrol Grand Prix at Laguna Seca Raceway. Oliver will be one of ten foreign drivers in the star-studded field.

NHL ROUNDUP

Buffalo Sabres Have Shell-Shocked Goalie

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Before the season began, Punch Imlach, the coach and general manager of the expansion Bufaflo Sabres, said, "We'll need superior goaltending to win."

Imlach is getting that type of goaltending from Roger Crozier but he must have forgotten to tell the rest of the Sabres they'll have to score a few goals to win a few games.

For the second straight night the Sabres dropped a 3-0 decision, the latest one to the Montreal Canadiens Thursday night. Twenty-four hours earlier, they lost to the New York Rangers.

Crozier, who is rapidly working up to a case of shell shock, turned aside 50 shots by the Canadiens after stopping 44 the night before against the Rangers. In Buffalo's three games thus far, Crozier has allowed a respectable seven goals but his mates have supported him with only two, both in the Sabres' 2-1 season-opening victory over Pittsburgh.

Yvan Cournoyer tallied two of Montreal's goals as the Canadiens posted their third win of the young season without a loss. The game was witnessed by a sellout crowd of 60,331 at the Sabres' home opener.

Elsewhere in the National Hockey League, Chicago edged Detroit 2-1, Minnesota topped Pittsburgh 4-2 and Philadelphia shaded Vancouver 5-4.

Chicago, which is expected to have easy pickings in the West Division this season, upped its record to 3-0 as Bobby Hull and Pit Martin slipped second period goals past Red Wings goalie Roy Edwards. Rookie Tom Webster tallied an unassisted goal early in the first period for Detroit's only score.

Walt McKechnie connected for the three-goal hat trick in leading Minnesota past Pittsburgh. The Pinguins had a 2-0 lead on first period goals by Dean Prentice and Wally Boyer before McKechnie tied the game with a pair of scores only 2:45 apart midway through the second session. Danny O'Shea scored the tie breaker at the 10:15 mark of the thrd period and McKechnie closed out the scoring four minutes later.

Serge Bernier's two goals, the first of his NHL career, helped Philadelphia to its second win in three games and sent Vancouver down to its fourth loss in five cutings.

49er Receiver Minus 2 Teeth

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Preston Riley will start again Sunday for the San Francisco 49ers, but minus a couple of front teeth.

Wide receiver Dick Witcher is recovering from a slight shoulder separation but probably will see some action. But Riley, who has filled in well, will open when the Frospectors host New Orleans at Kezar Stadium.

Defensive end Stan Hindman is out of Sunday's game while his knee mends while linebacker Dave Wilcox and guard Randy Beisler are still question-marks. Big fullback Ken Willard was shaken up last week at Los Angeles, but he'll be 2 back blasting the New Orleans line.

Sports Editor Gets His Ferarri

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—Hack Miller, sports edittr of the Deseret News of Salt Lake City, Thursday was officially presented his $20,000 new Ferarri for shooting a hole in one during the three-day Harrahs Hotel Invitational Golf Tournament.

Miller got the hole in one Wednesday, but had to wait until play ended Thursday to be sure of winning the car. If someone else had shot a hole in one, the winner would have been determined by a roll of the dice.

Special features you'll enjoy:

Half a century ago a small group of San Rafael merchants and professional men founded a chamber of commerce, an organization that has been linked with the city's history through war and peace, good times and bad times. An extensive story of the chamber's history by Dorothy Gardiner is featured Saturday in the Independent-Journal's Marin Magazine. When the chamber was founded San Rafael was a small town of 5,512 with the Hotel Rafael, a 400-room building, its main tourist attraction. Hitching posts and water troughs lined Fourth Street and the streets were lighted by electroliers. Through the years, the changes came, the opening of the Golden Gate Bridge, the establishment of Hamilton Field and the World War II activity at Marinship which led to a post-war development of Marin and its county seat, San Rafael. In recent years, the former Freitas Ranch blossomed into a community of homes, industry and business, and the chamber, after a few rocky years is girding for future progress.

A hillside in Drake Highlands near Tomales Bay isn't the most likely site for gardening, but Capt. L.F. Teuscher, a Navy veteran, has transformed it into a well-manicured showplace of hundreds of native plants. Scenes of the garden are spread throughout the center of the Marin Magazine.

Strange Case Of Promotion Without Boost In Paycheck

By WAT TAKESHITA

The strange case of a Marin County employee, who had worked for 14 months without realizing she had been promoted, was revealed yesterday before the Marin County Personnel Commission.

Audrey (Rey) Collins, draftsman in the county planning department, asked for back pay for the 14 months during which she worked as draftsman 1 when she should have been getting pay as draftsman 2. The total difference comes to about $1,000.

Personnel commissioners heard evidence from Mrs. Collins and Personnel Director Maren Rinne and set a special morning meeting at 7:30 a.m. next Wednesday, Oct. 21, at the Civic Center to decide on Mrs. Collins's case.

Mrs. Collins explained that this is what occurred:

In June 1969, she worked as draftsman 1 at a salary of $633 per month. She had asked for, and former Planning Director Paul C. Zucker had recommended, a promotion to draftsman 2, which would have paid $700 per month as of July 1, 1969.

On July 1, all county employees got a 5 per cent raise. Mrs. Collins got her $666, a 5 per cent raise at her old classification of draftsman 1. She assumed that the supervisors had not changed her classification and continued working until August of this year, when she learned by chance that the county supervisors had authorized a promotion 14 months before.

"I don't know when or where the mistake was made," said Werner von Gundell, who is now county planning director. "But whatever the error was, it was not committed by Mrs. Collins."

John F. Barrows, assistant county administrator, said the only explanation he can see is that Zucker, who got the reclassification authorized by the supervisors, did not follow through with necessary paper work to raise the paycheck for Mrs. Collins.

He said he is reluctant to support the back pay for Mrs. Collins because it could set a precedent for retroactive pay. "Fourteen months after an alleged clerical error occurred, a person wants back pay. How far back does retroactive pay go? I'd hate to see this precedent established."

Mrs. Rinne, personnel director, explained that when the county supervisors reclassify a position, the department head must send a reclassification form to the payroll department before a higher paycheck is issued.

Commissioners were perplexed that Mrs. Collins would wait for 14 months without asking what had happened to her reclassification. "You knew the reclassification had been recommended," said Robert B. McCreadie. "Weren't you curious what had happened? Didn't you ask about it?"

"No," replied Mrs. Collins. "The department was under stress as you know. I didn't want to upset the applecart, and so I didn't say anything." (County supervisors were critical of the planning department under former director Zucker, and Zucker later ran unsuccessfully against Supervisor John F. McInnis.)

Mrs. Collins was promoted both in pay and classification to draftsman 2 as of Sept. 1 this year and now draws $753 per month. She seeks retroactive pay as draftsman 2 from July of 1969 through August of 1970.

40 Heads Of State Will Attend Dinner

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House says 40 heads of state and their wives have so far accepted President Nixon's invitation to a formal dinner party Oct. 24 to honor the 25th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations.

Entertainment at the affair will be provided by Metropolitan Opera star James McCracken and his wife, Sandra Warfield. Nixon will address the world body in New York on the day before the dinner.

Pope Selects Chamberlain

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI named his French-born secretary of state, Cardinal Jean Villot, as camerlengo (chamberlain) of the Roman Catholic Church today. The post means Villot will temporarily rule the church when the Pope dies.

The post fell vacant when Cardinal Benedetto Aloisi Masella, who twice ran the church after the death of popes, died Sept. 30

Villot, 65, will arrange Pope Paul's funeral, assemble the conclave of cardinals to elect a successor to Paul, receive condolences from foreign governments, seal the papal apartments at the Vatican, St. John in Lateran and Castelgandolfo, and run the Roman Catholic church until a new pope is named.
